ROOSEVELT HAS PLAN TO REOPEN CLOSED BANKS

Proposes to Release Seven Billions.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt made it known today that he is about to take further important steps in his program for boosting price levels without resorting to outright inflation of the currency.

He expects to announce next week a project for the reopening of the 5,000 closed banks of the country and the release of more than 7 billions of dollars of frozen deposits. Inflationists like Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] hold that such action will be equivalent to an increase in the volume of money and will operate like inflation of the currency to raise prices.

Mr. Roosevelt told the press at the conference this afternoon just before he departed for a week-end cruise that upon his return to the White House Sunday night he will receive Secretary of the Treasury Woodin for a discussion of the banking and monetary program. Mr. Woodin, who is in New York, will return to the capital tomorrow night.

Pressure for Inflation.

That the pressure of the agrarian and other groups for currency inflation will enter into the White House discussion is generally regarded a foregone conclusion. Mr. Woodin is opposed to inflation and at present is exerting his influence in the opposite direction—that is, toward an early stabilization of the dollar and other world monetary units through limitations of exchange fluctuations effected by the central banks of the leading commercial nations acting in concert.

The disclosure that an administration committee headed by Mr. Woodin has recommended dollar stabilization, the antithesis of inflation, is believed in some responsible quarters to have been a potent factor in the decline of prices on the stock and commodity markets this week.

Try Other Plans First.

The President looks on currency inflation as a dangerous expedient, to be resorted to only in desperation, according to the information percolating from the White House. He is going to try every other known expedient first, including some that are virtually inflationary in character, in the effort to put up prices further and keep them up.

So long as the government is able to borrow at moderate interest rates the huge sums required to finance the recovery program, now involving 8 billion, and a possible 12 billion dollars, the treasury will be under no necessity of inflating the currency to pay current expenses. The credit of the government is still good, though there are apprehensions in some quarters that it may not long continue so.

Congress May Take Hand.

Mr. Roosevelt now has a little more than three months to devote to experiments to defeat the economic laws governing the depression before congress reappears on the scene to take stock of his stewardship. If by January he shall not have succeeded in ameliorating conditions to pretty general satisfaction, congress is not unlikely to cut loose on a program of forcing currency inflation.

Just now the expedient the President views with most hopefulness is the reopening of the closed banks. The project is to reopen those banks which are solvent but not sufficiently liquid to meet the present requirements for reopening, and the President has been informed that these banks constitute a very large proportion of those now closed.

To make these banks sufficiently liquid they need more capital. To provide the additional capital Mr. Roosevelt proposes to proceed on the principle of federal relief of the idle. The community in which the closed bank is situated will be asked to subscribe the additional capital. To the extent that a community is unable to provide the full amount required the R. F. C. will furnish the deficiency through purchase of preferred stock of the institution.

Cotton Loans Planned.

The President announced his approval of another recovery project, involving further government aid to cotton planters, the details of which were later made public by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. The government is to lend planters ten cents a pound on the crop still in their hands, contingent upon pledges to reduce their acreage next year to the extent designated. The contemplated reduction is 15 million acres. Mr. Roosevelt had no idea what the cost of this project would be to the government.

A PECULIAR SANTA CLAUS

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME TO END AT 2 A. M. TOMORROW

Chicago's clocks, assuming that their owners keep up with the times, will be set back an hour tomorrow. Officially the change from daylight saving to central standard time goes into effect at 2 a. m., but in practice those who retire earlier to their slumbers should move back the hands of their timepieces in the evening.

A movement to extend daylight saving time through October, given approval by the city council judiciary committee last week, was abandoned after railroads, banks, and brokerage houses had protested the continuation would make trouble, as New York goes back to standard time tomorrow. School children, it was held, also would be inconvenienced.

Suburban train schedules will be readjusted to accommodate workers' hours. Those trains which have been operated on daylight saving will follow the clock, while those which have been operated on central time will be set back an hour, in general. Some changes will be made in through train schedules.

32 Hr. Week Is Temporary Plan of Ford

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Henry Ford, the country's biggest holdout from the NRA, moved today to place his 50,000 employés—now working 40 hours a week—on a work week to comply with the 35-hour maximum provided in the NRA automobile code which Ford has not, and, it is indicated, will not sign.

Employés were notified that, beginning Monday, they will be placed on a 32 hour week, but company officials indicated that after six weeks the 40 hour week would be resumed for such a period as will provide average employment at the rate of 35 hours a week. An official announcement is expected next week.

Plans 35-Hour Average.

"Mr. Ford intends to conform with the code by working his men an average of 35 hours a week," said one official, declining the use of his name. "He does not intend to violate the code."

This bore out previous advice from an authoritative source that Ford, who has remained uncommunicative as to his stand on the national recovery act, feels he can conform fully to the code provisions without the formality of signing and obtaining the Blue Eagle.

The Ford minimum wage already is above the 43 cents an hour minimum demanded by the NRA automobile code. Officials of the company have stated that the "lowest wage we would consider paying to any Ford employé" is 50 cents an hour. Workers in the production lines recently were given increases in hourly wages, raising the minimum pay to $4.40 a day from $4, and the company indicated that similar increases will be given to nonproduction workers within a short time.

Silent on His Views.

Although officials have stated that Ford is "only too willing to work for recovery," the private feelings of the motor magnate regarding President Roosevelt's entire recovery program never have been made known. He has consistently declined to be interviewed regarding his position, although many weeks ago he said that if he signed the NRA automobile code he would have to "live down" to it.

Meanwhile the hiring of 5,000 world war veterans, authorized by the Ford company, continued at the headquarters of the American Legion in Detroit. Only Wayne county (Detroit) veterans are being accepted for the positions. Two thousand men have been recommended for positions with the Ford company.

GOTHAM PLEADS FOR BANK LOAN OF 72 MILLIONS

But Bankers Demand Economy First.

Burden of Cities

Debt plight of nation's large cities told by mayors in conference in Chicago, and pleas are made for federal aid to lift burden. Details on page 6.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—New York City's desperate financial plight and its pressing need for 72 million dollars was the subject of another prolonged conference between high officials of the state and city and leading bankers of Wall street at the home of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman on Park avenue this afternoon.

Nothing definite whatever was accomplished so far as could be learned.

After four and a half hours of discussion behind closed doors the governor made this brief statement:

"We had a long conference. We will have another one Monday afternoon. I can make no comment on what happened."

This is all he would say. The bankers would say nothing—none of them. Mayor O'Brien insisted that "everything must come from the governor," but modified his reticence enough to say with a hint of defiance:

"The city's tax program will go through 'as is' so far as I know."

Deadlock Is Indicated.

In view of the determined insistence of the bankers that the city must wield the economy ax on its expenditures instead of saddling further heavy taxes on property owners already bled white, this declaration of the mayor was interpreted by some to mean that the negotiations had come to a deadlock.

Earlier in the day the mayor had announced at city hall that he would sign the new tax bills designed to raise some 40 million dollars to be used ostensibly for relief of the city's idle, following a hearing on Monday. He intimated, however, that he might be willing to accept "certain amendments," a hint which was construed to mean that the proposed 4 cent tax on stock transfers and the 1½ per cent tax on brokerage profits might be modified. His more direct statement after the conference made it look as if he had met the bankers' economy ultimatum with a point blank refusal to recede one iota from his original stand.

Bankers Remain Adamant.

Meanwhile, the bankers appeared just as adamant as ever in their refusal to lend the city "another nickel," to say nothing of the 72 million dollars so urgently needed if the municipality is to meet its nearby obligations, including those of three pay days between now and Nov. 1, and stave off bankruptcy until the end of the year.

Demands for immediate and radical retrenchment as the only means of averting the threatening disaster continued to come forth from such important business men's organizations as the Merchants' association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Realty Owners' association, and the citizens' budget commission.

Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, was one of those attending today's conference, but he had nothing to say regarding the exchange's plans to transfer a proportion of its business to Jersey City.

Governor's Hand Seen.

One guess was that Mr. Whitney had been invited at the instance of the governor, who is not at all inclined to let 30 million dollars or more of state revenue disappear, as would happen if the regular state stock transfer tax had nothing to feed on.

Other conferees included Chairman J. H. Perkins and President Gordon Rentschler of the National City bank; Arthur M. Anderson and George Whitney, partners in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Jackson Reynolds, president of the First National bank; H. C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust company; Jonas Anderson, vice president of the Chase National bank; B. A. Tompkins, vice president of the Bankers Trust company; Frank L. Polk, counsel of the New York Clearing House association; Samuel Untermyer, voluntary financial dictator of the city, and City Controller George A. McAnen.

Relief for Busted City?

Various proposals for the temporary relief of the "busted" city came forward during the day of troubled negotiations, formal and otherwise, but just how many of them, if any, came up for discussion at the governor's

LINDBERGHS LAND AT LENINGRAD; ATTEND OPERA

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Leningrad at 1:48 p. m. today. They were greeted by Gregory Weinstein, representing the commissariat of foreign affairs, and by local air officials. There was no public excitement because the Russian public has never heard of Col. Lindbergh.

The Lindberghs went to the Hotel Astoria. Tomorrow they will go sightseeing. Col. Lindbergh also will confer with the Arctic institute about the northern air route. Tonight they attended the opera "Don Quixote."

Col. Lindbergh declared that he would like to fly to Moscow, but is somewhat uncertain about the landings for a seaplane there and en route. He said he and his wife were in Russia as "private citizens on a purely personal trip for their own interest."

48 U. S. MILLIONS AND BETTER GOLF IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A conference in Mayor Frank Shaw's office resulted today in the mayor signing the city council application for $48,162,263 of federal funds, to be expended in Los Angeles public improvement projects.

Members of the city board of education also conferred today with Col. E. A. Evans, assistant engineer on the public works administration for California, and outlined a $20,000,000 public school construction program, which it is hoped locally will be financed by funds from Washington.

Bank of Mexico Withdraws Its Support of U. S. Dollar

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Bank of Mexico made known today that it has withdrawn support of the dollar, which continued its gradual decline to close at 3.50½, a fall of 4½ centavos since the beginning of the week. It was said the bank would allow the peso to find its level against the dollar in accordance with economic factors, and would not intervene further in the market except to prevent speculation.

Prussia Dissolves Berlin's City Council; 1,200 Lose Jobs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—Berlin's 1,200 city and borough fathers suddenly found themselves without jobs tonight. The Prussian government announced it had dissolved the city council and 20 borough councils. The tasks of the city council will be carried out by a committee of 25 members. The duties of the borough councils will fall upon local officials.

Fugitive Seizes Auto in Road; All Missing

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—An escaped prisoner who fired without provocation at a woman filling station operator was at large somewhere in Tazewell county tonight after commandeering an automobile in which an unidentified man, woman and child rode. Fears were expressed by authorities for the safety of the trio.

The prisoner, whose name was not learned, escaped from custody of Henry Donnewald, a Clinton county deputy who had arrested him for carrying concealed weapons. The man escaped after filching the deputy's revolver from a holster as the deputy started to jail him at Carlyle. He disappeared among a tattoo of bullets after stealing the deputy's parked automobile.

Fires at a Woman.

The man appeared a few hours later at the W. O. Gollady filling station one mile west of East Peoria and there ordered gasoline from Mrs. Gollady. He tossed a purse to her for payment and when she opened it she discovered there was no money in it. She protested and the man suddenly opened fire on her.

She dodged and escaped injury. Albert Thomas, Springfield, a visitor at the Gollady home, procured Gollady's revolver and answered the fire. The man drove away. His car plunged into a ditch and the man jumped out to confront W. A. Reynolds, standing beside his own parked machine.

Automobile Is Crippled.

He forced Reynolds at pistol point to drive him to Pekin and then to Kingston Mines, where a bearing burned out in the car. He then ordered Reynolds to block the highway with his machine and halted the first car to appear.

The car contained a man, woman, and child. The man covered them with his revolver and made them drive away with him. Late tonight no word had been received from the trio.

Arrested at Carlyle.

Carlyle, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Henry Donnewald, Clinton county chief deputy sheriff, was slightly wounded today when a prisoner he had arrested on a concealed weapon charge pulled the deputy's revolver from his holster as he opened the door to the county jail and shot him in the arm.

The man was arrested after a gasoline filling station attendant became suspicious of his actions when he drove up to the filling station and requested to do some work in exchange for gasoline for his motor car.

Deputy Donnewald found a dagger in the man's car and immediately placed him under arrest. The assailant's automobile, which is in possession of authorities, has a Pennsylvania license number 880-S-793.

HOSPITAL STAFF HUNTS CURE FOR SLEEPING GIRL

The condition of Patricia Maguire, who has been in a coma for nearly twenty months as a result of sleeping sickness, was one of the subjects of a staff meeting held last night at the West Suburban hospital in Oak Park. Miss Maguire was moved from her home at 523 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, to the hospital, where X-ray pictures were taken of her. They will be studied by physicians in an effort to obtain conclusions that will assist in combatting the disease. Permission to move her was obtained from her parents by Miss Maguire's physician, Dr. Eugene Traut. The principal speaker at the meeting, which was called to discuss sleeping sickness, was Dr. Peter Basso, well known neurologist and consultant physician at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital.

GANGSTER CHIEF IS HUNTED FOR POLICE KILLING

Gets 199 Years

Tony Rocco, holdup killer of policeman, found guilty and sentenced to 199 years in prison as war on crime is continued in Criminal court. Details on page 2.

From a mass of conflicting and vague clews as to the identity of the men who held up and robbed four federal reserve bank employés early yesterday, and then killed a policeman while escaping, the police last night segregated one that seemed clear and unmistakable.

It linked Gus Winkler, north side gang leader, bank robber, public enemy and pal of the notorious Fred [Killer] Burke, to the gangsters who took two sacks of mail from the bank employés and poured their fire upon Policeman Miles Cunningham rather than have him question them after their automobile had collided with another at Adams and Halsted streets.

Order Arrest of Winkler.

The information that caused police officials to send out a command for the immediate arrest of Winkler was furnished by Joseph Bergl, owner of an automobile sales agency at 5346 Cermak road, Cicero. Bergl is being held at the detective bureau and Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker wrote on the arrest slip: "Book for murder if an attempt is made to get this man out on a writ of habeas corpus."

Bullet proof glass on the automobile which the killers abandoned in the street after shooting Cunningham gave the police the first lead that brought Bergl into custody—that and a telephone number scribbled on a bit of paper found in the car.

The phone number was that of the West Town Auto Body Service company, 4610 Washington boulevard. At that shop the police found Joseph Courtney, an employé, who admitted without quibbling that he had equipped the gangsters' car. Bergl, he said, had sent the owner to him and he had done the job as requested. He also put a police siren, red and green front lights, and a short wave radio set in the car.

Mentions a "Joe Miller."

When Bergl was taken by the police he maintained that he did not know the identity of the car owner, or owners. He denied also that he had sent this man to Courtney. He mentioned, however, that he once had a salesman named Joe Miller and that it seemed to him Miller had said something about getting Courtney to bulletproof a car for one of his clients.

Questioning him more closely, the police got from Bergl admissions that Winkler, who has been regarded as the big alcohol boss of the north side since the killing of Ted Newberry, was once his partner in business.

"He gave me this watch chain last Christmas," said the auto sales agent, proudly displaying the article, which sparkled with diamonds.

But, he added, he had not seen Winkler in a long time, because the latter is avoiding Chicago and one of the vagrancy warrants that have sent a number of his kind to prison.

Examines Bergl's Books.

When Bergl's books were examined they disclosed that his patrons included many of the more prominent hoodlums, including Three-Fingered Jack White, Jimmy Adducci, and Frank Nash, Oklahoma outlaw who was killed in the Kansas City union station several months ago when a gang of his friends tried to rescue him. Four officers were slain in the same battle.

"Find Winkler," was the order of Chief Schoemaker. "Whenever outside crooks of the worst type come to town they seek him out for help here. If he wasn't in on the job he knows who was. I believe this fellow Bergl knows them, too."

Besides Bergl, the police last night were holding Charles Phillips, owner of a garage at 3818 West Roosevelt road. They had learned the car which the mail bandits wrecked and abandoned was purchased in the name of J. J. Rosenberg, who gave the Phillips garage as his address. Phillips declared he did not know Rosenberg.

Because the investigators were satisfied he had told all he knew they released Courtney, announcing a belief he had installed the bulletproof glass as a business deal. He said the man who took the car to him paid $358 for all the work done on it.

Throughout Chicago and the middle west police were watching for the five killers but no trace was reported of them. When last seen or heard from they had seized the automobile of Nicholas Campobasso, 3621 Auburn avenue, at 21st street and Ashland avenue. One of their automobiles they left at the scene of the robbery, the engine running and the exhaust spewing a cloud of smoke to screen their escape. The other car, which had a similar arrangement for creating a smoke screen by shooting oil into the exhaust, was left at the scene of the Cunningham killing, after it had been wrecked in a collision.

Federal reserve bank officials said the loot was of little or no value. The mail taken was not registered or insured, they said, and consisted of two sacks of ordinary mail, one sack containing periodicals and the other letters that probably contained checks or non-negotiable securities.

Bandits Get Poor Tip.

Government officials said whoever gave the tip to the criminals regarding the time of the mail transfer should have known the two sacks would not contain currency. The two bank messengers had called at the United States courthouse for the sacks and were using a small hand truck to convey them to the bank a block away, protected by two guards.

Suddenly the bandits appeared, armed with machine guns, and seized the two sacks. After the wreck of their car at Halsted and Adams streets the desperadoes transferred the loot to an auto which they commandeered from F. W. Knowles of Park Ridge and escaped.

In the car left behind where Cunningham was killed there was found a first aid kit containing cocaine, catgut for sewing wounds, anti-toxin and other materials which led to the belief that one of the bandits is a physician. At least one of the five was known to have been injured.

Mayor Kelly yesterday expressed deep sympathy with the widow of the slain policeman. He announced he would visit the Cunningham home at 4731 Kiona avenue. Mrs. Cunningham is to receive a pension and $5,000 voted by the city council for the families of policemen killed in the line of duty.

FAIR VISITOR SHOT IN HOLDUP DIES OF WOUND

Robert H. Stephens, 31 years old, a visitor to the World's Fair from Des Moines, Ia., died last night in Holy Cross hospital of a bullet wound inflicted Thursday evening when he walked into the Mandel drug store, 6161 South Kedzie avenue, as four bandits were robbing the place.

Stephens had gone to the drug store with William Peterson, 3115 West 61st street, with whom he had been staying, to make a purchase. The robbers motioned the two newcomers into line with three clerks and another customer who were standing with hands raised against a counter.

After taking $2 and a watch from Stephens one of the gunmen insisted he was holding out. The robber shifted his revolver from one hand to the other and plunged his free hand into Stephens' inside coat pocket. As he did so the weapon was discharged, the bullet striking Stephens in the abdomen. The robbers fled after taking $50 from the cash register.

POLICEMAN WHO SHOT ROBBER IS PRAISED BY JUDGE

Police Sergeant James Fitzgerald, who interrupted a robbery and shot and captured the holdup man, was commended for his alertness and marksmanship yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in the Felony court. The robber, Thomas Burke, 48 years old, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000 on charges of robbery with a gun and assault with a deadly weapon. Burke is alleged to have taken $10 in the restaurant of Emil Baitman at 3032 Cottage Grove avenue on Aug. 6. Emil Sims, a colored employé in the restaurant, was wounded when he appeared during the robbery. Sergt. Fitzgerald, summoned by a neighboring merchant, halted Burke by shooting him in the leg as he fled.

SIXTH POLICE KILLER GUILTY; GETS 199 YEARS

17 Sentences Imposed in War on Crime.

Tony Rocco, 24 years old, west side hoodlum, was convicted last evening by a jury in Judge Charles P. Molthrop's Criminal court of the murder of Policemen Maurice Marcusson. His punishment was fixed by the jury at 199 years in the penitentiary. The prosecution had asked for the death penalty, but the jurors, it was reported, at no time considered the electric chair.

The verdict last night makes a total of six slayers of policemen convicted since the war against crime started soon after Aug. 1 by Judge John Prystalski, who was then chief justice of the Criminal court. Three police killers have been sentenced to the electric chair and three others, including Rocco, have been sentenced to 199 years in prison.

17 Prison Sentences Imposed.

While the jury was debating the fate of Rocco the Criminal court judges now working under the leadership of Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan, imposed 17 penitentiary sentences, including that of Rocco, to bring the total up to 317 since the crime campaign started. The results of the day were by far the most important since the new group of judges took up the campaign in the Criminal court on Sept. 4.

The Rocco jury took exactly two hours to determine the punishment for the slayer. Judge Molthrop took one minute to overrule the defendant's motion for a new trial and impose immediate sentence. The judge remarked that the defendant "can be thankful the verdict did not go one step farther," meaning the death penalty.

Rocco was obviously upset by the verdict. He fingered the buttons on his clothing while he sat in the defendant's chair for some minutes while the court attachés rounded up the attorneys in the case after it was announced that the jury had reached a verdict.

Penalty Stuns Slayer.

When the clerk announced the penalty of 199 years his lips twitched. He said he expected to be convicted, but did not expect such a severe penalty.

Under the present parole system Rocco will have to serve one-third of his sentence before he will be eligible for parole. That means he would be past 90 years old before he could hope for freedom by parole.

Rocco is one of five youthful west side hoodlums, alleged members of the "42" gang of the Valley district, who were charged with participating in the killing of Policeman Marcusson on Jan. 20 in a building at 323 West Jackson boulevard. At the time Rocco confessed that the gang had set out to rob a dress shop on the ninth floor of the building. The policeman came from a loan office on the same floor of the building and, deciding that the youths acted suspiciously, he tried to question them.

The policeman started to talk to Emil Manzone, one of the men. Rocco was standing at his side, and according to the prosecution witnesses he drew a revolver and fired two shots into the side of the policeman. The latter returned the fire and wounded Rocco twice before the latter escaped in the elevator. However, another policeman apprehended the wounded bandit, a paroled convict, within a block of the building.

Averts Further Delay.

The case has been jockeyed through the courts for months and was set for trial last Monday before Judge Harry B. Miller. The defendants announced that they would take a change of venue and in order to prevent further delay Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty asked that Rocco be given a separate trial. He was put to trial at once before Judge Molthrop.

The cases of the four other youths were left pending in Judge Miller's court. Prosecutor Dougherty said he would ask that they be tried next week.

Attorney Michael Romano for the defense had offered to enter a plea of guilty for his client in exchange for any penalty other than death in the electric chair. When his offer was refused he obtained a jury trial. His only defense, other than the story told by the defendant that the policeman had fired without cause at Manzone and that Rocco had fired no shots, was that Rocco was not of normal mentality. He was released after serving 2½ years in Pontiac reformatory for automobile larceny.

Prosecutor Dougherty replied that this argument had nothing to do with the present case.

Policeman Marcusson's widow, who said she did not believe in the death penalty, said she was satisfied with the verdict.

Other Sentences Imposed.

The sentences imposed by the judges yesterday, in addition to that of Rocco, were as follows:

JOSEPH DE VITO, 20 years old, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter by Judge Walter L. La Buy. He was convicted by a jury of murdering Homer Barnhart on March 31, 1931, during a traffic argument.

ANGELO MASSO, 22, a co-defendant in the same case, sentenced by the same judge to 20 years in the penitentiary. He pleaded guilty to the charge of firing the actual shot which killed Barnhart.

THEODORE CLAY, 28, and JOSEPH PATTON, 26, sentenced to 1 year to life, each by Judge Philip L. Sullivan for burglary. On Sept. 3 they robbed the jewelry store of Luke Usselmann, 3152 South State street. Both have previous crime records.

JOHN CARROLL, 32, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Benjamin Epstein. He robbed three taxicab chauffeurs. He used a toy pistol in his crimes.

JOHN BURNE, 50, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Thomas J. Lynch on a charge of burglary changed to larceny. On Aug. 10 he looted the home of Cyrus A. Osborne, 328 North Taylor street.

ERNEST McDONALD, 21, and LESTER BROWN, 19, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Lynch on charges of burglary changed to larceny. On April 11 they robbed the home of Mrs. Louise Conester, 838 Galt avenue. They also committed another burglary.

JACK GREENE, 38, and BARNEY McNULTY, 35, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each by Judge Harry B. Miller for receiving stolen property. They had the loot from a burglary of the home of Sam Barrett, 5129 Ingleside avenue, on April 1.

DAN GILIO, 23, sentenced to 1 to 20 years by Judge La Buy for stealing the automobile of Walter W. Sheriff, 328 Sheridan road, Winnetka, on July 10.

BEN CARR, 29, colored, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Donald McKinlay for robbery. He robbed Albert Price, 4803 Langley avenue, on July 20 in Washington park. He has a previous record. Alexander Posey, a co-defendant, made a motion for probation.

JOHN C. WISDOM, 29, and THOMAS SEILSKI, 20, both colored, sentenced to 1 year to life each by Judge Miller for robbery of the drug store of William C. Adams, 2259 South State street, on Aug. 27.

Charles Coleman, 38, and James Murphy, 31, were saved from conviction under the habitual criminal act because a jury in Judge Francis Allegretti's Criminal court became confused. Both have long criminal records. The jurors returned both the habitual criminal and regular robbery verdicts. When they were sent back to the jury room to decide which verdict they wanted to return they decided to return the regular robbery verdict in order not to cause any error, they said. The men were then sentenced to 1 year to life each for robbery of a filling station.

POLICEMAN SHOT; ROUTS GUNMEN IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

Policeman Louis Loula of the Lawndale station was shot in the right shoulder last night by one of two gunmen with whom he exchanged shots when they tried to hold him up as he stopped his car for a red light at Normal and Marquette boulevards. After routing the bandits he drove to the Englewood police station and reported the shooting. He was taken to St. Bernard's hospital where physicians said his wound, though severe, would not prove fatal.

Loula, who lives at 7309 Vincennes avenue, was off duty and in civilian clothes so the robbers were unaware that their intended victim was a policeman. They seized the door and jerked it open the moment Loula's car halted for the light. They ordered him out of the car, but instead of complying, the policeman drew his own weapon and started firing. The gunmen returned his fire as they drew away. Their shots shattered the windows in Loula's car and punctured the body in several places.

After wounding Loula the men fled, though the policeman sent several more shots after them despite his injury. He told Englewood police the attack on him could have been for no other motive than that of robbery.

SHOT TO DEATH IN QUARREL.

John Davis, 31 years old, colored, 3953 South Michigan avenue, was shot and killed yesterday during a quarrel with John Pollard, also colored, 4850 Prairie avenue, in the home of the former.

IT'S JUDGES' JOB TO SPEED COURTS, BAR LEADER SAYS

He Suggests Remedy for Trial Delays.

Henry A. Gardner, first vice president of the Chicago Bar association, said yesterday that measures to speed the trial of suits in the Circuit and Superior courts must be initiated by the judges and not by attorneys.

The courts have experienced an unprecedented delay during the last week, although more than 64,000 cases are pending. About twenty of the 29 judges in the two courts have had virtual vacations, concluding their preliminary calls at 11 a. m. and reporting that attorneys would not go to trial in set cases.

He Suggests a Remedy.

Mr. Gardner admitted that in many instances lawyers employed dilatory tactics and appeared to be in no haste to have their cases go to trial. He asserted, however, that the judges could remedy this situation by a wholesale striking of cases from the call.

"If the judges will insist that lawyers go to trial," Mr. Gardner said, "they can clean up the calendars. No unnecessary delay should be brooked."

Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court, when confronted with a similar statement several days ago, said that the objection to the indiscriminate striking of cases from the call was that the rights of the parties to the suit would be prejudiced. Mr. Gardner admitted this was true.

"However, if the judges got together and determined on this policy I am sure the lawyers would fall in line," he said, "for the lawyers know they would suffer under such a campaign. When a case is stricken the lawyer can always reinstate it. While his client may be hurt temporarily the client can always demand to know why the lawyer does not press his case. When the lawyer tries to explain the reason for the delay the client will probably take the case to somebody else and the lawyer's practice will suffer."

An "Extreme Measure."

Mr. Gardner was asked whether the judges would not hesitate to enforce the policy he detailed because of their fear that they would lose the bar association's indorsement in their campaigns for reëlection. He replied that the wholesale striking of cases was an "extreme measure" and that he believed other means could be evolved to hasten court procedure.

Attorney Erwin Roemer, secretary of the bar association, said that the attacks on attorneys had been considered at the association meeting on Thursday. He said that the bar association desired to coöperate fully with the judges.

"I have made a motion to refer the matter to the judiciary committee," Mr. Roemer said, "and my motion will be considered at our meeting next Thursday. The judiciary committee, after it has fully considered the matter, will probably confer with the executive committees of the Circuit and Superior courts. The bar association is anxious to work in harmony with the judges for the general good of the public."

Judge Sullivan said he believed a satisfactory solution of the problem could be worked out at conferences between the bar judiciary committee and the executive committee of the courts.

"But the judges can't compel lawyers to go to trial if they don't want to do so," he said.

Blame Tardy Calendars.

Attorneys Gardner and Roemer said that the delay in the functioning of the courts last week was due partly to the late appearance of the court calendars. The Superior court calendars were ready last Saturday. The Circuit court calendars were distributed a few days earlier. Judge Sullivan said a few days ago that attorneys could have known approximately when their cases would be called by noting their positions on the unfinished calendars last June. The lawyers said, however, that the calendars had been rearranged in many cases.

OPEN EXTENSION OF OUTER DRIVE TO FOSTER TODAY

The new extension of Lake Shore drive between Montrose and Foster avenues will be opened up to traffic for the first time this morning. The opening ceremonies, however, will be held next Wednesday noon and Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly are expected to attend, according to the announcement of Alfred D. Plamondon, president of the Lincoln park board. The extension is a mile long. The park board bore the cost of filling in the land and the state paid for the paving. The improvement consists of two 40 foot concrete strips with a grass plot between them.

ROBBER FIRES LAST SHOT INTO HIS OWN HEAD

Armed Storekeepers Win Gun Battle.

A pistol battle between a bandit and two victims in the Miller Brothers furniture store at 4020 West 26th street yesterday afternoon came to a dramatic end when the bandit, wounded and despairing of escape, followed the tradition of oldtime western bad men and fired his last bullet into his own head.

Identified as Stanley Wonsowski, 18 years old, 5106 West 32d street, the robber was taken to the Bridewell hospital. Physicians there said there was no hope for his recovery.

Wonsowski stepped into the store shortly before 6 p. m. Otto and Rudolph Miller, owners, approached to wait on him and Wonsowski drew his pistol, ordering them to raise their hands. They obeyed and the robber took $138 from the cash register. As he was on his way to the door the brothers, who had experienced several previous robberies, seized pistols they had concealed near at hand and opened fire.

One bullet struck Wonsowski in the back. He turned and fired at the merchants. They emptied their own weapons as he pumped a total of five shots at them. The marksmanship of the brothers was better. They escaped unscathed. Wonsowski was struck twice in the right arm, once in the right thigh and once in the left shoulder.

He staggered with his five wounds. Convinced that he could not run, he held up his left hand in a gesture that might have been interpreted as a surrender, placed the point of his pistol under his chin and pulled the trigger.

DROP VAG CHARGE AGAINST QUINLAN; EVIDENCE LACKING

A charge of vagrancy against Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, former south side beer runner, was nol-prossed yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green on motion of the state. Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle admitted the state lacked evidence and that police had not advised the state's attorney of the case against Quinlan at the time the warrant was issued.

"Policemen should not ask the court to sign warrants unless they know what they are doing and that they will be able to present evidence in court," Judge Green said. "After this I will not sign any more vagrancy warrants until they are approved by the state's attorney."

Hymie Levine, said to be loop manager for the remnant of the Capone syndicate, appeared on a vagrancy charge under the criminal reputation law and asked for a jury trial. His case was continued until Monday.

CUBAN PRESIDENT TO ARM CITIZENS TO FIGHT REBELS

New Revolt Breaks Out in the Interior.

BULLETIN.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 23 (Saturday).—Soldiers under orders of Col. Batista early today surrounded division headquarters of the ABC in the center of Havana. The army reports 200 members inside the building are equipped with weapons. They are suspected of planning a revolt against the government. Soldiers were ordered to let them come out in groups not larger than three and unarmed. Col. Batista declared if the ABC barricade themselves in the building soldiers will surround them indefinitely.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 22.—Revolt was in eruption again today in revolution-ridden Cuba, with Matanzas province as the center. Armed bands of mounted men gathered between the towns of Manguito and Guareiras, where they cut telegraph wires. Later in the day they were reported moving on the city of Colon.

Reports are exceedingly conflicting as to whether the revolt is aimed against the government of President Grau San Martin. One report said the uprising is a local political fight between two factions in which one crowd is trying to oust the other in the municipal government.

Americans in Peril.

Three American sugar mills are in the region and at one of the mills are said to be two Americans with their wives. There is speculation here whether the bands will try to take possession of the mills as well as of Colon.

A movement to arm citizens against the counter-revolution was started at the palace late today, when President Grau signed a decree organizing a "Guardia Revolucionaria," or revolutionary guard, throughout the island. It is to be made up of citizens and drilled by the army. The members are to coöperate with the army by quashing outbreaks in Santa Clara, Camaguey, Oriente, and Matanzas provinces and in Havana, according to Secretary of Interior Guiteras.

Enlistment is to start tomorrow. Preference will be given to former army and navy officers, their sons, and civilians who have had military training. Headquarters for the new guard are to be established in all important cities and towns, Guiteras announced.

Rebels Get Reinforcements.

The march on Colon started with 200 armed men and later was reported to have grown by 80. Troops were rushed from Matanzas and reinforcements were ordered to leave Havana late today. Col. Fulgencio Batista, army former Congressman Antonio deArmas chief of staff, said the revolt is led by former Congressman Antonio de Armas and Enrique Ramirez, former candidate for mayor of Matanzas. A machine gun squadron and troops from Matanzas are expected by Batista to meet the rebels after midnight on the outskirts of Colon.

Reports from Colon at 10:30 o'clock tonight said the guerrillas are in two groups, one of 200 men, the other of 80. They captured Manguito and Guareiras and moved toward Colon, but had not entered the city. The reported intention of the guerrillas is to fall back towards the hills when the army appears. Observers reported that one of the sugar mills which they had visited was not molested by the rebels.

The general theory among observers here is that the move upon Colon may be bushwhacking strategy on the part of counter-revolutionaries to create a disturbance in the interior of the island and scatter the army as a preliminary to another attempted coup to overthrow the Grau government.

In the city of Matanzas the looting of houses is reported to be continuing. The raiders are taking furniture and household goods, while foodstuffs are dwindling.

Rebels Defeated in Battle.

At Holguin a group of 40 to 100 rebels fought with soldiers near the Damian hills. An army bulletin said the rebels were put to flight and their ammunition and horses captured. No casualties were reported, although unconfirmed rumors place the dead at 5, the wounded at 16, and prisoners at 10.

Isidoro Rodriguez Duante, a veteran of the unsuccessful 1931 revolt against former President Machado, is reported to be commanding 100 rebels near Sabina de Palmillar, where 500 other rebels are said to be ready for action under Enrico Bareto and Rafael de la Torre.

Reports from Oriente province said sugar laborers and communists staged a protest parade at Banes this morning. They demanded unrestricted grinding and manufacture of sugar during the 1934 season, starting in January. Traders carried banners against "Yankee imperialism" and reading "down with Yankee sailors." Members of the Caribbean army at Banes, composed largely of students, issued a statement saying they would attack American marines should they land.

Professors Have Peace Plan.

Tonight the radical student directorate is scheduled to hand to the Rotary club, serving as mediator, an official rejection of demands of counter-revolutionary groups that President Grau resign.

A committee of university professors, headed by Dr. Carlos Coro and Dr. Jose A. Presno, is advancing a peace proposal under which Grau would continue as president with a cabinet selected by a committee of twenty members of all revolutionary sectors. A somewhat similar proposal was rejected by the counter-revolutionists a few days ago. They insisted as a first condition of a coalition government that Grau should resign. Dr. Coro conferred with United States Ambassador Sumner Welles today.

THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent at Santiago tonight wired that 250 Americans and Cubans, among the latter being persons of prominence, today sought refuge at the United States naval station at Guantanamo.

G. A. R. PROTESTS GEN. LEE SWORDS AT WEST POINT

Object to Renewal Annually of It.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Grand Army of the Republic has publicly condemned the practice of the Daughters of the Confederacy of presenting each year to a West Point Military academy cadet a Robert E. Lee sword.

The civil war veterans, as their 67th encampment ended today, made public resolutions adopted by the assembled delegates yesterday. One protested the sword presentation in memory of the confederate leader and urged the government to abolish the practice.

"Union veterans are very bitter about the sword presentation matter," said Miss Katherine Flood of Chicago, executive secretary of the G. A. R. "They feel the government is inconsistent and wrong in permitting the Daughters of the Confederacy to present the sword every year."

In explaining the resolution criticizing 10 per cent cuts in civil war pensions under the national economy act, Judge James W. Willett of Tama, Ia., judge advocate general, said the veterans felt particularly keen about the effect such a cut would have on widows of veterans.

"Most of the veterans can stand a 10 per cent cut," he said, "but the widows cannot." The G. A. R., however, refused to join other veteran groups in fighting the pension cuts and criticizing the administration in Washington.

"The G. A. R. feels as an organization that the pension cuts were effected as means toward balancing the national budget, and to have joined any such organization would be construed as criticism of the administration," Willett added.

Another resolution protested against sale of specially minted coins at the World's Fair in Chicago. The coins, fifty cent pieces, were minted to aid in defraying the cost of the big stone memorial to confederate soldiers. Others refused recognition to the Daughters of the G. A. R. as an affiliated organization and provided for appointment of a committee to study erection of a memorial building in Washington.

U. S. PROTESTS RAID ON HOME OF YANK IN CUBA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Still worried over the safety of this country's nationals in Cuba, state department officials tonight awaited the outcome of protests to island authorities over the looting of an American citizen's home near Havana.

Secretary of State Hull said the looting had occurred last night and that prompt representations would be made by Ambassador Welles in Havana. He said no one had been injured in the raid.

Information was lacking on the name of the American concerned, the amount of property damaged or the identity of the looters.

SCHOOLS CALL $1,622,139 IN 1931 WARRANTS

The board of education will begin Wednesday the redemption of $1,622,139 in 1931 tax anticipation warrants and interest, it was announced yesterday by Harry Brackett, school auditor. The warrants bear 6 per cent interest and many of them are held by teachers and other employés who took them in lieu of cash for salaries.

Notice was given that the warrants should be brought to the school board offices at 228 North La Salle street, where a receipt will be given. Cash will be given for the warrants.

URGES MEDICS TO BACK A. M. A. OR KEEP SILENT

Physicians' Chief Warns of Possible Split.

Dr. Dean Lewis of Baltimore, president of the American Medical association, last night asked members of that organization not to make statements on medical economics contrary to the adopted policy of the association, and in other matters to refrain from expressing their individual opinions, but to support the policies of the organization. Otherwise he said there is a danger of the medical association splitting into several different organizations.

Speaks to Medical Secretaries.

Dr. Lewis spoke at a dinner in the trustees' room at the Fair given by the Chicago Medical society for delegates to the convention of secretaries of medical organizations. His remarks were construed as relating to the minority reports of the committee on the cost of medical care, made last year, and to the recent establishment here and in other cities of low cost medical clinics.

At the afternoon session of the convention Dr. Walter L. Bierring, Des Moines, president elect of the American Medical association, said there is grave danger of an oversupply of physicians. He suggested a nonprofessional degree be the minimum requirement for entry into medical schools. Dr. Lewis urged a special medical commission to study fads in treatment of disease.

Act Wednesday on U. S. Fees.

Dr. A. A. Hayden, president of the Chicago society, told the delegates that the local society will decide at a meeting next Wednesday whether Chicago physicians will avail themselves of the opportunity to receive federal fees for medical service to indigents. Secretaries of many of the medical societies expressed themselves in favor of the plan. Dr. John B. Morrison of Newark, N. J., warned that socialized medicine might result unless the federal dole in medicine is regulated carefully.

HAYES DISCUSSES HIS PROGRAM FOR VETERANS' RELIEF

Edward A. Hayes, an attorney of Decatur, Ill., who is the Illinois Legion's candidate for national commander at the Legion convention in October, visited the convention headquarters at 105 South Dearborn street yesterday to discuss his four point program for veteran rehabilitation. Mr. Hayes is vice chairman of the national rehabilitation committee, which adopted the program in Washington last June.

The Hayes program, which has been approved in principle by every state department and the five national areas of the Legion, is expected to be adopted unanimously at the convention. The main points of the program are:

1. That no war veteran disabled in the line of duty shall suffer a reduction of benefits granted under the world war veterans' act, prior to March 20, 1933.

2. That hospitalization under government auspices be afforded all war veterans not dishonorably discharged who require hospital treatment and who are not able to pay for it.

3. That the benefits provided for dependents of veterans as established in the world war veterans' act be resumed and maintained as the government's policy, and that in no event shall widows or dependent children of deceased war veterans be without government protection.

"Although we realize that our national budget must be reduced," Mr. Hayes said yesterday, "the Legion feels that the disabled service men should be the last to be hit."

KIDNAPING CASE DEFENSE LOSES DAMAGING POINT

Handling Ransom Ruled Part of Conspiracy.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The government won a point today which threw into confusion the attorneys defending seven Minneapolis and St. Paul defendants in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping conspiracy trial. Shortly before the prosecution closed its case against Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates and ten alleged accomplices, District Judge Edgar S. Vaught ruled that government testimony as to the disposition of the $200,000 ransom was admissible in evidence.

The ruling, unexpected by the defense, caused a hasty revision of defense plans and slowed the hitherto rapid progress of the trial. Attorney A. M. Cary, representing the seven men, offered strenuous objections as the first testimony concerning his clients was given by Ralph Hagen, manager of the Hennepin State bank.

The defense attorney argued that the conspiracy ended when Urschel was ransomed and returned to his family.

"Your point has effect only as to the actual abductors," Judge Vaught told the attorney. "The conspiracy may continue until all of the ransom paid has been located."

Ruling Sets Precedent.

The ruling set a precedent as it was said to be the first time the point had arisen since the passing of the Lindbergh kidnaping law last year.

Attorney Cary, plainly disappointed, said that he "had hoped for a directed verdict to acquit."

Government witnesses called to the stand during the day's hearing traced $5,500 of the marked ransom money through Twin City rum running circles. The money was allegedly paid for liquor by a "man named Collins."

Principal government testimony was given by R. C. Coulter, federal agent, who arrested the seven Minneapolis and St. Paul defendants. Coulter linked all seven with the handling of part of the $5,500. The defendants, friends of long standing, are Barney Berman, Clifford Selly, Sam Kozberg, Sam Kronick, Isadore Blumenfeld, Charles Wolk, and Peter Valder, alias Nelson, Hackett and Overton.

Perfume Dealer Involved.

Kronnick, middle aged Minneapolis perfume dealer, was mentioned in testimony for the first time. Noel Asplund, Minneapolis bank teller, pointed out Kronnick as the man who deposited $500 in $20 bills on Aug. 5. Some of this money already had been identified by the government as part of the $200,000 ransom money.

Coulter testified that Kronnick told him he got the money in the regular course of business. Over objections of the defense D. H. Hodges, assistant district attorney, read into the record a statement made by Kozberg, another defendant, on Aug. 14. Coulter certified the statement which contained a notation that Kozberg had said that it was correct but refused to sign it. The statement credited Kozberg with saying that he called up another defendant, Berman, and asked the latter to give him $500. He said Berman told him to come to a hotel room.

"There were some others in the room," the statement read, "but Berman called me to one side and handed me twenty-five $20 bills. I didn't make a receipt or give any acknowledgement so anybody else could hear.

Exchanged for Check.

"I went back to Kronick's place and he was closed, but I found him nearby. We went to his place and I handed the money to him. He gave me a check for $500, payable to the La Salle Products company, to pay to his account with them.

"I did not advise him as to the source of the money. Kronick had asked me for a loan to make a payment on the account. I didn't have the money, so I borrowed it."

Albert Bates, accused as one of the actual kidnapers, came in for more attention by the government during the day. Theodore Filson, a clerk in the federal court, was called and identified an instrument as a plea in abatement filed by attorneys for Bates. The court was told that the purpose of the identification was to get Bates' signature for comparison purposes.

Seek to Tie Up Messages.

D. C. Patterson, a handwriting expert, was placed on the stand as the government sought to show that the "George Miller" who sent a telegram from Minneapolis and the "George Moore" who twice telephoned to Paradise, Tex., from Oklahoma, were one and the same person, who was in reality Bates. It was near Paradise that Urschel was held captive on the farm of R. G. Shannon, who, with his wife and son, Armon, are defendants.

The telegram in question, sent to George [Machine Gun] Kelly, fugitive gunman, read: "Deal fell through. Jim and Tom have left. Communicate with me box No. 631."

The government contends that other Twin Cities men, not under arrest, are named in the wire. Jim Pfeiffer, gambling house operator, and Tom Banks, alleged rum runner, are the "Jim" and "Tom" mentioned in the telegram, the prosecution contends.

Bank to Sue for Money.

Urschel, who was given $1,540 of the ransom money by the court yesterday, faces a lawsuit to recover the $1,500 found in Minneapolis. The Hennepin State bank there attached the money and contended that it came into possession of the money in a legal manner. The money recovered by Urschel was found in the possession of Harvey Bailey.

"I intend to return that money or its equivalent to Minneapolis," said Ralph Hagen, manager of the bank, as he testified how he got the money.

"That remains to be seen," Judge Vaught told him.

Abel N. Peterson, teller in the First National Bank and Trust company of Minneapolis, told of business dealings with Defendant Valder.

"Do you see him in the room?" the witness was asked.

Peterson pointed him out and then testified that he cashed a cashier's check for $1,800 for Valder on Oct. 5. Valder, Peterson testified, also used the names of Hackett, Nelson, and Overton. Judge Vaught took up the questioning of the witness.

"Why should a man want to use more than one name in his banking business?" he asked.

Engaged in Liquor Business.

"Well," Peterson said, "when you're engaged in certain kinds of business, the liquor business."

Coulter testified that he arrested Berman and told of asking Berman why he had run away after Valder was arrested.

"He told me that he was afraid he might be taken down south without his lawyer," the witness said.

"What else did Berman tell you?" the witness was asked.

"He said that on Aug. 3 a man came to the hotel and made a liquor deal. Skelly and Blumenfeld made a deal to sell him 125 cases of liquor for $5,500.

"The man introduced himself as Collins and said he was from the south. Skelly kept the money and put it away," Coulter said that Berman told him. The prosecution had rested its case late in the afternoon, and the defense prepared to offer its testimony.

$10,000 for Escape.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 22.—A story in the Dallas Times Herald said today that it had been learned that Harvey Bailey, on trial as one of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, bought his release from the county jail on Labor day on promise to pay $10,000.

The information was given out as federal agents continued to question Grover C. Bevill, Dallas butcher, who with Tom Manion, former deputy jailer, is charged with aiding in the escape of Bailey. The authorities were said to be convinced that a third man participated in the escape plot.

WOMAN CHARGES KIDNAP SUSPECT IS SON'S SLAYER

Boy Buried Alive by Gang Order, She Says.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A woman from Springfield, Mass., walked into police headquarters this afternoon and told the police that Leonard Scarnici, one of seven persons under arrest here on an assortment of charges, had buried her son alive at the order of the bootleg king of Springfield.

The woman was Mrs. Margaret Wilson. Arriving at headquarters, she inquired for Capt. Richard Oliver, the man who helped round up the seven prisoners—five men and two women—in connection with the kidnaping of John J. O'Connell Jr. of Albany last July. She was shown to Capt. Oliver's office.

The woman, after identifying herself, unfolded a gruesome story of how her son was murdered near Springfield on April 7, 1927.

Says Scarnici Confessed.

The son, Frank Wilson, 25 years old, disappeared from his home, she said, and his body subsequently was found buried near the city. His death had been ordered by the bootlegging king of Springfield, she said, and she was positive that Leonard Scarnici executed the order. The body was exhumed and an autopsy showed that her son had been buried while alive, she asserted.

Scarnici, she continued, was arrested about that time in connection with another crime, but was questioned about her son's disappearance. She insisted that Scarnici had made a complete confession of the murder of her son, but then had recanted and refused to sign the confession. The police are investigating her story.

Meanwhile the police of a dozen cities in at least four states are clamoring for the seven prisoners under arrest here, asking for their custody on charges of murder, robbery, kidnaping, and other crimes.

Accused of Dozen Murders.

Scarnici, Reino, and Herzog have been identified as three of the men who held up the Bank of Manhattan branch and as members of the gang that robbed the Bank of Rensselaer last May 29 and killed James A. Stevens, a detective.

The police believe Scarnici to be a paid killer whose services have been engaged by several gangs of the city at various times. He even is suspected of having turned his guns against members of his own mob for pay and is being questioned closely in connection with the "spot" killings of Marcel Poffo and Max Parken, whose bodies were found near Harrison on June 10, two weeks after the Rensselaer bank robbery, in which they were identified as having had a hand.

At least a dozen murders are believed chargeable against him and a thirteenth in case the Springfield woman's story stands up.

CLAIMS GANG LEADER FORCED HIM TO JOIN KIDNAPERS OF LUER

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Assertion that he was forced into the kidnaping of August Luer, Alton banker, Randol Eugene Norvell, one of six defendants on trial here, spent nearly three hours in making a statement to a jury. Only two brief interruptions occurred when questions were interposed by Circuit Judge D. H. Mudge and one of the attorneys.

His testimony came as a surprise to attorneys of the other defendants and indicated that the defense would have no united front.

Norvell said he accompanied Walter "Irish" O'Malley, who has not been apprehended, after his life had been threatened, and O'Malley told him that either he or his son would be liable to kidnaping.

After two hours of testimony regarding his relations with the gang and events leading up to the kidnaping of Luer, he described the abduction of the elderly banker.

"ENEMY" FLEET BEGINS INVASION OF GREAT BRITAIN

Defense Plane Forced Down at Sea.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Mimic warfare between the "blue" and "red" forces off the Firth of Forth opened today with the loss of a seaplane by the "blue," defenders of the mainland. The plane was forced down 80 miles from land. The crew was rescued by an "enemy" destroyer, which took the derelict craft in tow.

The loss occurred at the very beginning of the hostilities. The exercises were ordered by the admiralty and royal air force to determine whether the coastline can be defended by airplanes alone in event of a combined attack by a battle fleet aided by its own aircraft. Twenty-nine vessels, including three capital ships, two aircraft carriers and 57 planes, are taking part in the invasion. About 90 war planes are assigned to defend the theoretical base at Elie, Scotland.

Defenders Claim Advantage.

The plan of battle today was the movement of the battleships from a maximum distance of 130 nautical miles in the direction of Elie. The area in which the fleet was allowed to deploy was 600 square miles.

Bombers waited ashore while two squadrons of flying boats were sent out to locate the fleet and relay its position by wireless. The air defenders claimed a big advantage at the end of the day's maneuvers, with the assertion that all 29 of the ships had been spotted.

Will Try to Bombard Base.

During the late afternoon reconaissance planes shadowed the ships and reported their movements.

The defending air force therefore was amply equipped with information when the exercises were terminated tonight.

Tomorrow the battle proper will open when the fleet, using all available strength and operating over a wider area, attempts to bombard Elie.

AUSTRIANS HOPE TO END CONFLICT WITH GERMANY

Vienna Sees Peace Parley Emerging at Geneva.

VIENNA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Rumors of peace negotiations between Austria and Germany increased tonight on the eve of the departure of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss for Geneva, where he will attend the world disarmament conference.

There was not as yet the slightest official encouragement for such rumors, but the fact that the chancellor will soon be where he can talk directly with Berlin's representatives added fuel to the bonfires of conjecture.

In this connection the Freie Presse, a conservative progovernment newspaper, declared editorially, "It is a life and death question our relations with Germany." The newspaper also cited scepticism which has been raised concerning the proFascist heimwehr by the recent utterances of Prince Starhemberg, the organization's leader.

Relations Partly Clarified.

The prince issued a statement which partly clarified the relations between his followers and the chancellor following upon an order yesterday that heimwehr members should not wear the emblem of the Dollfuss patriotic front.

The prince said the chancellor has made "a great stride forward," continuing that "we pledge him our united support if he continues in the future also to advance toward the same goal." The prince, however, did not revoke the taboo on the Dollfuss emblem.

The Freie Presse mentioned other problems facing the new dictatorial government in its reference to the German question. Among these was the nation's financial condition, including a half year deficit of 74,000,000 schillings (approximately $12,508,000).

Emil Fey, moved to the post of vice chancellor by this week's cabinet reorganization, characterized the new cabinet as a "great victory for the chancellor and especially for the heimwehr."

"Meanwhile, the "government of paradox" met in a four hour session, but did not reach the fundamental question of revising the Austrian constitution. A communique revealed the forthcoming internal loan figured largely in the discussions.

Distillery Accused of Ending Dry Law Too Soon

Kittanning, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Joseph H. Finch company, operators of the Schenley distillery near Freeport, Pa., today was accused of illegal manufacture of 350,000 gallons of alcohol about Aug. 31. The company had obtained a federal permit to manufacture the alcohol, it was said.

RED REJECTS AID OF U. S. LAWYER IN GERMAN TRIAL

Dutch Communist Again Quizzed About Fire.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The suggestion that Arthur Garfield Hays, an American attorney, assist in the defense of one of the accused was politely rejected today by the defendant himself in the second day of the trial of the five men charged with firing the reichstag building last winter.

WILHELM BUENGER.

The appearance of the American in the Supreme court enlivened the proceedings, which otherwise were devoted to searching further into the character and habits of Marinus van der Lubbe, the principal defendant.

The suggestion that Mr. Hays assist in the defense of Ernst Torgler, former communist floor leader in the reichstag, was advanced after Alfons Sack, Torgler's lawyer, had demanded the ejection of newspaper men on the charge they had reported the trial unfairly. Wilhelm Buenger, the presiding officer, previously had reproved some newspapers which he accused of misconstruing part of yesterday's testimony.

Willing to Step Aside.

Sack was asked during an intermission why, if the trial was fair, he did not collaborate with Hays and let the American lawyer see Torgler. Sack replied that if Torgler wanted another attorney he would gladly step aside.

At that point Torgler interrupted with: "I am satisfied; I am adequately represented."

Mr. Hays, who came here from London, where he attended the hearings of an unofficial "international legal commission" which investigated the fire, later said:

"I would gladly consult with the lawyers for the defense and do everything to assist. I would not be so presumptuous as to pretend to defend a man in a German court.

Offers to Consult with Defense.

"I would be pleased, however, in view of the information elucidated in our London hearing, to be able to freely consult with the lawyers for the defense."

[The London commission's "findings" held there were grave grounds for suspecting that the reichstag fire was touched off by, or on behalf of, the Nazis, instead of the five accused.]

Mr. Hays followed the proceedings with much interest.

Asked whether he thought the trial would be fair, he replied:

"The procedure is quite different from ours and there is no indication in the proceedings that anything is not fair. The future will tell. It is unfair to assume the judiciary is not independent."

After devoting the day to a further quizzing of Van der Lubbe, who again gave the impression of an imbecile, the court decided to take up the personalities of the other defendants tomorrow.

A letter was read to the court contending Van der Lubbe never had received a letter from his family in Holland asking him to accept counsel for the trial. Other testimony revealed that the family had appealed to President von Hindenburg to insure that the letter reached the defendant. Asked if he had received the letter, Van der Lubbe replied both "yes" and "no."

Then the judge asked whether, after the letter had been read, he declined to accept Benjaminus Wilhelmus Stomps, a Dutch attorney, as counsel.

"I don't want him," replied the witness.

Alienist on Stand.

Prof. Karl Bonhoeffer, an alienist, testified Van der Lubbe was practically normal last March, shortly after the fire. The professor rejected a suggestion that Van der Lubbe might be under hypnotic influence.

Police Inspector Heisig of Berlin testified Van der Lubbe talked with him "most easily" when he examined him before his arrest while the reichstag still was burning.

"Van der Lubbe explained very readily all that had happened," testified the inspector. "He seemed proud of the deed and considered it necessary to awaken workers."

Heisig said Van der Lubbe "showed a remarkable knowledge of the building" when taken to the scene of the fire. [German authorities have said he was arrested in the reichstag while the fire burned.]

Search Russian Writers.

The correspondent for a Moscow newspaper and a Russian news agency were routed from their beds during the early morning hours by police who said they were operating under an emergency decree.

The two, Mme. Lili Keith, Berlin correspondent for Izvestia, and Ivan Bespalow, Berlin correspondent for the Tass News agency, were released eight hours after their arrest, but in the meantime they were stripped and searched fruitlessly for arms or documents. A threat to shoot if he tried to escape was made to Bespalow as he left his room and met two officers, one in uniform and one in plain clothes. One of them made the threat as he pointed a revolver at the correspondent.

Six Year Old Indian Girl Mother of 4 Pound Baby

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The case of an Indian girl giving birth to a baby before being 7 years of age was reported by a Delhi doctor today in the British Medical Journal of London. The baby weighed 4 pounds 3 ounces at birth, the doctor reported. Beyond suffering from fright for three days, he added, the mother recovered perfectly, and was able to nurse the infant for nine months, when it weighed 11 pounds 2 ounces.

ARMS DEADLOCK ENDED; WAY OPEN FOR AGREEMENT

France, Britain to Put Plan Up to Germany.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 22.—The disarmament conference, which has been in a state of suspended animation since last spring, was definitely brought to life today in a three way Franco-British-American powwow at the French foreign office.

No concrete progress toward any agreement was made as far as could be learned, but the feeling was expressed in American circles that the disarmament deadlock was broken so far as continuance of negotiations is concerned. These negotiations will be resumed at Geneva next week.

Today's conferees were Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, assisted by Alan Dulles; Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Paul Boncour for France; Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, Under Secretary Capt. Anthony Eden, and President of the Council Stanley Baldwin, who was invited because he happened to be passing through town, for Great Britain.

Private Franco-British Talk.

The three way meeting at the Qual d'Orsay was followed by a private meeting between the French and British delegates, during which Sir John delivered his government's answer to the French proposal, made last Monday, for international arms control during a trial period of years before disarmament is carried out.

The British indicated that they will no longer allow repugnance to the French thesis of a permanent commission, functioning automatically in the supervision of armaments, to be an insurmountable obstacle to an all around understanding.

As a result of the Franco-British negotiations the work of the conference is oriented in the following direction: The goal for all is acceptance of a disarmament convention based on the British draft calling for a gradual abolition of offensive weapons, reductions of effectives to so-called defense levels, and uniformization of armies.

Four Year Transition Period.

In order to make acceptance of this possible to France a transition period now tentatively fixed at four years is provided for. During the transition period Germany is supposed to begin transformation of the reichswehr (regular army) into a short term militia, while the French are bound not to augment their offensive armaments.

In order to assure that Germany will keep its word a permanent control commission is to keep check on it, as well as on France and other countries, making investigations from time to time without waiting for complaints to be lodged.

The American representatives are hopeful that an agreement eventually will be possible along these broad lines.

The feeling of the British and French seems to be that if they keep on talking long enough they probably will come to an agreement. The important thing now is to line up the Germans. This work will commence at Geneva next Monday through negotiations with Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath and Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda and enlightenment, the German representatives.

It is apparently true, as claimed by official optimists, that all the fur flying between France and Germany since last spring has not made disarmament as impossible as it would appear. There is even something in the claim that the very seriousness of the situation is forcing the political leaders to stop stalling and seek a disarmament accord.

It is generally agreed that the atmosphere for the conference is improved, but the intrinsic difficulties of the disarmament problem, which have baffled the world so long, prevents any great feeling of optimism even in those quarters where improvement in the situation is most clearly seen.

JOEL M'CREA FLIES TO SAN FRANCISCO; SO DOES FRANCES DEE

Miss Dee, who entered the films after a period as co-ed at the University of Chicago and was want ad taker at THE TRIBUNE, grinned cheerfully but said nothing when addressed with the remarks that the couple's aerial departure had all the appearance of an elopement.

McCrea said he had "nothing to tell you now."

MAYORS REVEAL DEBT PLIGHT OF NATION'S CITIES

Stress Need for U. S. Aid in Parley Here.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The plight of the American cities was laid before the United States Conference of Mayors, which opened a two day meeting at the Congress hotel yesterday.

JOHN F. DORE.

There are a few cities which are solvent, notably that glamorous city of the Golden Gate, San Francisco, and Rochester, Minn., which had more money than it knew what to do with at one time last year.

Others are in default, 3,000 of them, according to J. Mark Wilcox, congressman from Florida. He comes from West Palm Beach, which now has a debt which averages $2,500 for each inhabitant. The total defaults are two billion dollars, he said, out of 18 billion dollars in outstanding bonds for municipalities and smaller units. The remedy for this, a sort of municipal bankruptcy act, is suggested, the cities and the bondholders being given the right to compose the debts.

Cities Need Temporary Help.

The great majority of cities fall in the middle class of financial embarrassment. They are sound but they need temporary help. In this emergency it is suggested by Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans that the federal government buy municipal tax warrants, notes, and securities. It is much more important to maintain the credit and functions of cities, he argued, than to help private industry or to build new public works. He estimated the total needs of 60 of the 93 cities requiring assistance at $325,000,000. To care for all political subdivisions the amount would be $450,000,000. Probably no more than $200,000,000 cash would be required, he thought—a drop in the bucket in the great well at Washington.

President Roosevelt sent greetings to the conference in a telegram to Mayor Curley of Boston, who is presiding officer. The President suggested that the cities hurry up with their requests for cash from the three billion three hundred million dollar public works funds. Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who has charge of this allotment, is to come to Chicago tomorrow to speak to the mayors on the same subject. Hurry up, says the federal government: the money is waiting. As this proposition means a 70 per cent repayment to the federal government, necessitating new financing and possibly added taxation, the mayors appear to be in no hurry about it.

Mayor John F. Dore of Seattle rather marred the picture when he said in a public meeting that he didn't believe the President knew what was going on in the NRA in some parts of the country, and that early impetus of NRA activities was waning under the dilatory tactics of getting relief from public works projects.

Mayor Curley sought to smooth over this criticism by saying that "we have gone just a little too far in our desire to safeguard possible loss or misuse of public funds." He added that the theory of the law is good, "but unfortunately college professors sometimes go a little too far in applying their theories. What we need now is a driving power that will prosecute works vigorously while reasonably safeguarding the public interest."

The President's Message.

Said the President in his message:

"I hope that during your deliberations you will consider carefully the relationship of your states and subdivisions to the recovery program of the federal government. Congress has appropriated three billions three hundred millions of dollars to finance a comprehensive project of public works, in part for federal projects.

"Approximately one billion six hundred millions already have been allocated. We are at the point now where the states and municipalities interested in public works projects should come forward quickly with proposals which will give immediate work to their unemployed. We want to cooperate to the fullest possible extent and I assure you that after your projects have been passed upon by the state advisory boards they will be acted upon in Washington with a minimum of delay. We will match speed with you.

"The money is available, and we want to put men to work. I wish the mayors all success in their deliberations, and I especially hope that these deliberations will result in a stimulation of interest all along the line on our public works program."

Pictures Detroit's Plight.

John W. Smith, acting mayor of Detroit, painted a vivid picture of the plight of that city.

"Today," he said, "in the stark realism of the time, Detroit is no different from the unwilling, unhappy, disillusioned petitioner in the bankruptcy courts. Stripped of all its legal and financial verbiage, the great city of Detroit, the victims of Babbitry, the victim of selfishness, the victim of vanity, is today called upon to face the banker—the banker is the bondholder. The prosperity chickens have come home to roost."

He recited the story of the real estate boom in Detroit, and likened the city to a great football team, or a fighter or a race horse, that had stretched and reached too far, and today lies prostrate.

"The great, proud city of Detroit," he said, "cannot under its present laws and present conditions meet the obligations that were made in other days. We are at the door of the bankruptcy court, but we don't want to enter. We couldn't if we would, for the laws of the nation, the state, and the charter of the city will not permit it. The collective pride of the city cannot conceive it. This city of Detroit asks only that it be given that which the oldest nations in the world have already availed themselves of, the right to adjust with creditors an unbearable, an impossible a staggering debt charge."

He urged the mayors to support passage of the Sumner-Wilcox bill, permitting cities to adjust their debts, in the next congress.

Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco had another kind of story, which he related at the evening banquet of the conference. He told how San Francisco had been able to maintain its municipal solvency, meet all obligations and pay rolls, and at the same time effect a reduction of 56 cents in the tax rate. Back of this, of course, is the fact that the tax delinquency in San Francisco was only 5 1-3 per cent for 1932-'33. Mayor Rossi attributed the success of San Francisco to its consolidated city and county government, its centralization of authority.

The city owns its street car system and has a 5 cent fare. Through its municipal water system it is now selling power, he said, at a revenue of more than two million a year. Balancing of the budget is mandatory.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly welcomed the delegates to the conference. He described the Chicago Recovery administration, giving as its chief objective the relief of real estate from its present tax burden.

"This burden, I think we will all agree, is one of the great obstacles in the path of our economic recovery," he said.

Tammany Striving to Heal Breach Caused by Primary

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The Tammany democracy, reviving from its defeat at the primaries last Tuesday, was cheered today by two important developments in the municipal campaign.

Frank J. Prial, who beat the organization for the nomination for controller, called on Boss John F. Curry at Tammany Hall, where they were in conference for more than an hour. Mr. Curry then announced that "Prial is a good Democrat," and that city headquarters would be opened next week for O'Brien, Prial and Fertig.

Questioned regarding his visit to Tammany Hall, Mr. Prial said:

"Of course, I'm going down to Tammany Hall. I'm going to McCooey's headquarters and to every Democratic club in the city. Why shouldn't I? I'm a Democrat. But what I said yesterday still goes—I owe them nothing."

McKee Not Receptive.

Formal announcement was made from the White House that President Roosevelt is not inspiring a third party movement in the New York election, and at the same time it was made known here that Joseph V. McKee, choice of the third party boomers, is not receptive to overtures that he lead an independent movement.

The White House announcement made it clear that the President "is giving no approval to any local candidate in any state."

This was taken to mean that Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is also New York state Democratic chairman, and Edward J. Flynn, Bronx leader, will abandon their plan of running McKee, unless Tammany withdraws Mayor John P. O'Brien and substitutes with a more popular and acceptable nominee.

Urge Mayor to Stick.

There was renewed insistance, both by Tammany and by O'Brien, that the mayor will stay in the race, despite the fact that in last Tuesday's primary he could not keep the ticket intact.

Boss Curry appears to be making some headway in healing the primary breach, however.

Evidently the peace pact was sealed today between the city organization and Mr. Prial. The primary is being forgotten and the Democratic leaders strive to pull their organizations together.

The fusionists, led by their mayoralty candidate, F. H. La Guardia, are equally pleased by the collapse of the third candidate movement. They figure that in a clear cut two man fight between La Guardia and O'Brien that La Guardia will win, whereas with a third man in the fray the anti-Tammany vote would be split.

WIVES OF VISITING MAYORS WELCOMED AT WORLD FAIR TEA

Wives of mayors of various cities in several states were welcomed yesterday to a reception and tea in their honor at the Illinois Host house of A Century of Progress by Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of Chicago's present mayor, and Mrs. Carter Harrison, wife and daughter-in-law of two past mayors, at the head of the receiving line. Also receiving the "first ladies" who have accompanied their husbands to the conference of mayors here were Mrs. Herbert L. Stern, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, and Mrs. Charles King Corsant.

Mrs. Rufus Dawes, wife of the president of the World's Fair, arrived early, but had to leave before the mayors' wives arrived. Mrs. Moses Wentworth and Mrs. Lessing Rosenthal presided at the tea table.

Musicians engaged for the occasion went on a sudden strike, declaring they would not provide an obbligato for a couple of hours of feminine chatter and that unless complete silence prevailed they would not play at all. The chatter being considered more vital than the music, the guests dispensed with the musicians.

Mrs. W. J. Swoboda of Racine, Wis., was congratulated on the distinction conferred upon her town by the election of Miss Lillian Anderson as queen of A Century of Progress.

SO. PARK BOARD TO ASK U. S. FOR $10,000,000 LOAN

Money Would Be Used to Finish Projects.

The south park board at a meeting yesterday voted to ask the federal government for a $10,000,000 loan to provide funds to complete improvement pojects in the system. The projects include the outer drive bridge at the mouth of the river, boulevard extensions, small parks, and recreational centers.

According to George T. Donoghue, superintendent of south parks, the projects to be financed are those for which bond issues have been voted, but the assets are frozen. In some cases the bonds have not been sold and in others the cash has been used to purchase the park board's warrants.

Offer of Collateral.

"Success of the plan," said Mr. Donoghue, "will depend on the collateral the park board can offer to the government and the number of men that can be put to work."

The board was to have filed an application for a federal loan of $4,500,000 for completion of its share of the outer drive bridge with the state advisory board on public works yesterday, but it was learned that the request will not be in proper form until Monday.

The board also awarded a contract for $10,000 to the General Electric company for timing equipment needed for the progressive traffic light control system in Michigan avenue. The General Electric company was the low bidder. The south park portion of the progressive lighting system extends from Randolph street to Roosevelt road.

W. H. McDonnell Presides.

In the absence of Mayor Kelly, who had a "Chicago week" meeting at the city hall, Commissioner William H. McDonnell presided. Commissioners B. F. Lindheimer and Michael L. Igoe also attended the meeting.

A plan to utilize the Skyride towers at the World's Fair as mooring masts for aircraft was placed on file. The commissioners granted permits for the landing of the Graf Zeppelin in Washington park and for a balloon ascension from the World's Fair grounds.

Chile Orders Release of All Political Prisoners

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 22.—(AP)—In accordance with the wishes of the president, the premier today ordered the release of all persons jailed or exiled for political reasons. The decree releases scores of politicians, some of them prominent, most of them members of various small opposition groups.

conference could not be learned. Another meeting will be held next Monday afternoon.

One suggestion heard from various unofficial sources was that the savings banks of the city were ready to come to the city's aid provided that the provisions of the emergency tax bills affecting them are vetoed and certain other stipulations met.

Another report had it that the state was prepared under certain conditions to advance funds accruing out of the city's share of taxes collected by the state, and now actually accumulating, against which the city might issue long term bonds.

Huge Unpaid Tax Total.

A big item in the city's tremendous deficit is the 187 million dollars of uncollected taxes and other thousands deemed uncollectible, with the Tammany administration pursuing the tenor of its extravagant ways. These levies must lie against the real estate until paid, but in these times there is no disposition to press too hard for the collections due.

Gov. Lehman has indicated that he stands ready to do anything "within reason" to pull the city out of the hole and it is believed he might be willing to convince the legislature in another special session—the last extra session cost the state upwards of 114 million dollars in various appropriations.

Something must be done between now and Oct. 1 if the city government is to keep functioning. The next pay day falls on that date and unless funds are forthcoming from some source the event will find the city's 140,000 or more employés whistling for their salary dues. The last pay day was saved from being a "payless" affair only by a last minute advance of 5 million dollars out of the state treasury. Three more pay days will come before Dec. 1 and then between that date and Christmas some $202,000,000 worth of maturities falling due will provide the most serious crisis in the city's recent history.

Two and Half Billions in Red.

Although Joseph V. McKee, lately acting mayor, once remarked that nobody, not even the controller, really knew what New York City's financial condition is, an audit—conducted at a cost of $100,000 by the firm of Price Waterhouse & Co.—showed that the municipality was staggering under a debt load of at least $2,521,106,191 at the beginning of this year.

Of this amount some $2,294,688,191 comes under the head of funded debtedness and, for the moment, it is giving the authorities no great concern. It is around the more pressing short term securities amounting roughly to $202,000,000 that the present crisis revolves.

The bulk of the long term debt is held by savings banks and insurance companies, some of them located in other cities, and as long as the city meets its interest payments these bonds can be carried at par regardless of their present current market price. If the city defaulted on its shorter term securities the long term bonds would have to be carried at the market price. That is one primary reason for the great concern at Albany as well as here over the danger of default.

No Chance of Early Redemption.

The bankers realize there is no chance of the early redemption of the short term securities out of tax receipts, whatever the ultimate fate of any of the "emergency" tax programs which the city administration is so feverishly concocting.

The insistence of the bankers that the city call a halt on its extravagance and adopt a pay as you go policy in order to safeguard its credit is not a new cry of alarm. It dates back, in fact, until well before the world war.

So long as good times lasted nobody paid any attention to the Wall street "spoilsports." Instead of showing any disposition to apply the brakes and curtail the wild orgy of spending, the politicians were content to adopt any fantastic trick that suggested itself for postponing the crisis. Some of the sinking funds were found to have accumulated surpluses and they were expropriated. The state was persuaded to appropriate large sums as its "share" of relief for the city's idle. Tax levies were imposed on some 700 million dollars worth of housing, which had been exempted for ten years from taxation during the housing shortage that developed in the wake of the war.

Pay Rolls Keep Increasing.

Great care was taken not to arrest the upward climb of the city's pay rolls. No move was made to make the debt-fostering subways self-liquidating, the 5 cent fare being one of Tammany's great vote getters at election time. Appropriations were projected in bigger and bigger figures indifferent to the huge deficit being run up by the Interborough and B. M. T. subways system in which it has invested 400 million dollars. The city set out in 1925 to build an 800 million dollar underground transit system of its own.

Other public improvements were pushed forward on a reckless scale—hospitals, parks, markets, and schoolbuildings. The James J. Walker administration was fond of boasting that it had spent 600 million dollars on education alone during its tenure.

The city budget mounted from $248,588,257 the year after the war to an all-time record peak of $631,366,298 in 1932 and the cost of government per capita to taxpayers rose in the same period from $44.58 to $87.50. The number of employés on the city pay roll rose from about 90,000 in 1924 to around 148,000 last year—each one representing at least three good Tammany votes.

FATHER OF '5 AND 10' HEIRESS ARRANGES TO PAY WEDDING COSTS

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The little cathedral church of St. Alexander Nevsky spent more for decorations than it received as a donation from the bridegroom when Prince Alexis M'Divani and the former Barbara Hutton, American five and ten cent store heiress, were married last June.

This was disclosed today when final payment of the incidental expenses was arranged at a visit made by Franklyn L. Hutton of New York, the bride's father, to Archpriest Smirnoff. A new red carpet for the church cost more than $1,000, church officials said.

Mr. Hutton assured the archpriest that the prince, now at Biarritz with his wife, would gladly send an additional gift to cover the expenses and to provide something for the officiating priests later. Mr Hutton revealed that while Barbara is one of the world's richest heiresses in her own right, he has been paying all her bills, as she does not get her Woolworth inheritance until after her 21st birthday in October.

Weds, but Will Continue Breach of Promise Suit

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Judy O'Day, who says she is an ex-Follies girl, became the bride today of Haskell L. Rodgers, Lynn, Mass., broker. She said she would continue to press her suit for $200,000 against Henry Alonzo Wood, 20 year old flour millionaire, for breach of promise.

WOMAN ENTERS RACE FOR MAYOR AGAINST 18 MALES IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Aroused because the many men Democratic candidates for Boston's mayorty post have failed to settle upon one candidate, Mrs. Mary E. Gallagher, 46 year old mother and president of the Women's Political League of Massachusetts, today entered the free for all.

With 18 men candidates, including Republicans and Democrats, already in the field, the advent of a woman on the battle line, especially one with the support of a political organization boasting of 300 active women workers, brought interest to a new level. Never in the city's history has there been such an onrush of aspirants for the seat which James M. Curley will vacate in December.

It was under the insistant demands of her followers in the league that Mrs. Gallagher decided to enter the contest.

Jacobs Sees No Reason to Exempt Them.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs said yesterday that he was convinced that the two Y. M. C. A. hotels, which have been shown to operate on a commercial basis, should be added to the 1932 assessment rolls. The assessor had indicated more than a month ago that he would place the hotels on the rolls, but has deferred action pending further hearings requested by attorneys for the association.

"I am awaiting a final report from the association's lawyers," Mr. Jacobs said, "but I can see no reason at present why the hotels should be tax exempt. After I add the hotels to the rolls, the question of whether they stay there will be up to the board of appeals and the state tax commission."

Hotels' Ads Are Cited.

The hotels are located at 826 South Wabash avenue and 30 West Chicago avenue. Further evidence of the hotels' commercial aspect and their efforts to compete with regular hotels were seen in outdoor advertisements in the vicinity of Chicago and in neighboring states.

The outdoor displays advertise low rates for rooms and inform the traveler that no membership in the Y. M. C. A. is required to stay at one of the hotels. Wilbur Thompson, a farmer near Elkhart, Ind., who displays a Y. M. C. A. advertisement on his barn, said he would paint out the sign because he had not received the $15 rental for the year from the association.

Unmoved by "Y" Arguments.

All Y. M. C. A. properties have been tax exempt under a charter granted 72 years ago. The charter provides that no institutions dedicated to benevolent and religious purposes shall be taxed. Attorneys for the Y. M. C. A. have argued that the association restricted its activities to the provisions of the charter and that the operation of its hotels and cafeterias for profit is incidental.

Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell, in an opinion given to Mr. Jacobs six months ago, said that the Y. M. C. A. had exceeded the functions which allowed it tax exemption, and urged that its properties, wherever commercial in nature, be placed on the rolls. After listening to the arguments of the association's counsel, Mr. Bell said his opinion was unchanged.

"An institution of public charity may carry on incidental activities for profit without losing the right to exemption," Mr. Bell said, "but such activities must be incidental in character and not the principal purpose."

Seek to Put Hotel on Tax Rolls

Girl, 3, Falls on Third Rail; Is Saved with Mop Handle

Mary Dunk, 3 years old, 303 South Hill street, Villa Park, escaped serious injury yesterday when she fell on the electrified third rail of the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin suburban line in the suburb. Her escape was due to the quickness of Earl Mason, 55 years old, a news dealer, in prying the child from the rail with a wooden mop handle, which he obtained from a nearby house.

'32 PERSONALTY TAX HEARINGS TO START ON OCT. 4

Assessment Notices Sent to 13 Country Towns.

The board of tax appeals will start hearing 1932 personal property tax complaints on Oct. 4, it was announced yesterday by the members of the board, George A. Nixon and Fred Brummel. County Assessor J. L. Jacobs has sent notices of the assessment to the residents of thirteen country towns and the other seventeen country towns will receive notices next week.

Residents of Rogers Park and North Town will be the first to receive notices in Chicago after the assessor has finished with the country towns. The taxpayers are asked to file complaints immediately after receiving the first notice of the assessment. The hearings on the objections, which will start on Oct. 4, are expected to run until the first of the year.

Expects Fewer Objections.

Approximately 36,000 objections to the 1931 personal property assessment were filed last year. Assessor Jacobs said yesterday that he expected fewer objections this year because a better assessment has been made, checked and rechecked before the release of the notices.

The sentiment in the offices of the board of appeals, however, was that the objections this year would triple those of last year.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday announced the distribution of $1,275,000 in 1931 tax collections to the state and various local governments. The payments were divided as follows: City and school board, $1,000,000; state, $50,000; forest preserve, $20,000; sanitary district, $100,000; south park board, $50,000; west park board, $40,000; Lincoln park board, $15,000.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $545,983, making a total of $71,880,071 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Sept. 22.....	$ 23,485	$ 71,368
Uncollected ...	17,434,205	46,101,890
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 22.....	$ 106,496	$ 344,634
Uncollected ...	72,403,203	78,638,669

GAS CO. REPLIES TO ALLEGATIONS OF OVERCHARGE

Attorneys for the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company yesterday filed with the Illinois commerce commission answers to four questions put to the company as a result of charges that Chicago consumers had been overduction of a mixture of natural and duction o fa mixture of natural and manufactured gas in Chicago two years ago.

The company asserted that tests of 24 gas stoves made by an engineering concern could not possibly give a true picture of the efficiency of 900,000 gas stoves in Chicago. There is no scientific basis for the assertion that the normal efficiency of a gas stove is 35 per cent, the answer asserts. The test of the 24 stoves showed an average efficiency of 26.2 per cent, and the engineers' own report, the company's lawyers point out, stated that a third of the burners tested were fouled by grease or rust.

The answers cited the testimony of company officials to the effect that the average gas bill and the average use of gas in term of heating units for Chicago families have decreased rather than increased since natural gas was brought to the city. There is no basis for the contention that the new mixed gas giving 800 British thermal units per cubic foot is less efficient for domestic use than manufactured gas giving 530 b. t. u.," the company asserts.

PAY DAY NEXT WEEK FOR 10,000 CITY EMPLOYES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Ten thousand city employés will receive a delayed payday for the first half of September early next week, it was announced today. The payment will be in cash and will total $425,000.

It will come on the heels of the advance redemption by the city of $100,000 in baby bonds tomorrow, which will pour more money into the marts of trade, as virtually all of those who redeem the bonds, which carry 5 per cent interest, are those in need of ready money.

LINERS' MISSING MAIL PLANE IS TOWED TO SAFETY

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—After an adventurous night in the English channel, the pilot and mechanic of the Bremen's mail plane, missing since last night, arrived safely at Southampton this afternoon.

Losing his bearings and fearing shortage of fuel, the pilot, Bernard Grutering, came down in midchannel between Ushant and Star Point beside a French fishing smack which took the seaplane in tow until today.

A night-long search was carried on by British destroyers, seaplanes and other craft while the mail plane rode the choppy seas behind the sturdy little fishing boat.

Eastern University men revived it—it was seen at Palm Beach last winter and at the polo matches held at Onwentsia last month The Men's Store's style camera's close-ups revealed that it was being worn here and in large numbers. It is definitely back and we show it here in its best manner of a soft Oxford in white.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Herbert Hoover's wish to see the Fair at night was gratified last night and the former President said he "enjoyed the visit immensely" despite the fact that thousands of visitors gathered at every stopping place to cheer him and packed in throngs around the official cars. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover amiably responded to the repeated shouts of recognition, and expressed pleasure at the exhibits they visited.

The party entered the grounds at 7 o'clock and were guests at a dinner in the Administration building. In the party, besides the former President and his wife, were former Vice President and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, Maj. and Mrs. Lenox R. Lohr, Mr. and Mrs. Arch W. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Beman Dawes, and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Shaw.

After the dinner the entire party visited the Wings of a Century, the General Motors and Chrysler automobile exhibits, the Travel and Transport building, the Lincoln group, and the Belgium Village.

Waves to Cheering Thousands.

Harrington Adams, general manager of the Wings of a Century show, delayed the evening performance ten minutes for the arrival of the Hoover party, and word of the visit of the former chief executive spread rapidly.

Only 39 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

When the cars, led by a police escort under Lieut. Ernest Schondorf of the Fair police, pulled up in front of the show thousands of visitors were waiting. Cheers were given as Mr. Hoover stepped from his car. He smiled and waved his hat at the throngs, and Mrs. Hoover smiled graciously.

The transportation pageant pleased Mr. Hoover and he asked several questions regarding the performers and the equipment used in the show. From there the party went to the Travel and Transport building, where again the crowds immediately recognized Mr. Hoover.

While walking about the Belgian Village Mr. Hoover casually recalled the fact that he had been food administrator in Belgium during the war. A girl employé of one of the concessions shook hands with Mr. Hoover, saying she had met him in a visit he made to a Belgian village during the war.

The party left the grounds shortly before midnight, after indicating to Maj. Lohr that a return visit would be made this evening.

7,000 Berwyn Folk Attend.

Berwyn had an official holiday yesterday. The schools and most of the business houses were closed for the day and, led by Mayor Frank Novotny, 2,000 children and about 5,000 men and women poured through the 14th street entrance to present a neighborhood program at the Exposition.

From the Court of Honor the Berwyn residents paraded through the Avenue of Flags across the 16th street bridge and into the Court of States for a formal program. Cavalry from Camp John Whistler led the parade, followed by the 135 piece band from J. Sterling Morton High school, resplendent in uniforms of maroon and white with gold braid.

The Berwyn delegation thronged the Court of the States all afternoon, attending the suburban program. During the ceremonies Miss Berwyn was presented. She was Miss Lillian Karaffa, 1329 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn. Maids of honor were her sister, Miss Amandy Karaffa, who took third place in the contest, and Miss Mildred Francek, 6707 West 16th street.

Washington State Day Observed.

Also honored during the day was the state of Washington with Lieut. Gov. Victor Meyers as chief guest. The official party was met in the Court of Honor at the 14th street gate by troops from Camp Whistler and directed to the Court of States. In a short program the state exhibit was presented to the Fair, and accepted by Charles S. Peterson, vice president of the Fair.

Admissions totaled 119,986 at 11:30 o'clock.

Mississippi will take the center of the stage at the Fair today, presenting as the high light of the program 65 southern girls in a pageant detailing the history of one of the oldest girls' schools in the country. The girls, all students of Whitworth college, Brookhaven, Miss., arrived in Chicago Thursday and are staying at the University of Chicago.

City's Day at World's Fair Extended to Chicago Week

The proposal to make Chicago day at the World's Fair, scheduled for Oct. 9, the occasion for a full week's celebration was endorsed by more than a hundred business and civic leaders to whom Mayor Kelly broached the plan yesterday in the city council chambers.

Numerous committee chairmen were appointed at the meeting to start immediate organization work for Chicago week, which will run from Oct. 6 to 12. The following celebrations were scheduled for succeeding days of the week: Oct. 6, Chicago Homecoming day; Oct. 7, Nationalities day; Oct. 8, Father Marquette day; Oct. 9, Chicago day; Oct. 10, A Century of Progress day; Oct. 11, Columbian Exposition day; Oct. 12, Columbus day.

Mayor Kelly is general chairman of the celebration, with Robert J. Dunham as vice chairman. Chairmen of other committees were appointed as follows: Executive committee, Ald. David L. Sutton [8th]; Chicago day, County Judge Jarecki and George W. Dixon; Columbus day, Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli; A Century of Progress day, Robert Eitel and E. H. Sniffen; Columbian Exposition day, B. E. Sunny; Marquette day, D. F. Kelly; Homecoming day, Fred W. Sargent; Nationalities day, Felix J. Streyckmans; publicity, Homer J. Buckley; radio, Hill Blackett; entertainment, A. D. Lasker; communities, Leslie Lowden.

Chicago Attendance Low.

Ald. Sutton, who served as chairman of the meeting, pointed out that only 39 days remain in which to see the World's Fair, and said that only 15 per cent of the attendance to date has been from Chicago.

"If the Fair is a success," said Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition, "it will reflect credit on Chicago. At the start Chicago citizens gave $10,000,000 in credit, and citizens of this city have been doing their part ever since. We should make Chicago week a tremendous success."

D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair store, pointed out the benefit which Chicago business houses have derived from the Fair. Sales during August in his store, he said, were 52 per cent over the level of a year ago, and of this he attributed 90 per cent to the Fair.

"Chicago can do well by rounding out the Fair with a successful celebration of Chicago week," said Mr. Kelly. "What we are doing at our store, and what every other employer can do to help, is this: We went around and found what employés had not seen the Fair. We gave them tickets and an extra day off to visit it."

Show Gratitude, Hurley Pleads.

"This is an opportunity for the loyal citizens of Chicago to do something in appreciation of what Chicago has done for us all," said Edward N. Hurley.

Superintendent of Schools Bogan announced that he is working with Fair officials on plans to admit children to the Fair at low admission charges, pointing out that the children will advertise the Fair to those of their parents who have not attended.

"Chicago in 1933 must surpass the 750,000 attendance of Chicago day in 1893," said State Representative David E. Shanahan.

He suggested that on the Chicago week program special recognition be given the police of the city for their courtesy and efficiency in handling the huge crowds of visitors whom the Fair attracted to Chicago.

SPENDS $37,605 CASH IN ESTATE; WOMAN JAILED

Probate Judge O'Connell yesterday sentenced Miss Virginia Masterson, 35 years old, 7807 Cregier avenue, to six months in the county jail for contempt of court because she had withheld $37,605 from the estate of her uncle, Michael C. Masterson, a contractor.

Masterson died in September, 1931, without leaving a will and Mrs. Anna Doheny, a sister of Miss Masterson, was granted letters of administration. After she filed an inventory setting the value of the estate at $6,000, other relatives filed a petition to discover assets, alleging that Masterson had left property valued at $100,000.

Dr. Hans Luther, ambassador to the United States from Germany, arrived in Chicago by plane last night. He announced that he intends to spend a week here on an unofficial visit, seeing the Fair. He refused to be interviewed, remarking that he plans to make an official visit here late next month, at which time an official reception will be tendered him.

"I am here as an individual to visit the Fair and have a good time," Dr. Luther remarked. "I can see so much more as a private citizen than as an ambassador. I think Chicago at the present time is worth a week of anyone's time and I want to crowd all the sight-seeing into my visit that I can without being hindered by receptions or any other festivities."

Dr. Luther will be joined in a day or so by his daughter, Miss Gertraud Luther, who is coming to Chicago by motor. He is staying at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

LUNCHEON GIVEN AT THE FAIR FOR 2 JOURNALISTS

Sigrid Schultz, Mrs. James Miller Honored.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

International was the adjective appropriate to the luncheon which the writers' group of the social functions committee gave yesterday at the Trustees Lounge at the World's Fair. It was given for two women journalists, Miss Sigrid Schultz, head of the Berlin bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Mrs. James Miller of Brazil.

The recital of the accomplishments of Mrs. Miller by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman of the group, sounded like the record of some one three times the age and with one-third of the looks of Mrs. Miller, whose eyelashes alone would insure her a Hollywood contract on sight. She has every excuse to be dumb and every equipment not to be—winner of the Brazilian Academy Letters prize, official representative of the Brazilian government at the Fair, an international political writer, author of a novel, "This Latin Blood," which is being published in translation in England by Fitzgerald (but she has never yet read the translation, she confided to me), and conductor of TWO newspaper columns, one signed with a man's name and the other with a woman's, so that she can contradict herself if she wants to!

Greetings of Brazilian Press.

She brought the greetings of the Brazilian Press association and thanked, with extreme grace and in excellent English, not only her hosts and hostesses of today but (grandly) all of America, where she has been so graciously made welcome.

Richard Henry Little was called upon by Mrs. Fairbank to introduce Miss Schultz, which he did with the delightful phrase, "Of all the things I have done in journalism I am proudest of having discovered Sigrid Schultz." Miss Schultz has been for the last fourteen years in the Berlin bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, now and for some years past its head, a position of the utmost importance. She is the only woman in Europe holding such a position.

Miss Schultz said that she was surprised to find, not how different but how very much alike, are Germany and the United States today. Just as foreigners think that Chicago is infested with gunmen and that walking on its streets is practically suicide, so most Americans think that the streets of Berlin resound with shooting and getting about there is certain to result in casualty. The one impression is as wrong as the other, she said. Germany, like America, is in the midst of a new deal, and there is governmental compulsion, also, only in Germany the compulsion is on the distribution, not the manufacture.

Discusses German Censorship.

When she was asked about the censorship she said that all of the stories which she had sent out of Germany had reached us, and only twice had she ever been questioned. Once it was about the word "item." The censor—who is not actually called a censor—not knowing English as well as he might, declared that there was no such word in the dictionary!

Miss Schultz, a "home girl" as Mrs. Fairbank said she had been designated, was born in Chicago fewer years ago than anybody would believe who knows her only as the outstanding American woman journalist of Europe.

CITY NOTABLES TASTE OLD TIME RECTOR SUPPER

Partake of Feast at Fair Restaurant.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Hundreds of World's Fair visitors last night looked on from the A. & P. Carnival board walk and terrace as people prominent in the city's affairs leisurely ate course after course of one of George Rector's famous after-theater suppers. The supper was served in an outdoor restaurant whose entrance was modeled after the old Rector's, well known to Chicagoans and New Yorkers of a former era.

Only invited guests partook of the famous Rector dishes, and they did so with apparent relish. For many of them it was a sort of ritual again to taste the Rector "Pomard Newburgh." Possibly more sensational sighs were heaved and more expressions of delight registered during the soup course than any other. It was the famous onion soup au gratin, a la Rector.

Mr. Rector bustled about, greeting old acquaintances and seeing that all was well in both kitchen and dining room. He spoke of the guests who were not present, lingering fondly over the many great names among the old Rector customers.

Among the guests who were familiar figures at the old Rector's were D. F. Kelly, Wallace Rice, Ferdinand Peck, Bernard J. Mullaney, Eames MacVeagh, and Jacob Kern, who was state's attorney some 40 years ago, accompanied by Mrs. Kern.

The guests lingered over their supper and talk was fluent as it was in the days of the old Rector's. As for the Rector touch in cooking, it was as unmistakable as ever, according to such authorities as A. G. Hoadley, president of the Middle West division of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, and D. B. Austin, vice president.

Woman Gets Bridewell Term for Clothes Theft

Miss Alice Zeider, 24 years old, 3741 North Clark street, was sentenced to 10 days in the Bridewell by Judge Hasten yesterday on a charge of larceny. She was accused of stealing clothing from Mrs. Frieda Pitman of St. Louis, a World's Fair visitor.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

A delegation of 100 civil war veterans from New Hampshire and Massachusetts visited A Century of Progress yesterday. The veterans, who were returning from the G. A. R. convention in Minneapolis, left Chicago last night for their homes. A few of the veterans made their way about the Fair grounds on foot, but the majority chartered roller chairs for their trip through the Exposition.

Two groups of European visitors to the Fair, one of 16 persons from Germany and another of 12 from Italy, arrived in Chicago yesterday over the New York Central lines. The Michigan Central brought 547 employés of the Highland Park Chrysler motors plant in Detroit for a visit to the Exposition.

The 2,000,000th visitor to the Streets of Paris is expected some time today. He or she will be presented with a diamond wrist watch and several other gifts at ceremonies tomorrow.

Iowa day ceremonies will be held in the Court of States before noon next Saturday to enable the Iowa delegation to attend the Iowa-Northwestern football game in Soldiers' field. Gov. Clyde L. Herring, Lieut. Nelson G. Kraschel, and several state commissioners will take part in the celebration.

Alabama is leading in the number of entries to the international canning contest, which will be held in the Court of States during the entire month of October.

Pets of every description, from turtles and goldfish to dogs and cats, with and without pedigrees, have been entered in the pet contest to be held this afternoon in the court of the Hall of Science. Judging will be strictly by crowd appeal.

The famed Essex Scottish regiment of Windsor, Canada, will arrive at the Fair tomorrow afternoon for a week's stay. Its two bands, a brass band of 40 pieces and a bagpipers' band of 25, will be heard in their first concerts at 6:45 p. m. in the court of the Hall of Science. The regiment consists of more than 350 men and 50 officers, commanded by Lieut. Col. William Griesinger.

A large delegation of residents and former residents of Toledo, O., will participate in a Toledo day program Tuesday in the Court of States. Mayor Addison Q. Thacker will speak and music will be furnished by the Madrigal club of Toledo.

Mrs. Gertrude Bowler of Sheboygan, Wis., Democratic national committeewoman for Wisconsin and candidate for United States senator, visited the Fair yesterday and was met by 24 members of the Milwaukee Bowler for Senator club at the Wisconsin exhibit.

World's Fair medals will be presented this afternoon to Harald and Hans Hamran, who sailed their 25 foot boat, Tradewind, from Norway to Chicago to visit the Fair. The presentation will be at 4 p. m. in the trustees' lounge in the Hall of Science by M. M. Tveter, controller of the Exposition, representing President Rufus C. Dawes.

Sentenced for Fake Sale of Concession at Fair

George Gantert, 44 years old, 3919 Ellis avenue, was sentenced to two years in the county jail and fined $2,000 yesterday by Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry for defrauding two women who had given him money to obtain a concession at the World's Fair. The complainants, Mrs. Pearl Goessling, 7126 Prairie avenue, and Mrs. Topsy Fanshen, 7459 Greenview avenue, charged that they had paid Gantert $563.

PLAN TO BOOST HOGS AND CORN PUT UP TO U. S.

Process Taxes Play Large Part in Program.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A program for artificially boosting the price of hogs by $2 per hundred pounds and for raising corn prices by reducing the acreage in 1934 was announced in Chicago yesterday. The plan now lacks only the official approval of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

The program is the outgrowth of a three day conference of the 25 members of the national corn and hog committee with officials of the agricultural adjustment administration at the Union League club. Secretary Wallace conferred on Wednesday and Thursday with the committee, hearing eight proposals for bringing more dollars into the pockets of corn belt farmers, from which the one adopted yesterday was selected

Details of Program.

The program calls for a continuance of the plans for taking excess supplies of pigs, now in full swing at the Chicago stockyards and other terminal markets, with the addition of a processing tax of 2 cents a pound on all hogs beginning Nov. 1. This tax is to be paid by the packers, and in turn will be added to the cost of pork purchased by consumers. A third step in the program will be the signing of contracts by the government with corn farmers whereby they will be paid a bonus for agreeing to plant fewer acres in corn in 1934 and 1935.

The objective of the administration, as voiced by Dr. A. G. Black, corn and hog administrator of the AAA, who was consulted on the program here yesterday, is to bring the price of hogs and corn up to the pre-war parity prices specified in the farm marketing act. It is proposed to push prices up to this mark within the next five weeks. Farm leaders call the project a bold stroke to allay the growing demands of middle west farmers for immediate price boosting and price fixing by the government, as well as for some form of outright inflation.

Wallace Hopeful for Project.

The secretary of agriculture believes the adding of a processing tax and the insistence of the government upon packers paying higher prices for hogs is workable, according to statements made by him in his address before the grain and feed dealers' convention here Wednesday.

"I have no doubt that if we licensed all of the packers under an agreement to pay a higher price for hogs," Wallace said, "this price could be made to stick in view of the way in which the market is fundamentally supported for the time being by our extensive slaughtering of little pigs."

Wallace also expressed the opinion here that "you may think the plan we are evolving for control of the corn and hog situation is a bit cracked, but I must say that it will not be any worse than conditions which have been allowed full sway in the last few years in the corn belt."

An Emergency Measure.

Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association and chairman of the national hog and corn committee, said the slaughtering of nearly 5,000,000 little pigs was an emergency measure and that the new plans were designed to bring relief to farmers over a longer period.

"Because the pig purchase program has reduced surpluses sufficiently to make such a plan economically justifiable for a temporary period," the committee recommended that division of further surpluses o hog products from normal consumptive channels be continued during the current marketing year, together with a program of corn acreage reduction in 1934 and 1935.

The committee proposed that the secretary of agriculture enter into an agreement or proceed at once to license all processors or packers of hogs. They gave him the goal of establishing a parity price for hogs at Chicago by Nov. 1, although heavy hogs should not be priced as high as medium sized hogs. The committee asked that the set prices include a processing tax and be maintained at least until next June.

The parity price, while not announced, was explained to be the balance between prices of hogs and corn the farmer sells and an average of the things the farmer buys, based upon the same balance existing during the pre-war period 1909-1914.

The committee further proposed that the reduction of supplies of pigs bought under the new price boosting plan after Nov. 1 be accomplished by converting surplus pork stocks into sausage for distribution through relief agencies "and for sale through regular channels at a fixed nominal price," as well as by exporting all possible food and pork products.

"In order to make possible reasonable prices during the marketing year 1934-1935," the program calls for "a substantial reduction of hog and corn production in 1934." Contracts for such reduction will be offered to growers as soon as possible, under the recommendations set forth. Each farmer would be paid a benefit of $1 per hundredweight on all hogs weighing less than 220 pounds marketed between Nov. 1, 1933, and June 1, 1934.

The program also calls for reducing the 1934 corn crop to two billion bushels by an acreage rental contract with farmers on a basis of 30 cents per bushel on the average yield per acre. The minimum reduction to be required of any farmer shall be 20 per cent of his average production.

Funds to pay farmers this bonus are to be derived from the "full processing tax possible and practicable under the farm adjustment act on all processed corn.

Increased Chicago Prices for Milk Apparently Assured

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Increased retail prices for milk in Chicago became almost a certainty today as the agricultural adjustment administration, according to reliable reports, prepared to grant the higher price demand of milk producers serving the city.

Speeding its action on the milk farmers' demands in an effort to pacify the disgruntled producers, the administration set Sept. 27 as the date for resumption of formal hearings on the proposal to boost retail prices under the federal marketing agreement for Chicago by one cent a quart for milk and five cents a pint for cream.

As both the producers and distributors in the Chicago milk shed are reported to have agreed on the upward revision of the marketing pact's price schedule, the new hearing is regarded as a mere formality.

Audit Chicago Books.

The hearing was recessed several weeks ago to permit a government audit of the books of several representative Chicago dairies. This audit has been completed, and although details have not been disclosed, it was reported that the results of the investigation are looked upon by farm adjustment officials as sufficient justification for the increased prices sought by the milk farmers.

At the same time Don Geyer, secretary of the Pure Milk association, and legal experts of the farm admnition, composed of a majority of the milk producers in the Chicago area, would probably not appear at the new hearings. A written brief in support of the price increases will be submitted, he said, however.

Under the plan proposed by the istration were putting the language of the proposed revising amendment to the marketing agreement in final form. Mr. Geyer stated that representatives of the Pure Milk associa- Pure Milk association all of the increased retail prices would be reflected in higher prices to the milk producer. The federal milk marketing agreement in its present form stipulates a price of $1.75 per hundredweight to the farmer for his class 1 milk.

Mr. Geyer's plan, he declared, would bring the price received by the producer to $2.10 for that portion of his product used as milk and $1.45 for that portion used as cream. The weighted price to the producer for all milk sold for both purposes, according to Mr. Geyer, would be $1.93 per hundredweight.

These farm price increases would be made possible by increases of 1 cent per quart in the retail price of milk, 5 cents a quart in the price of cream, and 1 cent a quart in the price of buttermilk.

HEAR PLEAS OF NEWSPAPER MEN UNDER THE NRA

Discuss Hours and Child Paper Venders.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A code for daily newspapers was explained today to the NRA by the American Newspaper Publishers association and immediately statements were made that it countenanced child labor and was unfair to the reporters and editorial employés who supply the news.

The A. N. P. A., through Elisha Hanson, general counsel, and a number of officials, contended that the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press gave newspapers the right to stay outside the recovery program if they so choose.

The publishers said, too, that a shorter work week than the 40 hours they proposed would hasten the failure of many newspaper establishments they described as on the verge of bankruptcy.

Guild Asks Shorter Hours.

A claim for shorter hours and other benefits for newspaper reporters and editorial staff men was presented by the Guild of New York Newspaper Men and Women.

Alexander Lindey, chief spokesman, speaking also for organizations in Newark, N. J.; Boston and Buffalo, asked a 40 hour five-day week for editorial workers exempted from the minima of the A. N. P. A. code.

He suggested minimum wages of $20 a week for those with less than one year's experience, up to $40 a week for two years or more.

Heywood Broun, columnist, explaining he was a member of the guild, said the proposed code was a matter of importance to the men and women who write the stories appearing in the newspapers.

"You cannot have a free press which rests upon the fears and apprehensions of reporters. If a writing guild cannot obtain those things which seem to us fair, then news writing unions will," he declared.

As to Child Labor.

Courtenay Dinwiddie of the national child labor committee assailed provisions of the code that permit the employment of children to deliver newspapers. "Newspaper delivery is not considered a proper occupation for children in other countries," he said.

H. W. Stodghill, chairman of the International Circulation Managers' association, replied that such work provides income for some families who need it, and, furthermore, that boys do not compete with grown men.

"These newspaper deliverers get training as merchants, salesmen, delivery men and collectors,' Stodghill testified. "They learn to make their way in the world," he asserted.

FORM A CHICAGO GROUP TO GUARD THE CONSUMERS

Show Higher Price of Certain Goods Here.

A council to protect the consumer against unreasonable price increases in food and clothing was formed here yesterday. The Chicago Consumers' council was organized at the suggestion of Dr. Frederick C. Howe, counsel for the agricultural adjustment administration in Washington, according to an announcement by Charles R. Simmons, chairman of the City club committee on national recovery.

The purpose of the new organization, it was stated, will be to supply consumers in this ar a with prices and information regarding price increases in agricultural products and clothing as the two most important items affecting the consumer.

Issues Consumers' Guide.

Dr. Howe has issued the first consumers' guide containing information on food prices. It called attention to the fact that thirty cities pay lower prices than Chicago for leg of lamb. In the other cities, lamb ranges down to 18.9 cents a pound as compared with 22.9 cents paid here.

Twenty cities pay higher prices for pork chops, ranging up to 26.7 cents a pound while Chicago and one other city pay 20.6 cents. Thirty-five other cities pay less than Chicago, ranging down to 14.2 cents a pound.

Only Dallas and New Orleans pay more for potatoes than Chicago, while forty-two cities pay less, the guide revealed. Other discrepancies were shown where a number of cities paid less than Chicago, apparently for no reason.

A committee of the council will investigate to see why Chicago, a packing center and centrally located as to the potato crop, should pay high prices for these foodstuffs. The entire recovery program will be jeopardized, according to Mr. Simmons, if prices are increased out of proportion to the amount paid the farmer.

Ten Civic Groups to Coöperate.

Ten civic groups are coöperating in forming the council. The following statement was given as an explanation for formation of the organization.

"At present, there is no group in this region which adequately represents the consumer. In Washington, there is a conflict between the NRA, which is working to increase the earnings of the factory worker, and the agricultural adjustment administration, which is trying to increase the prices which the farmer receives. Both aims result in the raising of prices of products which the consumer must buy."

French Idle Figures Drop 2,194; Total Now 231,487

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Unemployment decreased by 2,194 to total 23..,487 in the week ending Sept. 16, it was announced today. The same time last year the figu e was 263,100, which makes a drop of 12 per cent. It is the eighteenth week in succession the unemployment figure has showed a drop.

NRA COMPLIANCE BOARD FORMED TO EYE EMPLOYERS

Six of the seven members of the compliance board which is to investigate complaints that employers are not obeying provisions of the NRA were chosen yesterday. George W. Rossetter, chairman of the Chicago Recovery council, reported that all of the six nominees, who were picked by the nominating committee of the council, had agreed to serve. Those selected were:

Edmund K. Hogan of the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen; P. F. Sullivan president of the Chicago Building Traesd council; Robert G. Peck, president of the Aridor company, manufacturer of household utilities; Bruce MacLeish, member of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. and president of the Chicago Better Business bureau; Miss Edith Dolton of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women, and Urban A. Lavery, attorney.

Lavery Chairman Pro Tem.

Mr. Lavery will serve as chairman pro tem. The board will meet at the offices of the Chicago Association of Commerce on Monday to select a seventh member who will automatically become permanent chairman of the new body.

"This compliance board has been set up to obtain compliance with President Roosevelt's agreement, not with the permanent codes," declared Mr. Rossetter.

Joseph W. Lechner, director of the NRA administration in Wilmette, yesterday announced the membership of the compliance board for the village as follows: Permanent chairman, Attorney Bettin Stalling, 722 Washington avenue; employés' representative, J. P. Robinson, 1026 Ashland avenue; employers' representative, A. S. Van Duesen Jr., 1154 Central avenue, a grocer, and president of the chamber of commerce; consumers' representative, Mrs. John V. Smith, 1437 Wilmette avenue.

HOLIDAY ASSOCIATION THREATENS STRIKE IF CODE PLEA IS DENIED

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The National Farmers' Holiday association meeting here today voted unanimously to declare a farm strike on all products and ask the coöperation of labor if its demands embodied in an NRA code are not complied with by the administration.

The group of 1,200 persons, representing approximately 18 states, undertook the action in adopting a resolution which declared that the board of directors of the National Farmers' Holiday association appoint a committee to present terms to the President.

The code for agriculture adopted by the meeting before acting on its resolutions called for a guarantee of cost of production prices on agricultural products, a maximum work day of 10 hours except in cases of emergency and the setting of wages by the American Federation of Labor.

IDLE GET MILLION IN SEPTEMBER FOR MADE WORK

An aggregate of approximately $1,000,000 is to be paid to idle in Cook county for "made work" during September. This was announced yesterday by Dr. M. H. Bickham, director of Cook county work relief for the Illinois emergency relief commission. The growth of "made work" expenditures by the relief agencies is shown by a comparison of funds paid out in this manner during the last three months, in June $8,604 was spent; in July, $9,714, and in August, $26,267.

The relief commission yesterday announced the establishment of a state bureau of transients to function in coöperation with the federal emergency relief administration, which is developing a similar nation wide bureau. The federal program provides for grants to states for the purpose of caring for dependent persons who have no legal settlement in any one state or community from the discretionary fund under the control of the federal relief administrator.

The state bureau will arrange with relatives of transient dependents, according to the announcement, for the return of these persons to relatives. If no relatives can be found the transients will be placed on the work relief rolls.

Boy, 3, Killed in Fall from Apartment Window

William Wildason, 3 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wildason, was killed yesterday when he broke through a window screen in their apartment in the Stanleigh apartment hotel, 6800 Sheridan road, and fell four stories to a concrete pavement.

CAR BOND GROUP JOINS FIGHT FOR UNIFIED SYSTEM

Act to Arouse Public to Demand Merger.

A group of security holders of the surface and elevated rapid transit lines yesterday announced the formation of the Citizens' Transportation Association of Chicago, which will battle for a speedy settlement of the traction problem.

The organizers expressed impatience with the long delays in carrying out plans for a unified transit system with its improved service for street car and elevated riders. They hope to arouse public opinion and compel the traction interests to adopt the reorganization plan which was voted by the people three years ago and which provides for universal transfers, extensions and other improvements.

Frank J. Durham, a member of the firm of W. W. Durham & Co., insurance brokers at 231 South La Salle street, is chairman of the new association. The members are owners of various classes of bonds of the Chicago Surface lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company which have been deposited with protective committees.

City Presses Campaign.

The various transit lines are in receiverships in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court, and Judge Wilkerson is pressing for action for a completion of the traction settlement. The city has also renewed its fight with a warning by Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the local transportation, following a series of conferences with Mayor Kelly and other leaders, that the car companies must "quit stalling."

Among the members of the new citizens' association which entered the campaign yesterday are A. W. Anderson, secretary of the Cudahy Packing company; F. D. Breit, president of the North Counties Hydro-Electric company; Attorney John R. Montgomery, a former president of the Chicago Bar association; Alfred MacArthur, president of the Central Life Insurance Company of Illinois; E. D. Norton, grain merchant; Duane Swift, cashier of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank; Arthur J. Gram, president of the Gram-Willis Lumber company; Albert Reichmann, chief engineer of the American Bridge company; David A. Noyes, stock broker; Dr. Earle F. Chesley, and Mrs. W. C. Cooley of Evanston.

Public Help Asked.

"Concerted action by business men, bankers and the public of Chicago is necessary if the citizens of Chicago are to receive the benefits that will result from the consolidation of the surface lines and the elevated," says a statement issued by Chairman Durham.

"We hope that the transit riding public will realize the fact that they will save money and arrive at their destinations faster and more comfortably when the two systems are brought together into one management. They should individually make their desires known. The weight of public opinion for a speedy and constructive settlement is needed.

"Members of the Citizens' Transportation association are in accord with the belief of Federal Judge Wilkerson that a speedy solution of the problem must be forthcoming from those now responsible, and they extend their wholehearted support and cooperation to him."

The Durham statement assails the alleged piling up of huge cash reserves by the surface lines while junior bonds are in default and their interest went unpaid.

Consult with Richardson.

Yesterday the receivers of the traction systems and their attorneys met in the office of Guy A. Richardson, head of the Surface Lines, and discussed ways of helping to speed up the reorganization settlement. They discussed what concerted attitude they would take toward the immediate establishment of universal transfers demanded by city officials.

After an hour's conference it was announced that everything was contingent upon the outcome of a meeting on Monday between Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and a subcommittee consisting of D. F. Kelly, Melvin A. Traylor, and Albert W. Harris, each of whom is a chairman of a first mortgage bondholders' group.

Judge to Force Action.

It has been reported that Judge Wilkerson will force a quick reorganization plan settlement through an outside citizens' committee unless he is shown that the protective committee can reach an agreement. The federal judge has indicated, however, that the intercompany transfer demanded in advance of unification would not be desirable.

Judge Wilkerson yesterday granted a petition permitting the rapid transit bondholders' protective committee, headed by Mr. Kelly to intervene in the elevated lines' receivership case. This action is part of the procedure necessary toward the reorganization plan.

Alberta Premier Faces Suit on Girl's Charge

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 22.—J. E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, is confronted by civil action for seduction on charges levelled by Vivian MacMillan and her father, Allan D. MacMillan. Justice Boyle today issued an order granting permission to the alleged victim and her father to serve a statement of claim on Brownlee, who is at present in Ottawa. Brownlee tonight said: "There is not a word of truth in the allegation against me. I will defend the action to the limit. Before I am through I hope to show the real cause behind it."

FEDERAL INCOME DOUBLES IN TWO FISCAL MONTHS

Revenue Collections Twice Those Yr. Ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The federal government's internal revenue collections during the first two months of the current fiscal year were more than double those of the same months a year ago, the treasury department announced today.

Collections up to the end of August, the second month in the fiscal year, aggregated more than 284 million dollars, a gain of almost 153 million, or 107 per cent, over 1932, the treasury's records show.

Since the end of August, preliminary surveys indicate, the gain over a year ago in internal taxes has narrowed somewhat, due to the poor showing of third quarter income tax payments on Sept. 15. They brought in less than 124 million dollars compared with 135 million a year ago.

Gain of 191 Millions.

As a result collections from all sources on Sept. 20 amounted to 511 million dollars and showed a gain of 191 millions, or only 59 per cent, over the same period a year ago.

Outstanding among the old taxes to show a recovery was the cigaret levy, which has jumped almost 5 million dollars already this year to reach a total of more than 62 million dollars in two months. Up to the end of August it led all other levies, including the income tax, on the amount brought in.

Gasoline Heavy Gainer.

Gasoline, the second most important revenue source, has shown even a heavier gain, most of which, however, is due to the additional half cent added by the last congress and to the slowness of last year's collections, which started in July, 1932. In July and August of this year gasoline has brought the federal government 38 million dollars, compared with nine millions a year ago.

Beer already has climbed into third place among tax sources, yielding 29 million dollars in two months as 5,800,000 barrels of it were consumed. Trailing a poor fourth, the income tax, which once gave the government 56 per cent of all its revenue, has brought in only 26 millions up to the end of August, a decline of six and a half millions.

PRESIDENT'S SON ENTERS HARVARD AS A FRESHMAN

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the President, today became a freshman at Harvard university when, with more than 1,000 other young men of about his age, he registered at Memorial hall.

Despite his pleas to be treated just as any other member of his class, yard police acted as personal bodyguard wherever he went, and shielded him from press and public.

Even in his room in Weld hall, where he will room with his cousin, Cornelius Van Schaak Roosevelt, a classmate at Groton school, he was not permitted to be interviewed.

TWO HELD AS ROBBERS.

Fairfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Alva Cook, 35, and Fred Edmiston, 34, both of Mount Vernon, were held here today in the robbing of an aged couple west of here, of $125, their savings of ten years. The couple identified the men as the robbers who destroyed furnishings in their home.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt Jr., heir to one of America's great fortunes, can "sue and be sued," and otherwise enjoy the rights and privileges that accrue with maturity. He became 21 today.

His birthday cake bearing twenty-one candles was exhibited at a "small party" given in his honor tonight by his mother, Mrs. Charles Minot Amory, at her Long Island estate in Sands point.

What may be of equal importance to Mr. Vanderbilt today is the maturity also of his financial heritage, in quarter portions his net share in the $17,360,522 estate of his father starts to proceed by check to him from his attorneys' offices.

Alfred's legacy amounted to a paltry $2,533,204. He is, according to the social gossips, financially luckier to be the grandson of Capt. Isaac Emerson, his mother's father, than the great-grandson of "old Cornelius." The Emerson family now owns much of Baltimore.

420 BRITISH IDLE TO VISIT POPE AND PRAY FOR WORK

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—A shabby army of 420 unemployed Catholics recruited from the street corners of all parts of the British isles will leave London for Rome tomorrow on a pilgrimage to the pope to win special Holy year indulgences and pray for work.

Their journey has been paid for by a fund of $35,000 raised on the initiative of Gregory MacDonald, a writer for one of the British Catholic weeklies. His idea was that Catholics who could not afford to go to Rome themselves might like to subscribe to the fund to send some of the destitute and unemployed, men who have little left except faith in prayer and trust in the pope as their friend in time of trouble.

After a mass in Mayfair's fashionable Farm street church tomorrow the pilgrims will march to Victoria station, where banners will be blessed before the train leaves. Thirty helpers and priests are accompanying the pilgrims.

FORESTER TELLS PROGRESS OF U. S. FOREST 'ARMY'

Predicts Large Returns in Future.

The most concentrated reforestation work in the history of the United States is being carried on rapidly by 325,000 young men in the civilian conservation corps, which has posts in every state in the union. At the end of the planting season, which now is reaching its height, a total of more than 45,000,000 trees will have been set out by the workers and hundreds of miles of trails, fire breaks, forest roads and fire prevention posts put into operating condition.

The progress of this work was outlined yesterday at the second session of the central states forestry congress at the Hotel Sherman by Earl W. Tinker, regiment forester of the United States department of agriculture. He emphasized that the money earned by the conservation corps foresters is keeping 2,000,000 persons off the public relief rolls.

Men Benefit from Work.

"In addition, the work is benefiting the men tremendously," Mr. Tinker said. "Their average increase in weight since going into camp is 12 pounds. The men are working not only for the locality in which they are camping, but for the nation as a whole.

"The land is being brought to a higher degree of productivity through their efforts. Farmers recognize this fact and are heartily in favor of the program, since only land on which vegetation has a good root hold can resist erosion.

"Millions of dollars of federal funds are being saved by the work. The forests which these men are now planting will finally pay into the national coffers an immense fortune."

Because Illinois is really a prairie state, only 6,000 of the 10,000 men taken into the conservation corps in this state are being employed in the reforestation work within the state. The remaining men were sent to the Pacific coast states. The foresters, however, are reclaiming 600,000 acres of Illinois land which in the past has been barren and has increased the flood hazard along the Illinois river.

Restore "Worn Out" Land.

A symposium in which the foresters of more than a dozen central states took part disclosed that similar works of reclamation are proceeding in each. It was pointed out that "worn out" land is made fertile again by the planting of trees.

One of the benefits which will accrue immediately to the middle western sportsman is the establishment of fish and game reserves under the conservation act. Aldo Leopold, professor of game management at the University of Wisconsin, said that thousands of acres of land abandoned to the state for taxes has been turned into such reserves. They are being stocked with game and with fish under the direction of state and federal foresters.

RULER OF MONACO MAY AGAIN MAKE DAUGHTER HEIR

MONTE CARLO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Court circles said tonight that Prince Louis, the ruler of Monaco, intends soon to reinstate his daughter, Princess Charlotte, as hereditary heir to the throne until the latter's son, Prince Rainier, is 21 years old.

The reinstatement, it is said, would be by a decree intended to block the claims of Count Aynard de Chabrillon, pretender to the throne, who in a recent note to the French foreign office claimed that he had inherited the right of succession to Prince Louis as head of the third branch of the royal family. The count, who lives in France, claims descent from Honore III of Monaco, an ancestor of Louis.

Princess Charlotte several months ago renounced her rights to the throne in favor of Prince Rainier, who is now 10 years old. This action followed upon the divorce of Princess Charlotte and Prince Pierre after they had been separated since 1930.

Rossetti Guild Made Clear in Winwar Study

"Poor Splendid Wings" Wins Nonfiction Prize.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Poor Splendid Wings," by Frances Winwar. [Little-Brown.]

"POOR splendid wings, so frayed and soiled and torn," eager youth flying toward the flame of creative art to find it searing them, or vainly attempting to reach the empyrean . . . such is the subject of Frances Winwar's study of the pre-Raphaelites and the circle which grew from that brotherhood. About the incandescent Dante Gabriel Rossetti many of them hovered, and it is his strange nature which the author has chosen as the norm of the group.

In a contest sponsored by the Atlantic Monthly and Little, Brown & Co. "for the most interesting unpublished work not fiction" Frances Winwar's mss. won the prize of $5,000 over 800 other offerings. The mss. was obviously the result of infinite research and performs, for the first time, a service which literature has long needed. The early middle of the last century saw the birth of a new cult in literature and art, a youth movement which gave to the world of art names which will grace its history forever.

That nearly all the members of the brotherhood outgrew their early devotion, that, in 1855 Holman Hunt could say "The thing was a solemn mockery and died of itself" does not in any wise lessen the historical importance of the pre-Raphaelite movement and Frances Winwar has made the seeding and flowering and death of that movement as well as the subsequent seedlings which inadvertently fell into the artistic soil of the period immediately following, the material for an interesting, and cleverly inter-related record of the lives of men and women whom we all know by name individually, many of us the way we know the milkman, but whom, even if we know them as separate and fascinating individuals somehow, we've never got entirely oriented in the pattern of their times and in their relationships to each other.

The most valuable contribution which the author makes in "Poor Splendid Wings" is that of relating the tense Rossettis [Dante Gabriel, Christina, Maud, William] Holman Hunt, the self-dedicated John Ruskin, John Everett Millais, Burne Jones [who became hyphenated Burne-Jones only after he had given up training for the ministry to become a painter] another potential clergyman, William Morris, the exotic Algernon Charles Swinburne, the Carlyles, the irascible Thomas and the garrulous Jane Welch, the serious George Meredith, the fantastic Adah Isaacs Menken, the "Blessed Damozel" Elizabeth Siddall, and even James Abbott McNeill Whistler, all of whom take their places in the pages of "Poor Splendid Wings," wearing out their wings with the same overexertion even though varyingly equipped, all oddly aware of and either helped or hindered by the presence of the others.

I would not call "Poor Splendid Wings" a work of genius, unless we accept the definition of genius offered by one of the circle, Thomas Carlyle, as "the transcendent capacity of taking trouble." But it is unquestionably a work of solid worth and sure execution.

Bookstores in Louisiana Do Not Carry "Kingfish"

It is reported that not a single copy of the much discussed biography, "The Kingfish," by Webster Smith [Putnam], has been sold to the bookstores in Louisiana. The author, hiding under a pseudonym, is a Louisianan by birth.

Strong's New Novel Praised by Swinnerton

Critic Predicts Popularity for 'Sea Wall.'

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The new novel by L. A. G. Strong is being published in London. It will appear in the United States later in the year. It should be very much liked and it will almost certainly add to Mr. Strong's great reputation. Some readers found "Brothers" rather savage for their tastes, and the author received more than one anxious warning from admirers who thought—quite wrongly—that he was going to be brutally "strong" in his future work. But these readers and all who admired that lovely book, "The Garden," will be reassured by "Sea Wall."

L. A. G. STRONG.

This new novel has great kinship with "The Garden." Like "The Garden," it follows the growth of a very small boy who loves fishing and who lives in Ireland through his schooldays and to young manhood. Like "The Brothers," it contains unforgettable pictures and memories of childhood. It is full of feeling and beauty and full of new and admirably realized characters.

If at times the narrative is a little broken, so that for a time the main current of the story is interrupted, the interpolated episodes are racy and very interesting in themselves; and the novel is quite definitely a whole, the product of a mind candid, sensitive, and resolute. It has great charm, many amusing passages, and considerable power.

I shall be surprised if it is not Mr. Strong's most successful book to date in America. In England it may lag behind "Brothers," but only for the reason that "Brothers" was a choice of the Book society and therefore an exceptional case. Everybody will be delighted if "Sea Wall" has the welcome it deserves, for it is beautiful work and Mr. Strong is destined for a high place among modern writers if only he can keep his health.

During the last twelve months he has had to go easy owing to the prescriptions of doctors; but he is better now and after a month in Scotland he is completing a cure in country surroundings on the south coast of England. His book is as full as ever of those vivid descriptions of sport and outdoor activity which first attracted readers of "The English Captain" and in "Sea Wall" there are several boxing matches and swimming contests which will excite the most peaceable of readers.

I hear that there is every likelihood of a serious biography of Arnold Bennett being written by a young Frenchman, a professor from Algiers. He intends to take six years in the composition of this book and has already paid his first visit to London for the sake of gathering necessary material.

Meetings and Lectures

Next Wednesday will be literature day in the week devoted to Illinois achievement at A Century of Progress Exposition. During the afternoon and evening in the Illinois Host House programs will be given. At 1 o'clock Ernest Bernbaum will talk on "The University of Illinois—Its Contribution to Literature," and at 2 Miss Estelle Frances Ward will do the same for Northwestern university, and at 4 George Sherburn for the University of Chicago. At 3 o'clock Mrs. James Henry Jackson will discuss "A Century of Illinois Authors."

Vincent Starrett, president of the Society of Midland Authors, will be chairman of the evening meeting at 8 o'clock at which Carl Sandburg, Mary Hasting Bradley, and Lew Sarett will be the principal speakers following a tribute by Ethel M. Colson Brazleton. A reception will follow the evening meeting. The day is under the direction of Mrs. F. Jefferson Redfield, chairman of the literature committee of the hostess committee of the Illinois commission to A Century of Progress.

On Friday the first meeting of the Friends of American Writers will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Malcom, 3328 Washington boulevard, when Miss Juliet Barker will speak on "Modern American Dramatists," and Mrs. Frank Osborn De Money will read an original poem on "Chicago." The program will begin at 1:30 and will be followed by tea.

On Friday between 4 and 6 p. m. Beatrice Borland will give an informal lecture (with motion pictures) and be the guest of honor at a tea at Kroch's bookstore to celebrate the publishing of "Passports to Asia," a lively travel book.

Overseas Service.

The Women's Overseas Service league will hold their fall luncheon at 1:15 p. m. today in the Malibu Beach club, Hollywood, Century of Progress.

His Day
by Fairfax Downey
author of "Burton, Arabian Nights Adventurer," etc.

Here is the story of "Richard the Lion Harding," into whose lifetime was packed enough adventure for a dozen men. War correspondent in half a dozen wars and sundry revolutions: star of all star reporters, ideal of a generation of young men, creator of Van Bibber, Gallegher, "Soldiers of Fortune": handsome, daring, chivalrous—the romantic symbol of an era. Fairfax Downey has written his biography with a zest and sparkle that give it the fascination of a novel, and the scores of illustrations recall not only R. H. D. but the stirring years through which he lived and wrote.

Memoirs of a Spy
Adventures Along the Eastern Fronts
by Nicholas Snowden
Former Austro-Hungarian Secret Agent

Front-line stuff. The authentic record of a spy on the battle-front during the World War, and for several years after. A daily bout with death, from the time when, just nineteen, he slipped through two Russian armies into beleaguered Przemysl, through thrilling days and nights of spying among the soldiers of the Czar and on the Italian front, until, after post-war adventures under Bela Kun the Red master of Hungary, and a last-minute escape from a death sentence, the author made his way to America. Every chapter is packed with excitement. $2.75

FREE— FOR YOUR LIBRARY

—to those who join the Book-of-the-Month Club at this time . . . it costs nothing to belong and you do not have to take a book every month

WE suggest simply that you send the coupon below and get full information as to what the Book-of-the-Month Club does for book-readers. For instance, are you aware that as a member, you are not obliged to take the specific book-of-the-month chosen by the judges? You may buy it or not, as you please, after reading the judges' pre-publication report about it. Nor do you have to pay any fixed sum: You pay the regular retail price for such books as you decide to buy. What then is the advantage of joining?

There are many: first, book-dividends; for every dollar its members spend on books they receive back on the average over 50% in the form of free books. Second, without a penny of expense, through the reports of the judges you are kept completely informed about all the important new books, so that you can choose among them with discrimination, instead of having to rely upon advertising and hearsay. There are several other advantages, not readily measurable in money, that cannot be outlined here for lack of space. Surely, within the next year, the distinguished judges of the Club will choose as the book-of-the-month or recommend as alternates, at least a few books that you will be very anxious to read and which you will buy anyway. Why not—by joining the Club—make sure you get these instead of missing them, which so often happens; get the really substantial advantages the Club affords (such as the book-dividends mentioned, if nothing else), and at the same time get a copy of NINE PLAYS by Eugene O'Neill, free.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

RUSSIA ACCUSES JAPAN OF PLOT TO 'STEAL' RAILWAY

Lodges a Sharp Protest with Tokio.

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A sharp protest was lodged with Japan today by soviet Russia, which charged that Japan, through Manchukuo, intended to disregard Russia's rights in the conduct of the Chinese Eastern railway.

Declaring that "Manchukuo is powerless and incapable of being responsible for events in Manchuria," the Russian note charged that the two countries "intend rudely to violate the rights of the soviet manager of the railway, making him dependent on a Manchurian assistant."

"At the same time," the protest continued, "Manchurian authorities, under the direction of Japanese agents, are planning a series of police measures against soviet employés of the railway.

"The soviet government, accordingly, warns that a realization of such measures will be regarded as a violation of treaty obligations and as an inadmissible attempt to seize the railway."

As yet unfruitful bargainings for the sale by the soviet union of its interests in the railway line to Manchukuo were begun several months ago in Tokio.

Tokio to Ignore Protest.

TOKIO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A government spokesman today again pointed out the Japanese official stand that Manchukuo is an independent state, leading to the belief that Russia's protest concerning the operation of the Chinese Eastern railway would be disregarded. The spokesman held that it was "improper" to address the protest to Japan in view of the Japanese contention that it is not responsible for the acts of Manchukuo.

Japs Demand Boycott End.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23.—[Saturday.]—Coincident with the arrival of Japanese reinforcements for the legation garrison at Peiping, the Japanese today lodged a demand with the Peiping municipality ordering a cessation of the boycott and other anti-Japanese activities.

This demand follows the Japanese ultimatum Thursday demanding the withdrawal of Gen. Fang Cheng-wu's rebel forces, numbering several thousand men, from the demilitarized zone between Peiping and the Great Wall. Chinese reports from Peiping allege that Gen. Fang and other rebel commanders, former subordinates of Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian general, were permitted to pass through southeastern Jehol province by the Japanese military authorities, and that consequently the responsibility for rebel activities within the demilitarized zone rests with the Japanese rather than with Chinese authorities.

Troops Seize Officials.

An official Kuo Min [Chinese] news agency report from Peiping said Gen. Fang's troops are rapidly increasing and have advanced to within 20 miles of Peiping. The arrest of Chinese magistrates and the killing of police by Gen. Fang's troops has created a panicky condition. Chinese troops are forbidden to enter the zone.

Chinese papers here allege that all 19 counties of the demilitarized zone are completely controlled by bandits and that the Chinese population is fleeing to Tientsin and Peiping. The leading bandit commander, Tahoutze [Big Rat] has occupied more towns in the Chinwangtao area without interference from the nearby Japanese garrisons.

Chinese papers charge that the Japanese are increasing their garrisons at Chengteh [Jehol city] as well as along the Great Wall, while large stocks of munitions are being landed at Shanhaikwan. The Chinese believe the Japanese are preparing to occupy the demilitarized zone on the ground that the Chinese have violated the truce of Tangku and that they are unable to preserve order.

CHEFS VS. WOMEN COOKS? RESTAURANT MANAGERS DEBATE

The question of whether men are better cooks than women was debated hotly but to no decision yesterday at the convention of the National Restaurant association in the Furniture Mart.

AL B. CARDEN.

"I vote for men," declared E. M. Fleischman, manager of a chain of 50 restaurants. "By men I mean chefs, not man cooks. A man cook you pay from $15 to $25 a week, and everything tastes the same. A chef you pay from $50 to $250 a week, often more than the owner of the restaurant makes, but you get food that is food."

"I had a marvelous woman cook," said a Kansas City delegate, "and when she left me business left with her. I tried men and I paid for it. Now the women are back and the business is back."

Man's taste is superior to woman's, champions of the man cooks maintained. To this the restaurateurs employing woman cooks replied that women are always experimenting, while a man turns out the same dishes in the same old way and won't accept suggestions.

Al B. Carder of Chicago was elected president of the association at its closing session, and A. Boyd Pixley of Chicago, treasurer. John P. Harding and Roy Cooley of Evanston were elected directors.

DUKE CALLS AUTO 'HORRIBLE BRUTE' AT HORSE SHOW

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—In the appropriate setting of the Ashborne horse show in Derbyshire, the duke of Devonshire made a speech today in which he said motor cars are "foul, stinking things" and "horrible brutes making life hideous."

"When I first knew this horse show we came here as gentlemen, not as crashing cads," said the duke, who formerly was governor general of Canada.

He remarked that when in London last week he had been fortunate enough to get about in an old hansom. He was lucky, indeed, for only about half a dozen of them are left.

NASH CONFIDENT SLUMP IS OVER; SPEEDS FACTORY

Plans Production and Promotion Program.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—An outstanding conservative of American industry, C. W. Nash, chairman of the motor company bearing his name, is coming out of the storm cellar he has occupied throughout the depression and is plunging hard pinched dollars on a production and promotion program with as liberal a hand as he ever exercised during the days of easy money.

As an economic forecast, this change of heart by the veteran automobile manufacturer is more dramatic than the annual first appearance of the ground hog. If Charlie Nash can see blue in the sky the sky must be blue, that's how eastern bankers and financers feel about this old-timer from Wisconsin.

Stacks Belch Smoke.

The change in sentiment here was first noted in driving into Kenosha from Chicago this morning. A string of stacks were belching smoke from the Nash plant. Approaching the plant the automobiles of laborers filled all available parking space.

In the advertising department office F. R. Babcock was surrounded by page proofs, pamphlets, photographs, and drawings for a promotion campaign described as the most intensive in the twenty-seven years' history of the company.

In the president's office E. H. McCarty was telling a production executive that advance orders for 1934 models indicated sufficient business to assure continued operation of the Nash plants in Kenosha, Milwaukee, and Racine for at least the next six months.

Announce New Models Soon.

While waiting to see Mr. Nash a peek into a factory yard gave a view of these 1934 models which will be announced in a few weeks. It's a dressed up motor car of entirely new design, but details about it are suppressed pending its formal debut.

Mr. Nash opened his door, gray headed, with smiling wrinkles in his rugged complexion, with forty of his sixty-nine years spent in manufacturing vehicles, he shook hands and shoved chairs aside with the impetuous vigor of a college quarter back, and sat down to chat.

"We've been saving our money through this depression," he said. "And now we have some money to spend when the prospects are good for our getting some business and we're spending it.

"We're putting out an automobile that is expensive to manufacture. And we have an advertising and promotion campaign more ambitious than we ever tackled in '28 or '29."

Massachusetts District Attorney Post to J. W. Ford

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

GOING TO JERSEY CITY.

Three-fourths of the members of the New York Stock exchange have applied for seats on the New Jersey board. It is said that within a few weeks most of the transactions in securities will be in Jersey City, and it is predicted that the shift will not be affected by any second thoughts in New York affecting the tax program which put the brokers to flight. That prediction may be intended to bring about the hasty withdrawal of the taxes, but apparently their continuance will result in the loss of the security market to New York.

The various governments of this country evidently go on the idea that the golden goose can be easily seized by the neck. The fact is that the golden goose has all the instincts of the wild goose. That of self-preservation is chief among them. The defense against danger is flight. The tax fowler sometimes finds a bird that is unable to rise, but once to the chopping block and pot for that bird and there's the end of him, as the bird itself knows, if the fowler doesn't.

Rugged individualism still survives in this country to the extent that the rugged individual knows that if he doesn't take care of himself nobody else will do it as willingly or well. The planned society has not conquered this apprehension. People are not devoid of patriotism, but they haven't lost their fear of poverty or their liking for profits. Furthermore, the wise ones realize that mistakes of government will descend heavily on some one, and that it is no virtue to be caught in a mistake which later will be acknowledged with apologies or regret. The man who has nothing to lose from the working of a government scheme will adopt it. The man who has much to lose, if the scheme goes wrong, will feel it out for its weaknesses and try to see that he is not caught in them. He knows that he will have no preferred standing as a victim, not even in the matter of sympathy. Government with public money in its chest may be able to afford mistakes. The private citizen does not see his way so clear.

Consequently, he tries to escape what he thinks will injure him. If he sells abroad, he leaves his money there because he does not know what it will be worth tomorrow in the United States. He buys Canadian securities, sells them in London and leaves his money in foreign currency. He sells little pigs to Mr. Wallace, but he keeps his sows to produce more little pigs to sell to Mr. Wallace. He plows under cotton and rents his worst land to the government, but he uses fertilizer on the better land and gets more from it. He signs a code in black ink, but he won't, if he can avoid it thereafter, post his books in red.

His justification through all this is that governments are notable chiefly for their mistakes, and that when he is out on the street no one is compelled to buy his lead pencils or shoestrings. In a cold winter he will find no one half so much interested in him as he is himself.

MILITARY AVIATION.

Capt. Ross Hoyt of the army air corps says that its fighting planes are hopelessly obsolete and must be replaced by highly specialized planes of highest speed. To which all interested in national defense will agree with an important reservation. It is not desirable that a large sum should be spent upon types which may soon be declared as obsolete or inadequate as the present types. A small number for experiment and emergency work are enough. For war on a modern scale we must rely on the resources provided by the expansion of commercial aviation. To this, of course, must be joined the specialized preparation of the army and navy, and for this adequate provision should be at all times maintained.

And while we are on the subject of aviation may we congratulate the navy upon its splendid flight to the Canal Zone, the longest nonstop mass formation flight in the history of aviation? We have lately celebrated the flight of the Italians under Gen. Balbo, but the flight of the navy air corps from the navy base at Norfolk, Va., to Panama also calls for the highest praise as an exhibition of technical skill and preparedness. It should have a greater interest for the American people, though little advertised. It is to be noted that it was a very practical achievement in that it covered a route within the probabilities of service and attained one of the most important of strategic objectives.

WHEN A PRESIDENT IS NOT A PRESIDENT.

Ramon Grau San Martin, known as provisional president of Cuba (at this writing), owes his place to the noncom mutiny in the Cuban army and the submission of the other provisional president, Cespedes, to the corporals and sergeants and their supporters in the mercurial civilian population. In accordance with the practice prevailing in Latin American countries, upheavals chasing out one government and putting in another produce in office a gentleman known as a president. He may be a military intriguer, a professional revolutionist, a successful demagogue or what not. No matter how he has assumed or usurped authority, he is, during his period of control, known as president. The designation has an impropriety which vexes the patience.

A president is an executive officer whose warrant of authority is based on credentials of orderly and lawful procedure. His responsibilities and his duties are defined by law and his obligation to the law is precise and unavoidable. His authority in a government is derived from the consent of the people whose affairs he administers. Power derived from any other source may sustain a usurper. It may be seized by the man on horseback. Rebellious regiments or insurgent minorities may put a man in the president's office, but they can't make him a president. He does not preside over public affairs; he arbitrarily controls them.

To call a usurper a president confuses the perception of the situation. When democracies are composed mainly of bunches of firecrackers, presidents will be few in office. The man who bobs up to take charge from time to time will be a junta leader, an ephemeral autocrat or factional chief, but he will not be a president in any sense in which the name can be properly applied.

SMALLER AND BETTER BANK BOARDS.

In the Glass-Steagall measure a reform proposed and urged in THE TRIBUNE editorials was incorporated, and we are confident will be one of the unqualified and substantial betterments in banking organization. The provision is for the limitation of boards of directors to "not less than five nor more than twenty-five."

No board of directors should be larger than can sit around a table and know all about the bank's business, and no bank should be so large that such a board cannot know all about its business. The long period of prosperity culminating in the boom period was marked in banking as in other business by the merging of institutions without much regard for anything but bigness, and each merger brought along the directors of the allied institutions. Directorships were also used as a reward for important customers, and the result of this procedure was the growth of boards too unwieldy to be efficient and numbering members inexperienced in banking or too busy with their own enterprises to give the attention a director owes to his institution. These boards were very impressive because it was assumed by the public that an institution directed by so many men of large affairs must be sound and well managed. But this assumed that all the directors were directing, whereas in too many instances the board was a rubber stamp.

Smaller boards will concentrate responsibility and compel directors to inform themselves of the bank's affairs. It is to be hoped men will not seek or accept directorship unless they can give the necessary time and attention to the duties they assume.

DR. EZEKIEL SPEAKS A PIECE.

Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel of the brain trust tosses out the suggestion that too large a proportion of the population is engaged in selling and transportation and too small a proportion in what he calls production.

Dr. Ezekiel no doubt has the logarithms on hand to prove this. It is a pity he has not confided his theorem and proof to his associates in the government. Mr. Wallace, the secretary of agriculture, who is Dr. Ezekiel's boss, is presently engaged in paying farmers to reduce their output. It is a little difficult to see how more producers will be found on farms when the farms produce less. It is still harder to understand how the farmers will be better off after Mr. Wallace has raised their incomes if they have to use the added income to pay more wages to more farm hands.

The Boston Conference on Retail Distribution was the audience which the doctor selected for the presentation of his views. The gentlemen who heard him must have been somewhat puzzled. Their government is, at the moment, obliging them to increase the number of men and women on their pay rolls. If Dr. Ezekiel is right about the disproportionately large number of workers employed in distribution then Gen. Johnson and his 35 hour week are wrong.

Having proved to any one's satisfaction that Mr. Wallace and Gen. Johnson were full of prunes, Dr. Ezekiel next turned upon himself. The prices of raw materials must go up faster than the prices of retail goods, he said. But his proposal to increase the numbers employed in producing raw materials and to decrease the numbers employed in distribution can only result in still larger supplies of raw materials and still fewer customers in the cities to buy them. When there are more dairy farmers and fewer white collar families to drink milk, what will happen to prices?

Dr. Ezekiel seems to have left this question open. Having concluded his remarks, he reached for his hat. What use he may have for it is a nice question. There are no logarithms bearing on the point.

Editorial of the Day

PRETZEL INSPECTORS.

[Decatur Herald.]

She asks what the stories about pretzel inspectors in the Decatur papers mean. You say, why, the beer license ordinance passed by the city council prohibits the serving of free lunch. She asks what is the matter with free lunch, how does that break the law? You say, well you see, they had free lunch in saloons in the old days and the city commissioners didn't like for people to think they were licensing saloons again. She says she never heard anybody objecting to free food, did you? She supposed the trouble with saloons was that workmen cashed their checks in saloons and bought whisky for everybody present, no matter how many there were, and that they didn't have money left to buy shoes for their children. You say yes, you faintly remember hearing those things said about the saloons.

But, she says, what has all that got to do with pretzels? How do they pass ordinances anyway? You say you suppose the five councilmen sit down around a table and talk about the laws there ought to be. They each have some ideas that should be put into the law, and one fellow must have thought it was not a good thing to have people getting pretzels free with a glass of beer and so suggested that. The others, you suppose, couldn't think of anybody objecting very much to not having pretzels, so passed the ordinance that way. Then, of course, they had to have inspectors to see that the law was enforced.

She says she doesn't care very much for pretzels, either, but she thinks the city councilmen might like to have her recipe for breakfast rolls.

SUMMER'S GONE! Autumn began (or begins, depending on what time you read this) at one minute after seven o'clock this morning. If we had only thought of it in time we might have instituted a summer saving plan by pushing the months back and declaring October to be September. Or NRA could have fixed it. But nobody thought of it in time. So now it's Autumn and the sere and yellow leaves will rustle under foot. But NRA may step in yet. All they have to do is to say it's still summer and hire the unemployed to go around with cans of green paint and color the leaves green. And they can keep the leaves from falling by just climbing the trees and gluing the darn things to the boughs.

THE TOWN of Torrington in Connecticut madly proclaims to the rest of the United States that it possesses a white Leghorn pullet which has just laid a third egg in eighteen hours. They claim another victory for NRA. But is it? What about the six hour day?

CHRISTENSEN.

When we had driven some five hundred miles
Beyond the wealth of city spires and parks
And landscaped homes and shimmering lakes and trees,
We came upon the vaster prairie lands
In undulating brown on brown—baked dry,
Ash dry—beneath a dome of shining steel.
We stopped for gas and oil at Castle Butte,
A turreted and centuried sandstone pile
Erosion gnawed and stranded on the plains.
And Christensen in apathetic way
Brushed grasshoppers from about the radiator—
A crisp, dead mass—a pailful, all in all,

The west had wrangled Christensen for years,
But always he saw victory in the fight.
Beginning with a few cheap, common cows,
He graded, gradually, to thoroughbreds.
His Herefords fattened on the buffalo grass.
Foreseeing free range some day barbed wire fenced,
With each year's roundup and fall marketing,
He straightway bought another quarter section,
Enough more land to raise eight head of steers,
With average rainfall and the forage prime.

Thus in an ever widening, slip-noosed coil,
He worked and slept and waked to work again.
The myriad, dainty bounding antelope,
The shy yet cheery booming prairie fowl,
Were naught to him—except in terms of food
Or menaces to the range and garden truck.
Wild flowers in their Easter gloriousness
Meant richer feeding or abundant hay.
The bridal wreath by plum filled hollows worn,
The emerald of sloos and willowed swale,
The pepperminted balm of heaven sent dews,
Meant lusher food for grazing herds . . . with all
Each member of the family taking turn,
One each for every hour of day and night,
Out on the storm and sun swept sweet spring trails—
Through numbing winds and stupefying heat—
To snow and frosty spangled purple sage—
The price of range for eight more head of steers!

Then somewhere there was fighting—somewhere war.
His ranch with cowboys riding in relays,
High salaried foremen . . . blooded bulls and cows,
New sheds and luxuries in fine equipment,
Skilled veterinaries at calving time,
And always Christensen affixing his name
To lengthy legal documents and notes.

One night the guns bawled peace—the bells clanked peace.
But there at Christensen's—there was no peace.
The easily widened business coil drew taut,
Taut as a rawhide lash on desert sands,
There credit slipped its lariat and ramped
An outlaw on the plains of enterprise.
And topping this the grasses seared and failed,
The winds came off the earth as from hot coals,
The waterholes in gumboed emptiness
But mocked the thirst of bony, bald-patched stock
The tough cow ponies lathered on the trails
Foreclosure followed close on debt and drouth—
Supplanters since the days of Genesis
When Rachel, Leah, Jacob, slyly schemed
To rustle Laban's household gods and flocks.

Yet Christensen with that stern doggedness
That marks the cattle trader for all time,
Accepting bravely, stoically . . . defeat . . .
Unbuckled his calf-skin chaps and clinking spurs
And doffed his ten gallon hat to misfortune,
At selling oil and gas at Castle Butte;
Where he might covenant anew with life
And raise an altar to his faith . . . the faith
That acres loved would bloom and give again.

Occasional calls of tourists rushing by;
What mattered loss and drouth—or grasshoppers—
Or flailings with a tattered gunny sack?
For in the evening with his chair atilt
The winds of day, assailing, buffeting,
Became refreshing lyrics of the night.
Time reconciled he rounded from the years
A finer sense, a quickened soul, a step
That freed him from the view of sordidness.

A TREATMENT FOR BELL'S PARALYSIS.

BELL'S PARALYSIS is a disorder characterized by paralysis of one side of the face. It is not serious in the sense that it threatens life or is the forerunner of any disease which may do that. In so far as the face is concerned the effects it causes are those of hemiplegia or apoplexy. The most alarming feature about Bell's paralysis is this resemblance to apoplexy, a disease with which it is not in any way related.

However, aside from any danger to life the person who has Bell's palsy is unhappy because of the change in his expression and his loss of muscle control of the eye and mouth. To have an eyelid droop somewhat and at the same time to be unable to close the aperture completely, to have the eyeball turn in a peculiar and unusual way, the corner of the mouth droop or pull up at the corner, to have no ability to close the lips or to use them properly in speech, to have one side of the face flat and expressionless—such symptoms are a source of considerable discomfort and embarrassment.

Bell's paralysis is due to a neuritis of the great bundle of nerves which supply the muscles of one side of the face. This nerve, known as one of the cranials, comes away from the base of the brain and passes through a long, narrow, bony canal to emerge on the side of the head near the ear and then to break up into branches which run to the several groups of muscles distributed from the forehead above to the chin below.

Ordinarily we do not expect a neuritis to cause paralysis. No such development follows sciatica or neuritis of the great nerve of the leg, or neuritis in the large nerves of the arm. The reason for this unusual effect is pressure on the nerve as it passes through the bony canal to reach the face. It is unusually severe for the same reason that a toothache is severe—out of all proportion to the size of the nerve of the tooth or its importance.

Dr. B. R. Tucker, recognizing that the undue effect of this form of neuritis is due to pressure, treats the disease by a novel method. He puts an old fashioned fly blister on the skin behind the ear. He leaves it there long enough to raise a blister. When he began his method he poulticed the affected side of the face, reapplying the poultice often enough to keep it warm. This he kept up for two or three days. At the present time, instead of using the poultice, he uses an infra red lamp or, failing that, an ordinary incandescent lamp—using it frequently and freely enough to keep the skin of the affected side of the face warm and red for two days. The object is to lessen the swelling of the nerve and to relieve pressure on it while it is in the bony canal.

To be most effective this treatment should be begun within one week after the onset of the disease. In addition he uses adhesive strips to lift and hold up the sagging tissues of the face. Internally salicylates and iodides are of some service.

NAIL BITING.

E. G. writes: Please publish a dissertation on nail biting in children, its causes and possible cure. It is an ugly and repulsive habit and is disfiguring. I am much distressed over a particular case, a child of 3½ years.

REPLY.

Nail biting can be cured. In fact, cure is the rule. Keeping the nails painted with a bitter varnish is generally very helpful. We supply a recipe for such a varnish to those who send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

However, this method is not effective unless it is accompanied by training, and training can be effective without it. Nail biting is a manifestation of nervousness. It is one of the things that nervous people do as manifestations of their being ill at ease. It is cured by training. It is said that nail biting is an evidence of lack of training. It is also said to be evidence of lack of emotional poise; that it is an inferiority complex. These statements are all substantially correct. While nervousness and lack of poise and balance are not cured by any overnight magic, they yield to patient, persistent, well planned training. Nothing else suffices.

Nail biting is by no means confined to childhood. Timid adults, self-conscious adults, and adults with inferiority complexes bite their nails.

TRY ROWING.

E. M. H. writes: I am losing my waistline. I am a woman 54 years old, about 5 feet 4½ inches, and weigh about 123 pounds. I am and have always been very active. About Christmas time I had a thorough examination at my doctor's. Everything was all right. But I notice my waistline is getting thick, and I do not like it. I try to hold my abdomen in and up, and do pretty well, but need something in special exercises, I think. Is there anything better than one of those small rowing machines?

REPLY.

PORCH REPAIRED.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—Our back porch is in very bad condition. It is very shaky and I must use it when hanging clothes, etc. I have mentioned it to the landlord several times, asking him to repair it, but nothing has been done. Please refer this to the proper authorities. E. L.

The premises in question have been inspected and a report made that the porch has been repaired and is now in good and safe condition. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Commissioner of Buildings.

DIVORCE LAWS.

Highland Park, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Inclosed is a clipping from a letter that concerns the new "Graham" law. Will you give the exact wording of each of the inclosed clauses from the Smith-Hurd of 1933? We are greatly interested in all of this new law about divorce, the so-called "bring back the racket from Reno." R. W. L.

There seems to be a popular impression that the new laws make it easier to secure divorce in Illinois, but this is erroneous. The grounds for divorce and the required delay remain the same as before. The addition to section 13 authorizes the charging of child support against either party. Sections 15 and 18 are changed to allow alimony to be charged against either party. These changes evidently are not what you are interested in, since they have no tendency to "bring back the racket." They are too lengthy to copy in full. You will find these amendments incorporated in sections 13, 15, and 18 of the divorce act, which is chapter 40 of the above mentioned statutes, and these sections may be found on pages 1125 to 1127 of the book above mentioned.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

F. O. T. asks: Can the wheat bonus which the government agrees to pay for reducing our crop be attached or assigned in any way?

Answer: No. All checks are made payable to the signer of the contract, or signers if both owner and tenant participate in the payments.

N. A. D. asks: Just what is the wheat adjustment plan, in simple terms? I've been reading a lot about it, but am not clear as to how long it runs and what is paid out to farmers.

Answer: Under the agricultural adjustment act the secretary of agriculture is authorized to sign contracts with wheat producers to pay a premium for reducing acreage in 1934 and 1935 to an amount below their average acreage for either the last three or last five years, whichever period has the lower average. The payments start this fall and are shared by both owners and tenants unless on a cash rent basis. It is intended to curtail wheat production and applies to number of acres seeded and not the number harvested in the next three years.

M. G. H.: What happens to my wheat reduction payments if I sell my farm this winter?

Answer: The government will make payments only to those signed to the contracts. The buyer of the farm would need to sign a new contract for the ensuing crop years.

NRA Question Box

Following are some of the typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and answers as given by the Chicago Association of Commerce:

Question—Can an employer operating under the NRA fire an employé if such employé cannot turn out the designated amount of work under a piece work basis?

Answer—Yes, this can be done where the amount of work is prescribed for such worker by the industry as a whole, either in the code or by some special agreement. The NRA is not intended to be used by any workers as an excuse for laying down on the job.

Question—May all types of business concerns sign the President's reemployment agreement and fly the Blue Eagle? If so, how?

Answer—Yes, by 100 per cent compliance with the P. R. A. By operating under the trade or industry code providing one has been approved and by signing and living up to the NRA as far as possible and petitioning for relief from such paragraphs which cannot be made effective at once.

Question—What about the hospitals where the orderlies work every day and fifty to sixty hours a week? Why don't they come under the code?

Answer—Hospitals have been classified as public institutions and as such its workers do not come under the NRA. That is the ruling. We regret that we cannot give you the reasons.

THE ROLE OF A FREE PRESS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—This statement in a speech before a conference at Boston on retail distribution, on the underlying principle of the freedom of the press, should be carried at the masthead of every newspaper:

"Our newspapers will not forget that the special protection afforded them in our constitution imposes upon them a corresponding duty to protect those occupations not so safeguarded."

The press is guaranteed freedom by the first amendment of the constitution for the purpose of protecting the American against (1) his government and (2) his fellow man. The writers of the constitution knew that no government had ever been devised that did not interfere with liberty. They took every precaution in writing the constitution for the protection of liberty by that instrument, and then they called to the aid of the constitution a free press, recognizing that a constitution alone might not be sufficient.

In the terrible tyranny of taxation by government under which the American people suffer, not to mention other tyrannies, we find one of the conditions which the constitutional convention tried to prevent when it limited the raising of money by taxes "to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States." Money collected by Washington for any other purpose is taken in violation of the constitution and of the American's liberty.

Did the press recognize its duty to protect the American from being put under this tyranny? The answer is no. The levies and the expenditures of money have been made with almost as much impunity as would have been exhibited were the press not in existence. Indeed, the average editor is nearly as unprepared to perform his constitutional functions and duties as the average lawyer.

HARD LIQUOR.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Like many others I voted against prohibition because I was disgusted with the evils it fostered. But I would like to have it understood that I was equally disgusted with what we had before prohibition. I have talked to about a dozen of my friends, all but one having voted wet, and they feel the same way as I do about it.

That vociferous foe of prohibition, H. L. Mencken of Baltimore, says that whisky drinking is an unmitigated evil. Of course it is. And it is more of an evil today than before prohibition, because our ways have become more complicated. What we need is a liquor control system with teeth in it. We must make hard liquor hard to get, and that silly fear of bootleggers must not stand in the way of rigid control of the sale of beverages with a high content of alcohol.

Of course the distillers, thinking only of the profit motive, have the nerve, incredible though it may seem, to advocate the return of the old fashioned saloon. This in spite of the fact that a Democrat or Republican who votes for the return of the saloon would repudiate the national platform of his own party. As a wet I am interested in saving the country from dry fanatics. I am just as interested in saving the country from wet extremists who may forget that the drinking of hard liquor is a monstrous evil which I, as a lifelong foe of prohibition, will never condone.

THE BATTLE OF LAKE ERIE.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—The museum of the Chicago Historical society in Lincoln park with its orderly and artistic arrangement of valuable exhibits, guarded by most courteous attendants, is a building that no visitor to the Century of Progress should miss.

There is, however, one thing in the Marine room which might be improved upon. In this room beneath a picture of Capt. J. D. Elliott is the statement that he commanded the Niagara in the battle of Lake Erie and under a small picture of Commodore O. H. Perry is simply the date of birth and death. Father said that in Cleveland, O., where they make a great deal of Perry, they give a different emphasis. Capt. Elliott did command the Niagara at the beginning of the battle and was supposed to fight the British ship Queen Charlotte, but when Perry in his flagship, Lawrence, advanced upon the enemy, Elliott did not follow. Perceiving this, the Queen Charlotte went to the aid of the British flagship Detroit, which was firing upon Perry's ship.

After Perry had borne the brunt of battle for more than two hours he left his crippled ship and was rowed in a small boat to the scarcely injured Niagara. Sending Elliott upon an errand, Perry hoisted the flag of the Lawrence and ordered the ship into close action with the British where his indomitable spirit won the battle of Lake Erie.

Father also obtained information of the battle from his father-in-law, the artist, Louis B. Chevalier, who was a close friend of Stephen Champlin, who as a young man commanded the Scorpion, the schooner which fired the first and last shots in the conflict. Stephen Champlin in about 1860 took grandfather from Erie, Pa., where he lived, to Put-in bay to sketch while he described the burial of the American and British officers slain in this conflict. The crews of both fleets had united in the solemn ceremony in which equal respect was given to the valiant officers of both countries.

The generous and humane Commodore O. H. Perry, who was great in peace as well as in war, deserves a more fitting memorial than he now has in the Chicago Historical museum.

OPEN BREWERS' EXHIBIT TODAY, FIRST IN 22 YEARS

Modern Bar Stands Out in Beer Garden Setting.

The halls of the old Coliseum, redolent of the past, with the atmosphere of prize fights, marathon dances, and circuses, acquired a new odor yesterday. The American Brewers' exposition, first of its kind in 22 years, was being assembled for opening this afternoon, and the air was filled with the smell of malt, hops, and beer.

The big south hall, in other times a storage place for packing cases, was transformed into an old world beer garden, with trees, grass plots, graveled walks, and flickering, gaslit street lamps. Standing out amidst all this quaintness was the last word in modern bars.

A hundred feet long and equipped with 30 spigots, the bar is unique in its equipment with the Zahm beer drawing system, which guarantees the proper collar on every stein, no matter what the brand and regardless of whether it be the first or last glass in the barrel. To demonstrate the bar's efficiency, its makers plan to have thirty brands on tap at once, offering a variety of beers said never to have been available before at once in Chicago.

Many Other Bars Shown.

Out in the main exhibition were batteries of other bars, ranging from the compact two spigot model designed for the hospitable householder's basement, to the massive twenty spigot type of inlaid wood, with beveled mirrors and copper trim, such as the exclusive hotels and country resorts are now installing.

On all this equipment there was one familiar feature missing—the old brass rail. Bartenders have found that since the taproom became a rendezvous for both sexes, women patrons have wrenched off their high heels on the rails. Hence a step at the base of the bar has taken the place of the brass rail.

Amidst the profusion of taproom equipment the situation was a bit parching yesterday until the first beer rolled in. Word spread among the carpenters, painters, electricians, and exhibitors and some hardy one whacked the necks off a couple of cases of bottled brew and started several bungs.

Beer Flows Merrily.

The beer was flowing merrily when Felix Mendelsohn, impresario of the show, rushed in and ordered everybody back to work. The tradesmen obeyed, but the exhibitors and the brew masters, for whom the exhibition is being staged, stayed on.

The brew masters are opening their annual convention at the Drake tomorrow. The discussions will be entirely technical, according to the president, Marcus Maegerlain.

Braumeister Maegerlein put a quietus on talk that the brewmasters, 2,200 of whom are expected at the convention, would go into plans for boosting the present 3.2 per cent beer to a higher percentage as soon as the eighteenth amendment is repealed.

"For what?" queried the braumeister. "It was never more than that in the old days. On ales, maybe, yea. But there are a lot of angles. The government may call 3.2 per cent a temperance beer and may put a higher tax on stronger beers and ales. It's all up in the air, so why talk about it."

ARGENTINE CHIEF FIGHTS PLAN TO AID LAND OWNERS

Splits with Congress on Mortgage Moratorium.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 22.—"Something must be done about this." That was, in effect, the slogan adopted by Argentine land owners, great and small, when the prolonged slump in prices of live stock and agricultural produce finally reduced the value of their properties in many instances to something less than the amount of the mortgages upon them.

Something was promptly done about it by the chamber of deputies, which sanctioned a measure granting a two year moratorium on all mortgage obligations and fixing 4 per cent per annum as the maximum interest chargeable. Mortgages effected through the National Mortgage bank were exempted from the benefits of the bill in order that special arrangements for them should not be impeded.

Government Opposes Bill.

The senate finance committee recommended to the upper chamber that it approve the measure with amendments extending the moratorium to three years and increasing the maximum interest chargeable from 4 to 6 per cent.

The government viewed the progress of this proposal with disfavor. It considered that although alleviation of mortgagors' burdens was highly desirable, the drastic terms of this measure "undermined the financial structure of the country."

The minister of finance, Dr. Pinedo, speaking in the senate, declared that things were not so bad as painted by the sponsors of the bill, pointed out that the interests of mortgagees could not thus be sacrificed wholesale, and finally reminded his hearers of an axiom of Roman law to the effect that overmuch solicitude for the defense of debtors is a sign of the decadence of a people.

Submits Own Proposals.

The government asked the senate to postpone action until it could judge of the efficacy of the general lowering of interest rates which bankers recently "voluntarily" offered—at the government's special request. Simultaneously the government sent congress a bill designed to assist debtors of the National Mortgage bank. It provides for the suspension for three years of the annual sinking fund payments of 1 per cent, and for the condonation of the bank's annual commission of 1 per cent, in the case of debtors meeting their obligations on time.

There is, therefore, a wide difference between what the government thinks "should be done about it" in the case of National Mortgage bank debtors, and what congress deems necessary for real estate debtors generally. This divergence is not unlikely to cause trouble between the president and congress. In many quarters it is believed that President Justo would veto a bill on the lines which seem to be meeting with congressional approval. The terms of the mortgage moratorium bill, as finally approved by congress, are, therefore, awaited with considerable interest.

Strike Against Taxes.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 22.—Stores throughout Argentina closed today in protest against the income and turnover taxes. The bigger stores here did not close, but the small retailers did. The larger cities in the interior reported a complete shutdown of all business. A massmeeting here sent a note to the minister of finance alleging that two-thirds of the persons subject to the income tax were not paying and that the turnover tax could not be collected.

BEER MEASURE IN NORTH DAKOTA IS LEADING 2 TO 1

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Approval of an initiated measure to legalize sale of 3.2 per cent beer in North Dakota appeared assured tonight on the face of scattered returns from 30 of the state's 53 counties in today's state-wide special election.

The proposal was running more than two to one in favor of it, the vote from 311 out of 2,240 precincts giving for legalization 25,563 and 11,951 against.

North Dakota has been bone dry since 1889, when the state was admitted to the Union. The measure provides for a state beer commission and a tax of one-half cent per pint, effective Oct. 22.

Mollisons Test Plane for Flight to Bagdad

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASAGA BEACH, Ont., Sept. 22.—The Mollisons, Amy and Capt. Jim, made a trial run in their plane today over the hard packed sand beach near Toronto, from which they are to take off on their flight to Bagdad. They declared the beach perfect.

Hurricane Buffets Liner; More Than 100 Injured

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Panama Pacific liner Virginia came in today after having passed through a hurricane in which three passengers and more than 100 members of the crew were injured. Wednesday night, a day out of Havana, the vessel encountered heavy seas and a 120 mile wind. Capt. J. V. Richardson hove to and maneuvered his ship to prevent structural damage. The wind ripped off rails from the superstructure and bent the lifeboat supports.

WOMAN ON WAY HOME FROM FAIR KILLED BY AUTO

Mrs. Marie Kaufman, 32 years old, 147 Bellaire avenue, Louisville, Ky., was fatally injured last night while on her way home from the World's Fair. She was struck by an automobile which got out of the driver's control and plunged into a filling station 15 miles south of Hammond, Ind., on U. S. road 41. She died in the Methodist hospital in Gary.

Accompanied by Mrs. A. E. Lane, 1208 Union street, Louisville, Ky., Mrs. Kaufman had stopped for gasoline and was standing beside her car when struck. The driver of the other automobile, Mrs. Frank Pittman, 6330 East Washington street, Indianapolis, who was on her way to the Fair with a woman companion, said the wet pavement caused her to lose control. She was ordered to remain for the inquest today in Gary.

Vivian Baker, 18 years old, 27 East 36th place, was fatally injured yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding dodged another car and struck a light pole in front of 6430 Archer avenue. She died in the county hospital.

Miss Baker's death raised the Cook county motor toll to 745 for the year.

N. SHORE BANDITS SEIZED; CONFESS FOUR ROBBERIES

Fifteen minutes after they had held up the Western Union Telegraph office at 57 St. Johns avenue, Highland Park, last night, two bandits were captured by the Highland Park police. A few minutes later the robbers were identified and confessed that crime and three others. The gunmen are Harlan Erickson, 26 years old, 7341 Rogers avenue, and Homer Middleton, 26, 7638 Bosworth avenue.

They entered the Western Union office at 9:05 p. m. and took $51.00 from a cash drawer after locking the operator, Miss Elizabeth Talbet, and a messenger, Jacob Jeppeson, in a rear room. Miss Talbet telephoned to the police when they left and Policemen Kenneth Driscoll and Clyde Schoonover began a hunt for their car.

At 9:20 the policemen overtook the maroon colored coupe in which the bandits were driving toward Chicago. Erickson tried to throw away his gun but was detected.

The robbers confessed that they held up the Western Union office in Wilmette Sept. 13 and took $36, and that last Wednesday night they robbed a filling station in Wilmette of $28.

BANK HEAD KILLS SELF, AS DID HIS 2 PREDECESSORS

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Walter E. Rahel, 46, president of the Terre Haute Trust company, ended his life this afternoon by firing a charge from a shotgun into his head in the basement of his home. He was the third president of the institution in succession to commit suicide.

Rahel had been in the bank in the forenoon and associates there said he was jovial. A search of his home and office tonight failed to disclose any note.

Rahel has been working with government authorities the last three months to bring about reorganization of the bank, which has been closed since the March moratorium.

Rahel succeeded James A. Cooper as president of the bank and Cooper had succeeded James S. Royse.

Wiley Post Must Remain in Hospital Three Weeks

POLLS OFFICIALS EXONERATED BY SECOND RECOUNT

Discovery of an error by the federal commission appointed to recount the ballots in the Eighth congressional district election in 1930 yesterday resulted in the exoneration of three judges of election who had been cited for contempt of court before Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, sitting in the County court.

The defendants were Mrs. Bertha Pollack, 823 South Halsted street; Antonio Palese, 708 Taylor street, and Ralph Mancini, 764 Gilpin place. Their count of the ballots in the First precinct of the Twentieth ward gave 358 votes to Peter Granata and 22 votes to Stanley H. Kunz. Granata was adjudged the winner in the election, but on the recount, demanded by Kunz and ordered by the house of representatives, Kunz won the seat. The federal recount in the precinct gave Granata 323 votes and Kun 50 votes.

The judges of election demanded a recount, which was made yesterday before Judge Allen, and the original figures were found to be corect. The contempt charges were then dismissed. County Judge Jarecki later announced that ballots in other election fraud cases in the Kunz-Granata recount would be counted in court at the defendants' request.

DRUGGISTS REFER LIQUOR SELLING TO STATE GROUPS

The National Association of Retail Druggists, holding its annual convention at the Hotel Sherman, yesterday referred to its state societies the question of liquor dispensation.

"We have been accused of lobbying for a monopoly of liquor dispensation when repeal comes," said Attorney C. Bruce Phillips on behalf of the association. "Our action here scotches such a suspicion because as a national body we are officially ignoring the question. By leaving the matter in the hands of our individual state groups we can conform to the sentiments of each state which may or may not want repeal."

At the convention a search is in progress for "the living American pharmacist who has contributed most to the public health of his community." The search is sponsored by the American Druggists Syndicate Fellowship.

Boy Fatally Hurt in Fall When Limb of Tree Breaks

Leroy Losthouse, 10 years old, 4537 Edmund street, was fatally injured last evening when he fell from a tree in which he had been playing near his home. A limb broke as he was climbing and he fell backward on his head. He incurred a fracture of the skull and injuries to his back which caused his death a short time after the accident.

Good Morning!

Upon whose dreams of empire was this picture's fiction based?

Not until it nears its end does the truth dawn on you. Then, an old man, dozing, dreaming, dying, on a balcony at Athens, Greece, brings a "real life" case to mind.

"I Loved a Woman" is an episodic film that takes its time. Those uninterested in character analyses will find it a bit draggy, I fear, for the story attempts to explain the gradual metamorphosis of a dreamer—a man without talent who yearns to create something beautiful—into a ruthless business builder, besides giving highlights and sidelights on the natures of the two women who figure most prominently in the life of the man. Intriguing, though—if you like that sort of thing.

The story starts in Athens, where we meet young John Hayden, attended by his father's secretary, attempting to soak up beauty. He has been given three years abroad by his impatient parent, to travel at will—proviso being that, at the end of that time he'll return to Chicago and become his pork packing dad's right arm.

A cable . . . old Hayden is dead. The trip is cut short and back goes Hayden Jr.—to hang a Rembrandt where once Father Hayden had proudly displayed a smoked ham.

He meets and marries Martha Lane, daughter of a rival packer, a young woman deeply interested in philanthropies. John plans, enthusiastically, to build up a model business, with her help; to beautifully and sanitarily care for the thousands in his employ. . . . Another dream gone wrong. . . . Martha proves a cold and calculating wife. The idealist is starving for sympathy at the moment Laura MacDonald, an ambitious and beautiful girl, beseeches him to finance her musical career.

"I KNOW I will become famous, if you will only give me two years abroad!" she cries.

Again the man without talent sees his chance to "do something beautiful"!

Miss MacDonald is a woman ready to sacrifice everything for her ambition. She persuades Hayden to make his packing business HIS ambition, and in building it up, be "as ruthless as our love." She goes to Paris and he stays in Chicago to get a corner on the packing industry.

Comes the Spanish-American war. . . . Tons of tainted meat, responsibility for which is laid directly at the doors of Hayden & Co. . . . Indictment. . . . Acquittal. . . . Shots of Theodore Roosevelt reading the riot act to Hayden. . . . Romantic disillusionment. . . . World war. . . . Heights of prosperity. . . . Depths of—a lot of things. Banks turn Hayden down while, at home, the bitter woman who has, for years, awaited the moment when "he will come crawling" to her—has her triumph.

Athens . . . An old man dying on a balcony. . . . Inside, a woman with frosted hair and tragic eyes singing, "Home, Home on the Range"—John Hayden's favorite song. . . .

Mr. Robinson does a crack job as Hayden. The Misses Tobin and Francis are effective in their respective rôles of wife and sweetheart—though Miss Tobin looks little older at the end of the picture than she did at the start—and she's been over a long, long trail. Other parts are well taken. Sets and costumes of the '90's are alluring.

While "I Loved a Woman" is not an authentic screen biography, it has a BUNGLING quality that makes it ring true. Because real life is a jumble—as all will agree.

See you tomorrow!

SUNDAY TRIBUNE

First Five Operas of Season Presented Before 18,325; Turn Away 5,000 More

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Some interesting figures concerning the season of the San Carlo Grand Opera company were given out by George A. Kingsbury, manager of the Auditorium theater, last night. They were to the effect that in the first five performances, that included last night's "Rigoletto," 18,325 persons have attended.

This means that five times in succession the Auditorium has been filled. In addition, Mr. Kingsbury estimates that some 5,000 others have come to the box office and gone away again, either because they could not get seats where they wanted them, or because they could not get in at all.

This means that opera is in the air. It means more than merely cheap admission prices. It means that performances worth hearing are being given by Mr. Gallo's artists. Otherwise there might possibly have been a full house on the opening night but certainly decreasing attendance thereafter. For nothing spreads more rapidly than gossip about the merit of a company.

"Rigoletto" will undoubtedly add to the organization's good reputation. There was a newcomer as Gilda in the person of Miss Quartin. She is young, attractive, and talented, with the strength of youth and some of its weaknesses, the nervousness that caused her to lose part of her grip on the last lofty note of "Caro nome," the will power that pulled her together for complete success in later scenes. Her voice is rather more brilliant in quality than that of most coloratura sopranos. It has plenty of flexibility to deal with the vocal fireworks of the score, and it has force enough to give dramatic fire to dramatic passages. Altogether she is an artist from which much may be hoped.

Mario Valle appeared as Rigoletto instead of the announced Claudio Frigerio and gave a fine performance. It was the more effective for its restraint. There was less emphasis on physical deformities; less, tc on the clowning possibilities of the first part. But there was steady, well conceived drama in voice and acting which rose to heights in the oath of vengeance in the third act.

Mr. Onofrei's performance of the duke was the best from a vocal standpoint of his several appearances, perhaps the best he has ever given here. One need hear no better singing than he did in "Questa e quella" in the first act, or in the love duet of the second. Unfortunately the final act came too late for me to hear.

Add to this the rich, fine vocalism of Mr. Rothier's announcement, and the excellent ensemble of the many minor characters. Add also Mr. Peroni's superb knowledge of a score which under his hands never became hackneyed.

There will be two operas today. "Hansel and Gretel" will be sung in English this afternoon, "Il Trovatore" in Italian tonight.

"RIGOLETTO."

Opera in four acts by Verdi. Presented by the San Carlo Grand Opera company at the Auditorium Friday, Sept. 22. The cast:

Gilda.....Nina Quartin
Duke of Mantua.....Dimitri Onofrei
Rigoletto.....Mario Valle
Sparafucile.....Leon Rothier
Maddalena.....Bernice Schalker
Monterone.....Natale Cervi
Conte Di Ceprano.....Antonio Crespo
Contessa Di Ceprano.....Marie Zara
Borsa.....Francesco Curci
A page.....Vera Fraser
Marullo.....Fausto Bozza

Conductor, Carlo Peroni.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt left the White House late this afternoon to motor to Fredericksburg and there boarded the Sequoia for a week-end cruise down the Potomac and on Chesapeake bay. He had as his guests Dr. and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, the former just returned from a trip to Europe with Senator Glass of Virginia, and the latter just returned from a cruise to Bermuda; Judge and Mrs. Samuel Roseman of New York, and Miss Margaret Lehand, secretary to the President.

The assistant secretary of war and Mrs. Harry H. Woodring left today for Fitchburg, Mass., where they were married in July, to visit Mrs. Woodring's parents, Senator and Mrs. Marcus A. Coolidge.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Roberts have returned from a visit to the latter's mother and grandmother, Countess Szechenyi, wife of the Hungarian minister to London, and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Sr., in the latter's place at Newport. Mrs. Roberts is the former Countess Cornelia Szechenyi.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE wittiest comment of the week, perhaps, was made the other evening at dinner by a University of Chicago professor. A distinguished foreign correspondent had told of seeing a fellow passenger on shipboard who appeared to be suffering considerably. His face was pale and drawn, and despite the disorder of his locks the face looked familiar. Suddenly he realized that it was Herbert Hoover. During a conversation that ensued Mr. Hoover commented that he understood why people who saw their friends off on an ocean voyage waved so happily as the ship got under way. They were happy because they were not aboard her.

Godspeed—
Author—
Mae West—
English.

"Hm," mused the professor, "Mr. Hoover probably felt like one of those happy wavers left behind when President Roosevelt took office last March."

HINT to "Anthony Adverse" readers: You better hurry up with your reading, because Hervey Allen, the author of the book, will be here next month to see the Fair and, as he will be entertained by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank's writers' committee of the Fair and by other organizations and individuals, too, no doubt, it would be nice if some one could tell him they had finished his book. And if you, like me, were unaware of Mr. Allen before the advent of "Anthony Adverse," you might like to know that Harriet Monroe published some of his first poetry many years ago. . . . Another literary visitor in the offing is Foster Damen, who has just about completed his biography of Amy Lowell.

IF you thought the Mae West craze, which reached its greatest height in Paris after her pictures were shown there, was a flash in the pan, a fad that would soon be over, your winter magazine reading will prove otherwise. You've been reading about the Mae West influence on clothes and figures, and seeing pictures in Vogue magazine. Variety points out this week that Jim Tully is lining up an article on her for Vanity Fair, and that a story about her will appear in a forthcoming issue of Mercury. Adela Rogers St. John has been commissioned to write a six part life serial story for Liberty, and 1,200 newspapers have placed orders for another life story, written in eight installments by Blake McVeigh of the Paramount publicity staff. Time gave her an article and Life recently had a Mae West cartoon on the cover. The Cosmopolitan wants her to do a by-line novelette [we're still quoting Variety], and she has a new book coming out called "How to Misbehave." Her movie "She Done Him Wrong" has rolled up a gross of about $3,000,000. Her next picture will be "I'm No Angel."

SO, whether you like her or not, it looks as if the flamboyant Miss West would be added to the list of women who have influenced the style and manners of the world, like Lily Langtry, Irene Castle, and Greta Garbo. . . . Boy, my bustle and the hat with the willow plumes!

IT happened at a loop store. A Londoner approached a floor walker in search of a very polite clerk he had encountered on a previous visit to Chicago and remembered.

"Have you a clahk called Dinwiddie?" he inquired.

The floor walker regarded him blankly for a moment, then answered politely:

"No, sir. We have plenty of clocks, but they're nearly all Elgin."

Form Chicago Opera; Season Runs 10 Weeks

Herbert M. Johnson Will Be General Director.

Herbert M. Johnson announced last night the incorporation of the Chicago Grand Opera company. Mr. Johnson, the vice president in charge of business of the former Chicago Civic Opera company, stated that the new organization would give a season of ten performances a week, beginning Nov. 20. Gennaro Papi will be the musical director. Mr. Johnson said the organization expects to use the Auditorium.

The performances will be on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights, Saturday afternoons, and Saturday nights. Thursday and Fridays are left open, says Mr. Johnson, so as not to conflict with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, whose regular concerts are given on those days.

A subscription office is to be opened shortly on the second floor of the Auditorium building, 431 South Wabash avenue. Mr. Johnson states that former patrons of the opera when it was at the Auditorium may have their old locations if they desire, on condition that they make reservations within a reasonable time.

Nothing as yet is said about the personnel of the company. Mr. Johnson states, however, that many fine artists are available, and that it can be promised that the performances will be of the highest merit. The fact that Mr. Papi is to be musical director will serve to confirm the promise. He is well remembered for the brilliant performances given under his baton during a series of summers at Ravinia.

Honor Artists of Illinois at Exhibit Today

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Under the auspices of the Illinois commission's hostess committee of A Century of Progress, of which Mrs. Herbert L. Stern is secretary, a week's activities celebrating the achievements of Illinois personalities in varying fields will be launched this morning at the Illinois Host house with the opening of an exhibit of painting that will continue all week. Artists represented were designated by organizations of which they are members, as worthy of this recognition.

Mrs. Albion Headburg will be in charge of the art day program. At 3 o'clock this afternoon, Lorado Taft will speak in the auditorium on "The Future of Sculpture." Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the Exposition's art exhibit at the Art institute, will have that display as his theme. Irwin St. John Tucker will be heard at 3:30 o'clock on "Honoring Artists of Illinois."

Invitations have been issued for a reception to be held in the Host house at 5 o'clock in honor of the artists whose pictures are included in the exhibit there.

Two days will be devoted to programs honoring Illinois musicians, with Mrs. Margaret Lester directing both the Sunday and the Monday exercises so dedicated. Mrs. B. F. Langworthy will preside on Tuesday for the education day discussions, which were arranged with the coöperation of Mrs. Cary Culbertson. Mrs. Culbertson will preside at the evening session.

Poise, Dress Two Qualities of Glamorous

Artist Places Brunettes Above Blondes.

In tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE, Miss Donnelly will inaugurate presentation of a number of Chicago's Most Glamorous Women. Accompanied by a portrait in full color, her article will be found on the front page of the Society section.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Artists are best qualified to talk on glamorous women, they having done and are still doing more to immortalize them than any other known body.

True, artists are accused of seeing women with eyes of artists. Seeing beauty where other eyes do not see it; seeing ugliness that may escape you and me. But some of the artists approached for an interpretation of glamorous women offer practical hints for the glamour seeker—as Frank B. Hoffman.

"A woman must have poise," says Mr. Hoffman, "be artistic in dress, in the way she arranges her home. She must have tact and charm—and always be WOMAN. What does not create glamour in a man's eyes is the suggestion of hard, resisting lines. A woman sitting relaxed is more intriguing than one seated bolt upright in a chair. A woman who 'droops' a little has more glamour than one who stands erect looking a man square in the eye. There can be no 'challenge' in line or person, unless the challenge is 'inviting,' to weave glamour about a woman. Head thrown back, eyes half closed, mouth slightly open, relaxed posture, perfect ease, soft lines and soft light—these are the things that create a glamorous picture."

Latin women, Mr. Hoffman thinks more glamorous than Nordic. A brunette more glamorous than a blonde. "The brunette has more warmth of color and dress," he says. "The blonde, as a rule, dresses in cold colors. The brunette's teeth look whiter, her hair, usually of heavier texture, stays better in place and under artificial light she shows up better."

Other artists may have other ideas, Mr. Hoffman admits. Sargent always painted the cold, stately type. Mr. Hoffman believes that the woman a man thought beautiful in his youth always retains a glamour for him and influences him through life.

The passive woman has no place in the scheme of glamorous women, the one who never has anything new to offer, according to our critic. In this dismissal of the passive one William J. Welsh, painter and illustrator, is in full accord.

"What makes a man most comfortable," Mr. Welsh offers, "does not make the woman most charming."

Mr. Welsh appoints Aphrodite the most glamorous of women. He does give a break to modern women, however, in describing the late Barbara La Marr as a woman of great glamour. Lynn Fontanne to be almost too much endowed with it. He lets Lenore Ulric in on the glamour dividends and Nita Naldi in her old Blood and Sand days.

August A. Busch Jr., Brewer, Weds Mrs. Elizabeth O. Dozier

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—August A. Busch Jr., vice president and general manager of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis brewery, and Mrs. Elizabeth Overton Dozier of St. Louis, today obtained a marriage license in the municipal building.

They were married this afternoon in a simple ceremony at the Savoy-Plaza, where Mrs. Dozier has been a guest since Wednesday with her mother, Mrs. Charles P. O'Fallon.

Mr. Busch, who gave his age as 34, is a widower with two daughters. Mrs. Dozier, 38, who was divorced from Louis D. Dozier, St. Louis banker and manufacturer, Sept. 8, is the mother of three children.

They presented "Grandma Pulls the Strings." The part of Grandma was played by Arlene Schmelling, a scholarship winner from Hyde Park High school, and Letitia Barnum was the director. The Braille Players, a blind group, won the second prize with "Cabbages." There were twenty-four contestants.

Two N. Shore Social Events Get Attention

Mrs. Clyde Carr Gives Tea; Hold Horse Show.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT was a toss-up yesterday which to attend, the tea party at Mrs. Clyde M. Carr's home in Lake Forest or the horse show at Fort Sheridan, for although the show started in the early afternoon and the tea didn't commence until 3:30 we knew we couldn't do both if we tried to see all the show.

So we compromised and went first to the show and then to the tea. It was a perfect day for the show and there were a great number of horse lovers out to watch the events. The highlight of the show was Maj. Gen. Frank Parker's jumping, for he hasn't jumped in some time, and never before in a show during the 7 years he has been at the fort. But he was persuaded to do it yesterday because the show is dedicated to him as a farewell courtesy before he leaves for the Philippines. He rode his own champion hunter, Ampere, in the hunter hack class and carried away the fourth prize, Maj. Peter C. Carpenter winning the blue ribbon on Palades, the Paul B. Magnusons' Field Marshal wearing the red rosette when it left the ring, and Donald B. Douglas' Thamesford, ridden by Miss Libby Chase, winning third.

Gen. Parker and his Ampere were first in the class for officers' chargers, winning a lovely silver cup. Mrs. Parker was a bit late arriving at the show but she got there in time to see her husband ride and jump. With her were her daughter, Miss Ann Parker, and the Misses Virginia Melody and Shirley McKay.

Miss Chase was first in the ladies' hunters and, as one masculine bystander said when she rode into the ring, "That gal can ride."

Miss Stevenson Escapes Injury.

Miss Marianne Stevenson, who attended the show with Paul Magnuson Jr., his stepmother, Mrs. Magnuson, and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy, did not sit in the box all the time, for she rode Mrs. Magnuson's hunter in the ladies' hunter class. Unfortunately she was thrown at the second jump but fortunately she was not hurt. Just in front of this party sat Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, stunning as usual in a yellow silk frock and a large brown hat, and very much interested in the events because her husband was riding in several of the classes. On Golden Dawn he won the blue ribbon in the lightweight hunters class.

The Hobart P. Youngs, Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Darling, their daughter, Miss Jane Darling, and Harvey Whidden were together, and in a nearby box sat five young matrons and one "unmarried," all members of the Service club who had been at the rehearsal in town earlier in the day. They were Mrs. John Dern, Mrs. Frank Sims and her sister, Miss Caroline McNair, Mrs. Scott Dow, Mrs. Stuyvesant Butler and Mrs. Eric Lambart. Miss Jane Ripley, who took second and fourth in the ladies' hunters, was accompanied by her younger brother, Bradford, who was riding for the first time in a show. He carried away some ribbon, too.

Mrs. Albert O. Snite, a pretty bride; Mrs. Francis Ruggles, Gen. Frank Bolles, and Miss Montrose Graham were with Col. and Mrs. James Malcolm Graham.

Miss Chase will bring several of her youthful riding pupils from Lake Forest to the fort for the children's show this morning, including Kay Goodman, Idamay Minotto, Betty Mead, and Frieda Robinson. Among the other children entered are Hill

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of Wong Gee's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. There seemed to be some secret bond between Cresap and two of his servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino. Bray finds a new will disinheriting Florence. As it was unsigned, the old will stands. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe. Thorpe disappears. He is found in a hospital, victim of a hitch-hiker, before Cresap's death, which exonerates him. Florence takes a room in the hospital. Hilda, Florence's maid, tries to leave the Cresap estate and is arrested. Florence leaves the hospital and can't be found. Sabino also disappears. Bray is of the belief they are both seeking a common rendezvous. Florence is found near Buffalo. Redd goes to meet the train bringing her back.

INSTALLMENT XLII.

BEHIND BARS.

The matron undid the bracelet from her own arm only, so that by its bright steel coupling it dangled from its twin that was fast on Florence's arm, which signified plainly enough what the matron's course would be when we rolled into Grand Central, and while Florence and I talked together in guarded whispers, the open jawed circlet lay in Florence's lap and when in her earnestness she clasped her hands or shifted ever so slightly the chain gave off a subdued jingle as though in advertisement of the fresh ignominy awaiting its wearer.

We had a half hour or more together before we entered the Park Avenue tunnel, and that for me was sufficient grace of time in which to get from her confirmation for such remaining things as until now I had guessed at—but for the most part had guessed rightly.

For one thing, I found out my private belief touching on Sabino's reason for wiring her to meet him upstate agreed with hers, namely, that his probable purpose was to enforce his demands on her for hush money at a spot conveniently adjacent to the Canadian border; he overlooked the point that the coincidental vanishing of both of them would be calculated to enhance Bray's suspicion rather than allay it, and she, in her apprehension, acting on impulse rather than judgment when she slipped off to keep the appointment. On Sabino's side it had been stark stupidity; on her side folly born of fear. And now the mischief was done.

That scene at the Grand Central! As I think back on it, I see that scene as the most nightmarish scene of all. I wish, now that this moment has come, I could wipe it out of the plates of my memory as a man might clean his feet of pollution after a passage through some foul sewer before he entered into a quiet house of his fathers. But indelibly it is graven in as on a granite tablet, every nauseating atom, every degrading inch of it.

I see the milling crowd ogling at us in the train shed and the greater crowd in the waiting room, for the papers had told the town the hour of our arrival. I see the beleaguering reporters hurtling on past an insufficient barrier of railroad policemen and reinforcing patrolmen, to volley their importuning blasts in Florence's ears and in mine, and in McVeigh's and the Sloss woman's; I see a locust swarm of photographers shoving their aimed cameras at us, or blaspheming one another while they jockeyed to get closeups of those shackled wristlets! I see the cops fighting to cleave an aisle for us in the pack—see the flailing arms and butting knees and thrusting shoulders of cops striving to force apart the human mass that was fluid as water against pressure and kept ebbing back to engulf us and halt our progress; and I see Florence—never was I so proud of her or so sorry for her—I see Florence in frozen fortitude running the gantlet between those oozing, onpressing banks of scrooged bodies, and craned necks and thrill hungry masks; Florence with that little head of hers ever so gallantly lifted and her eyes serene and icy blue, like steadfast arctic stars, and her face so coldly indifferent, so bravely aloof.

One repetitious draught from the overbrimming cup of her humiliation I could spare her and I did. With McVeigh allied on my side, I coerced the surly she-dragon into consenting that we should all four drive to Riverhead in a closed car, to be hired by me, instead of transferring across town to the Long Island terminal, and thereby the poor little prisoner escaped the shame of being dragged for a second time through a gloating city mob.

From sheer exhaustion she presently fell asleep where she sat, still tethered to the amazon in the rear seat of the car, and for more than an hour after we crossed the Queensborough bridge she slept on, with her free hand tucked under her white cheek. But in her troubled sleep she kept whimpering and the sound of that whimpering was a rusty knife sawing at my sick vitals.

At Riverhead half the town, it seemed to me, had turned out in joyful anticipation of the free show, but that part of it was very soon over, nor was it so much of an ordeal as otherwise it might have been, since the majority of the Riverheaders, expecting us to arrive by train, had flocked to the station. By the time they learned the truth and came pelting back through the rain to the communal center the spectacle was ended and all that was left for these disappointed souls to do was to clog the wet pavements and amongst themselves beneath their umbrellas grievously to bemoan.

I was permitted to stay with Florence in the jail office until she had been loosed from her hateful companionship with the policewoman and until she had been formally booked; and then, through somebody's generosity, there in that dingy anteroom we had the blessed boon of a little while together, with her slim body in my arms and her head on my breast and my kisses pressing hard on her brow and her lips and her throat and her bonny brown hair. Over and over again I bade her good-by. And then I saw her led away through a wooden door and a steel barred, bolt studded door behind it, and then along a chilly corridor and on past a turning, to be locked in the same cell with Hilda.

But already I had warned her that in this there was no kindness, but rather was there danger; and that she must guard her tongue and bid Hilda guard hers, too, since almost surely a dictaphone would be hidden somewhere in that cell.

So I stood and watched her go away from me and at the turn of the corridor she looked back and waved both her hands to me and they fluttered in the gloom of a false dusk like the two wings of a little trapped white pigeon. And that was the last I saw of her.

I came out of that jail and there was Bray waiting for me at the steps, propped on a crutch and a cane, and his eyes as he squinted at me were like beads of hot gray mica and his voice as he spoke to me was singing with a vindictive triumph.

"Well, that's that," he began. "And every little bit added to what you've got makes just a little bit more. Not that I'll be needing many more bits. This thing's as good as in the bag."

"And just what," I asked him, "do you mean by that?"

"Only this," he answered me, and there was a seeming great glee in what he said; "While you've been gallivanting about I've been working this day. That Hilda dame has come clean, Gilly. I've her full confession, signed, sealed and delivered, in this breast pocket here. She's a smart skirt, that same Hilda J., and a slippery one, but I bore her down. Now leave me have one good whack at her little mistress and another good whack at our friend, Mister Humpty Dumpty Sabino, and I'll ask for no more to go before a trial jury with, and hang a conviction on somebody. But who that somebody is, I'm not telling just yet."

By now it has come to me that his gleefulness was simulated.

"What's the good of lying to me?" I said. In my heart though I knew why. An archer blindly shoots into the air, hoping the arrow will strike a target when it comes down. "Why not save your lies for somebody who's sucker enough to fall for them?"

On that he flared up. But some part of his ire was pretended, that also I could tell.

He forced a hoarse passion into his retort.

"Whilst I clinch the both of my hands in my pockets to keep from pasting you one on the jaw, would you kindly tell me what you mean by that?"

"Gladly," I said. "You know, Pat Bray, that beyond having made a fool of herself in the matter of a pair of slippers—a matter that's of no real consequence—this girl Hilda has nothing to confess. You know that Miss Dane didn't even know Hilda was trying to get to her at Flushing. And I stand here and tell you that I know you know, and you stand here and know that I know it. So for once in your life, why not quit stalling?"

Romance Dies Natural Death After Vacation

Affairs Too Light to Withstand Distance.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The post-vacation disappointments begin to come in now.

That promising romance begun up in the north woods, or beside a beach resort shows signs of waning, if it is not already dead.

The boy promised to write. He promised to come down on a visit. He promised he'd never forget the girl. But he has, and the episode should be dismissed from the girl's mind as "just one of those things." Certainly there shoud be none of the "Broken-Hearted" signatures that are arriving.

The girl's failure to keep the boy's interest alive may be set down to the distance which, in spite of poets, does not lend enchantment. The girl on the job in our practical times is the girl to keep the flame fanned.

"Sally" met her romance on a boat. During the eighteen day tour they were together constantly. The boy left for the west; the girl for the east after exchanging such promises as only these temporary affairs inspire. Two months have gone by with only one carefully worded postcard received. The girl has written—one letter, two, three. No answer.

"He couldn't have forgotten. Something must have happened to him. Should I write to his family and inquire?" she asks.

Don't write the folks, "Sally." And don't write to the boy any more. Just charge the whole episode off to a light vacation madness, and no reflection on your charms, at all. The boy may have left a girl behind at home. Or, he may have got back and realized he was in no position to be serious. Or, he may be simply going on his after-vacation business-like way, concerned neither one way or the other. It was a nice vacation, and now he's ready to settle down to work.

You girls whose summer romances prove so fleeting must learn to steel yourselves to the same attitude men have about vacation flirtations. Pass them off as something with a pleasant memory attached, but no more.

If you're one of the lucky ones who find the real thing under a summer moon, that's something else. But if an answer to a letter doesn't come pronto—drop the correspondence and settle yourself down to the more practical business of getting a handier escort in tow.

Mary Dawes, George Schulz Wed Today

Mason-Bledso Nuptials to Be in Georgia.

Only relatives and a few intimate friends have been invited to attend the ceremony this afternoon that will make Miss Mary Dawes the bride of George Henry Schulz, but more friends will have been asked to the reception that will follow. The service is to be read at 4:30 o'clock in the drawing room of the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Dawes, at 101 Greenleaf avenue, Evanston, by the Rev. Paul Wolff, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Evanston.

Mrs. Trevor Stamp of London, formerly Frances Bosworth of Evanston; Mrs. Harold Yegge, and Miss Louise Hassel will attend the bride, and also two little nieces of the bridegroom, Anne Elizabeth and Mary Louise Torrison, who will be flower girls.

Otto Schulz will act as best man for his brother, and ushering will be two other brothers, Carl and William Schulz, and the bride's brother, Curtis Dawes. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Otto Schulz of Kenmore avenue.

A young Chicagoan whose great-grandfather was mayor of the city during the great fire is taking a southern girl as his bride today in Carrollton, Ga. Miss Marian Elizabeth Bledsoe will be married to Harvey Roswell Mason at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the Methodist church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Baskin Bledsoe, and she and Mr. Mason met while both were attending the University of Alabama, from which he was graduated last June. Mr. and Mrs. Mason will be at home after Sept. 26 at 611 Sheridan road, Evanston.

There will be six Chicago men in the bridal party of a large wedding in Memphis tonight, the marriage of Miss Fay Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson Hines of that city, and Charles Clinton Thompson of New York and Chicago, son of Mrs. Charles C. Thompson of Los Angeles.

The bride, a graduate of Bradford Junior college at Haverhill, is a member of the Junior league and is a granddaughter of the late Frank A. McLain, former Mississippi congressman and member of the Supreme court of Mississippi. The wedding will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church. There will be two maids of honor and six bridesmaids, all southern and eastern girls, and Hal Noble of Chicago will serve Mr. Thompson as best man.

Ushering will be Conover Talbot, Eugene S. Talbot III., Bradford H. Whiting, and Arthur John Sullivan of Chicago; Bertram McKinney of Evanston, William Robertson Kinnard of St. Louis, John Hines, brother of the bride, and William Ross Kennedy, the bride's cousin. Mr. Thompson and his bride are to live at 36 Sutton place, New York.

In Oconomowoc today Miss Margaret Kohl, daughter of Mrs. Walter Scott Leeds of Palm Beach and granddaughter of Mrs. Charles E. Kohl of Chicago and Oconomowoc, will become the bride of Edward Alison Nettleton Jr. of Toledo. The wedding is to be very quiet, with only the relatives in attendance.

Mrs. Kohl is not in good health, so is not able to go to Oconomowoc for the marriage, but Mr. and Mrs. Leeds and Mrs. Leeds' other daughter, Mrs. Gerald Branenburg of Palm Beach, and her son, Charles Kohl of Chicago, are there for the ceremony, which will take place at 4 o'clock.

Miss Edwina Martha Cadmus, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Harvey Cadmus of Hubbard Woods, is to be married to Melvin De Los Losey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Losey of Springport, Mich., this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the residence of her parents. The Rev. Samuel Harkness of the Winnetka Congregational church will officiate.

The bride will wear her mother's wedding gown and will carry a shower bouquet of white roses and valley lilies, duplicating the flowers her mother had when she was married.

Miss Louise Hickox of Evanston will be the maid of honor and Miss Betty Osler of Hammond, Ind., the bridesmaid. Ira Fender of Chicago will be the best man and Chester Kurtz of Chicago will usher. Mr. and Mrs. Losey will live in Des Moines, Ia.

At four o'clock this afternoon in St. Mark's Episcopal church in Evanston Miss Shirley Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Randolph, will become the bride of Robert H. Burdsall of Chicago and Port Chester, N. Y. A small reception will follow at the Orrington hotel. After a wedding trip of three weeks Mr. Burdsall and his bride will be at home at 76 East Walton place, Chicago.

Miss Randolph will have Miss Jean Spens for her maid of honor, and the matron of honor will be Mrs. Jackson Dering. The two bridesmaids will be Mrs. Richard Steiner and Mrs. Keith Adams of Omaha.

Keith Adams will be Mr. Burdsall's best man, and ushering will be his brothers, Dr. Morris Burdsall and Richard Burdsall, George Clothier, and Kent Kane of Philadelphia, William Noble, Charles Cecil, Burnham Hockaday, and Bolton Cook.

This evening at 6 o'clock Miss Lorraine Busse, daughter of William Busse Jr. of Mount Prospect and granddaughter of County Commissioner William A. Busse, will become the bride of Howard Alten in the Mount Prospect Lutheran church. Miss Busse is the third great-granddaughter of Commissioner Busse's mother to be married this season. The great-grandmother, who is 87 years of age, will be present at tonight's ceremony.

Rockford College Opens with Enrollment Gain

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Rockford college has opened the new school year and with three of its leaders missing and with a larger enrollment than last year. On Aug. 10, Dr. William A. Maddox, president, and Prof. Alfred O. Willgeroth, head of the music department, were killed in an automobile-train collision. On Sept. 19 John Barnes, president of the board of trustees, died of heart disease. An administrative committee is in charge of the school temporarily.

White Pique Adds Dash to Youthful Wool Crepe Outfit

JUNIOR GIRL'S SAILOR OUTFIT.

The pattern, No. 2882, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years.

Two N. Shore Social Events Get Attention

Blackett, Barbara Tennant, Kay and Kent Keehn, Patricia Ann Pettit, and Marjorie Lloyd, as cunning a little corkscrew curly head as ever rode a horse. The children's events will be run off between 9:30 and 12 o'clock, and the afternoon show tomorrow will start at 2:30.

"White Elephant" Tea Party Held.

While Miss Chase was doing the thing she likes best to do, her mother, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, was working—and enjoying herself, too—for her pet charity, the Children's Memorial hospital, for the tea at Mrs. Carr's was for the purpose of getting new "white elephants" to be sold at the shop that is conducted by the woman's board of the hospital at 27 East Ohio street.

Every one who attended the party left a present or its equivalent in money on the table, and such grand "white elephants" as they were. Stunning clothes, china, silver, jewelry, in fact almost any and every thing. Mrs. Jacob Baur contributed two brass candlesticks ornamented with—it wouldn't be hard to guess what—for every one must have heard of Mrs. Baur's penchant for butterflies.

Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick's "white elephants" were eighteen lovely French china luncheon plates and Mrs. Joseph H. King contributed a cunning red and white dotted breakfast tray set of china.

Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Cummings poured at the tea table laid with a rare old lace runner and decorated with a gold compote holding purple hothouse grapes and persimmons. Before tea was served Miss Alice Mock gave a program of songs.

A few of the others who were there to help replenish the stock of the shop were Mrs. Charles B. Pike, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. George A. McKinlock, Mrs. Harold Talbot, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Leverett Thompson, Mrs. Frank O. Wetmore, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Scott Bromwell, Mrs. Dwight Ingram, Mrs. Evans Spalding, Mrs. Woodbury S. Ober, Mrs. George Voevodsky, Mrs. Paul J. Healy, and three young men, the only ones at the party, by the way, Edward J. Brundage Jr., Frank Bagot of Australia, and Pierre Le Merle of Paris.

Receptions for French Ambassador.

The French ambassador, Andre de Laboulaye, and his wife, who arrive in Chicago tomorrow, are going to have a taste of Chicago's proverbial hospitality which keeps a visitor rushing. As soon as they reach here in the afternoon they will be given a reception in Evanston by the board of trustees and associates of Northwestern university. From there the visitors must rush to a reception the Alliance Francaise is giving them in the Fine Arts building.

The Evanston party will be held from 2:30 until 4 o'clock in the Deering library on the campus and promptly at 3 o'clock M. de Laboulaye will present the cross of the Legion of Honor to President Walter Dill Scott. The award is in recognition of President Scott's contribution to intelligence tests as applied to army personnel during the war and to his contribution to education.

In the receiving line will be President and Mrs. Scott, M. and Mme. de Laboulaye, the French consul, and Mme. Rene Weiller, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Charles Deering, and Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Galland. Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt, Mrs. John S. Wigmore, Mrs. Theodore W. Koch, and Mrs. Addison Hibbard will pour. Also assisting will be Mrs. Joseph Falcon, Mrs. Robert Moore Jones, Miss Dorothy Dayton, Mrs. Charles M. Price, Miss Nancy Traylor, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, Miss Frederick Sargent, Miss Thrysa Shumway, and the Misses Ada and Theresa Rew.

The Alliance Francaise reception in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building will be at 4 o'clock, and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey will head the receiving line. Assisting will be Mrs. Arthur Allais, Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Henri David, Mrs. Peter Dudley, Mrs. Robert Hinckley, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. William A. Nitze, Mrs. John Senn, Mrs. Daniel Taylor, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Miss Marjorie Goodman, Miss Beatrice Kirk, Miss Frances Robinson, Miss Mary West, and all the directors of the alliance and their wives.

Dillinghams Here To See the Fair.

Like practically every one with whom we have talked this summer about the Fair Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham said last night that she was sorry she and her husband and sons and daughter had not seen it for the first time in daylight. She was most enthusiastic, however, about the exhibits they saw yesterday and except for a few informal dinners with old friends during their short visit, Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham expect to spend all their time at the Exposition. They arrived early yesterday morning and are staying with Charles B. Goodspeed on Lake View avenue.

Lowell, their elder son, only spent the day here, going on last night to Cambridge to resume his studies at Harvard, and Gaylord, the younger one, leaves tomorrow to enter the Middlesex school at Concord. Mrs. Dillingham and thirteen year old Betty Lou will leave on Tuesday for New York to sail for France, where Betty Lou is to enter school, and Mr. Dillingham will depart the same day to return to their home in Honolulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham are to dine and see the Fair tonight with their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, and tomorrow night Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, just home from a summer at Pride's Crossing, Mass., are to entertain at supper for them.

Helen and Marietta Gillette in City.

Haunting the rehearsals of the Service club show are the Misses Helen and Marietta Gillette who danced so delightfully in it last year. They have been in Chicago for a few days and are staying with their aunt, Mrs. William S. Jenks, on East Schiller street. Because they do not know just when they will have to return to California, they are not entering the show—much as they would like to—for they might rehearse two weeks and then have to leave town.

Members of the Milburn Hunt club are to dine and dance tonight at the club as the guests of Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, and Roger Hyatt. This is the first party of the season at the exclusive little club west of Lake Forest, where most of its members live.

The Alfred T. Cartons have a very welcome guest at their home in Lake Forest, their daughter, Catherine, who has been Mrs. Paul Swett Jr., of Hartford, Conn., since June.

Mrs. Morier Naugle is at the Belmont hotel for a few days on her way from Bayport, L. I., where she spent the summer with her sister and brother-in-law, Judge and Mrs. Martin T. Manton, to Pensacola, where she will spend the winter as usual at Harbor View.

Clifford Barneses Return from Maine.

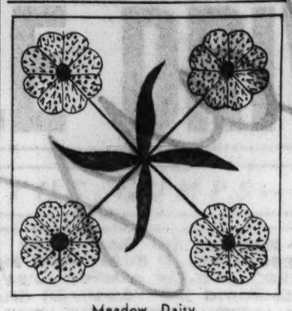
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Barnes and their daughter, Miss Lilace Barnes, have returned from Northeast Harbor, Me., where they have been since the middle of July. They are at their home, Glen Rowan, in Lake Forest.

Due to illness, Mr. Barnes has been absent from the platform of the Chicago Sunday Evening club for the last year, but he expects to preside at the opening meeting of the 27th season on Oct. 1 in Orchestra hall.

Miss Barnes, who is secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, has been granted leave of absence for a year, which she will spend abroad in study. She will be leaving for Europe in a week or two.

Miss Miriam Fetcher, daughter of the Edwin S. Fetchers of Winnetka, will leave with her mother today to drive east for her first year at Smith college. John, the youngest of the Fetcher's three sons, and his roommate, Frederick Ireland, who is his house guest, will go with them.

Kentuckians Give the Meadow Daisy Quilt Publicity



Meadow Daisy.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Kentucky comes to the front again with another popular pattern called "Meadow Daisy." This native Kentuckian was designed as long ago as 1820. Originally this pattern was made in yellow prints with plain green leaves. It would be equally attractive if the plan were reversed and the daisy petals pieced with plain yellow or gold materials, and the flower centers made of a brownish print.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Automatic refrigerators must still be working overtime, for folks seem to be freezing everything but the kitchen clock. Mrs. D. B. G. writes and asks if we have a recipe for a frozen mayonnaise.

This recipe is very simple, Mrs. G., and the mayonnaise may be attractively served if it is frozen in small individual paper cups.

FROZEN MAYONNAISE.
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup whipping cream
Juice of one-half lemon

Whip the cream till it holds its shape. Fold the mayonnaise into it, add the lemon juice, and freeze in small molds.

So many, many bridge parties these days! And perplexed hostesses are writing for suggestions as to "something different" to serve. These hostesses might follow Mrs. O. B. J.'s menu, which is to be chicken or shrimp salad served in ice cream cones, followed by a chocolate refrigerator cake. Mrs. J. wonders if she should serve crackers or rolls with the salad, or if the cone would be sufficient.

Since crackers would be similar to the cone, Mrs. J., why not serve small butterhorn or parkerhouse rolls with the salad? These dainty little rolls should be home made or, if store bought, should be heated and buttered just before serving.

Housewives are still having troubles with meringue that falls and becomes tough. Mrs. C. B. V. would like to have us print a recipe for meringue, so here it is:

MERINGUE.
2 whites of eggs
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat the whites of egg until stiff, then add the sugar, a teaspoonful at a time, and the vanilla. Place lightly on the pie by spoonfuls and bake fifteen minutes in a slow oven (300 degrees F.). This recipe makes a soft meringue which is desirable for pies. For a stiffer meringue use twice the amount of sugar, adding it gradually to the egg whites.

Mrs. M. N. has procured our booklet on pickles and requests sandwich filling recipes in which she can use the pickles this fall.

PICKLE NUT SANDWICHES.
½ cup chopped sweet pickles
1 cup peanut butter

Blend the ingredients and spread between buttered bread slices.

PICKLE BEEFSTEAK SANDWICH.
1 cup cooked beefsteak
1 hard cooked egg
4 medium sized sweet pickles
3 tablespoons tomato catsup

Run the beefsteak, egg, and pickles through a food chopper. Add the catsup and blend. Spread between buttered slices of bread, adding a crisp lettuce leaf.

"Home Frozen Delicacies"—a booklet containing 50 recipes for frozen desserts—is on sale at the Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn, for 10 cents. By mail, 13 cents, stamps or coin, address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

Age Determines Child's Choice of Playmates

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"The three year olds are crazy to play with the four year olds," a teacher in a modern nursery school was remarking. "But we never let them except as a special treat. The four year olds are just as anxious to play with the five year olds, but we never let them do it except on special occasions."

Of course, you know the reason why. When children are emerging from babyhood they develop in tremendous strides from week to week, from month to month. The difference of a year at that time means a great difference in muscular control, in strength, and in ability to play with other children.

Mothers of young children who worry because "Janey, who is five, and Jack, who is three, don't get along and can't seem to play without quarreling," would not do so if they realized that the two are not fitted to play together all day long. It is not a question of one child having a bad disposition or of his not being able to get on with other children.

Young children of different ages need different toys. And an older child who has become skillful with certain muscles, who is able, for instance, to use his blocks with real imagination and to construct an elaborate bridge, may be irritated by the attempts of a much younger brother or sister to build with him—irritated to the point of slapping him.

Young children of different ages in one family should not be expected to play together amicably all day long. If other children of their own age aren't obtainable, then the children should be given separate play places and different playthings, suitable to their ages. Perhaps the younger can be extracted to trail around the house to help mother, but ingenuity aided by observation will point the way.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CLASS DAY.

"Well, boys, feeling fit this morning?" inquired Prof. Fordney as he walked into the classroom. The rather noisy acclaim which greeted his entrance told the genial crimonologist they were.

After the class settled down he said, "Now here's an old, old story that originated in the orient over a thousand years ago but was sent to me, in a different form, by my charming friend, Celia Graze of Brooklyn, New York.

"Alright," he added as he saw some of the students searching their pockets, "get your pencils if you want . . . though there's really no necessity.

"John Haskins, one time millionaire, had, years before his death, drawn a will leavink one-half his estate to his eldest son; to his second boy, one-third, and to the youngest, one-ninth. Shortly before his death he plunged wildly in the stock market and . . . lost.

"After paying Haskins' debts the executor found that of his once rich estate only his 17 thoroughbred horses were left. For years he had kept one of the finest racing stables in the country. The executor, by the way, an old lawyer friend of the family, had, himself, just recently purchased a single thoroughbred horse.

"As none of the sons would consent to sell the stable the lawyer found himself in a dilemma as how to divide the estate according to the conditions of the will—until he had a rather brilliant thought; one which enabled him to fulfill the terms of the will without costing him anything."

"QUICKLY NOW! HOW DID HE DIVIDE THE ESTATE WITHOUT SUFFERING ANY LOSS HIMSELF?"

[See solution on page 31.]

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Special sundries for a Saturday shopper! Black ebony wood jewelry trimmed with flashing chromium . . . outsize and extremely wide bracelets that look like super de luxe handcuffs, streaked with diagonal bars of chromium, perfectly stunning contrasts for wooly sports frocks and smart slim new woolen street costumes. Huge clips to match will hold down wide lapels, ascot scarfs, and decorate the chest sections of plain tailored dresses.

New lisle pajamas are about the most decorative things you can slip the chilled anatomy into after a day in the open air . . . just the cozy snugglers you can wear to bed on an airy sleeping porch.

They are flesh colored, made in a snappy style with a Russian turtle neck combination neckline, short sleeves and a belt around the midriff. They are breath taking as far as style and snap are concerned, a long distance from the pluggy "woolies" that one used to sniff over and spurn. The price tag will make you gasp . . . and they can go blithely and even daily into the tub without fretting over the ironing problem.

The loosely woven lisle is the same warm, smooth stuff as the clever shorts, shirts, or vests that practically every one wore last year.

New wooden buttons and belt buckles in soft beige-tan and spicy cinnamon brown, matched to the largest belt buckles you ever fastened to a belt . . . new metal buckles, and buttons that seem to swell in size every time you catch a glimpse of them . . . clanking hardware that the smartest clothes hound will wear noisily in the company of street and spectator sportswear.

New velvet waist coat vests to wear with your suits; bright, rich looking things in bottle green, ruby red, sapphire blue, and gray, sleeveless, buttoned snugly down the front and made with two small pockets.

BEARS OPEN TITLE DRIVE AGAINST GREEN BAY

FREAK PITCHES MAKE STARS OF GIANT HURLERS

Senators Will Get Low Ones.

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Just what has this four man pitching staff of Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher, Freddy Fitzsimmons, and Roy Parmelee got that the Giants can come down to the world series almost even money to win?

The answer comes from players who have hit against them, from men like Coaches Tom Clark and Frank Snyder, old time catchers who have helped in their development, and experts who have watched them day in and day out through the pennant race. In tabloid form it is:

What They've Got.

Carl Hubbell, southpaw—A baffling screw ball, the only pitch of its kind in the major leagues today. Clark, who saw Christy Mathewson's fadeaway, says Hubbell's screw ball is almost identical. It's a knee high ball that breaks down and away from a right handed hitter. Exactly opposite to the normal curve of a left hander. Hubbell throws it nine out of ten pitches, but he has a sweeping natural curve he uses chiefly against left handed hitters. He seldom throws a fast ball. His control is excellent.

Hal Schumacher, right hander—His favorite is an overhand sinker, also unique. He gets it by snapping his entire arm like a buggy whip. The ball comes up low, then drops straight down as though it had rolled off a table. Hitters have been topping it all season, rolling into easy double plays. When the sinker isn't working Schumacher usually is belted out swiftly. The strain of the pitch has tired his arm greatly. He needs considerable rest.

Freddy Fitzsimmons, right hander—another fellow with a toss the hitters say no one else possesses, a fast knuckle ball. He's John McGraw's choice as pitching hero of the series, a veteran whose only weakness is a wont to irritation and loss of effectiveness if something goes wrong behind him. He's a heady pitcher, but has shown a tendency to tire lately.

Relief Is Good.

Leroy Parmelee, right hander—suffering right now from a slight case of nerves because his fireball, which jumps inward, has broken bones in the hand or arm of Randy Moore of the Braves and Stanley Hack of the Cubs, both left hand hitters, in the past month. Both Terry and McGraw believe he'll be the greatest pitcher in baseball some day. He lacks just enough control and polish to make him a doubtful starter now.

Lefty Watson Clark, old Adolfo Luque, and Herman Bell probably will see action, Clark with a fine curve ball and speed but ill much of the time with sinus trouble, will get another chance to win a place as a possible series starter. The veteran Luque has a fine down curve and control. Bell has a four inning complex. Luque and Bell are relief pitchers.

All the Giants' players emphasize that the Senators are high ball hitters, while all the Giant pitchers are low ball throwers. Hubbell's screw ball, Fitzsimmons' fast knuckler, Schumacher's sinker, all are new to American league batsmen.

ROOSEVELT TO ATTEND

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Although no plans have been made, President Roosevelt will attend the world series between the New York Giants and the Washington Senators. According to friends, the President praised the Senators when they clinched the American league pennant yesterday and said "it is all to the good."

He will attend at least one of the three games scheduled in Washington, friends said. President Roosevelt said he didn't know which team to support, his old home city winning the National league flag and his new home town the American league championship.

TICKET LINE FORMS

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A young man from Milwaukee planted himself in a beach chair in the bleachers entrance of the Polo grounds today with the announcement that he is going to stay there until the world series between the Giants and Washington begins on Oct. 3. He is going to sit for 11 days, so he can have the distinction of being the first in line for the opening game.

The young man said he was Art Felsch, 31 years old, an unemployed upholsterer of 2754 North 26th street, Milwaukee. He comes by his love of baseball honestly, he confided, being the nephew of Oscar [Happy] Felsch, a one time star of the Chicago White Sox.

BUFFALO WINS LEAGUE TITLE BEFORE 20,000

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Buffalo defeated Rochester, 8 to 1, in the deciding game of the International league title play-off series tonight before 20,000, the largest baseball crowd in the city's history. A throng estimated at 25,000 stormed the park, sweeping away gates to the reserved and box seats sections. A riot call brought squads of police, who closed the gates after 2,000 more than the park's seating capacity had forced their way in.

OLDEST PRO RIVALS CLASH FOR 27TH TIME

Champions Rely on Power Tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears, defending champions of the National Professional Football league, will take a final workout this morning preparatory to opening the season tomorrow afternoon at Green Bay, Wis. It will be the 27th game between the two rivals in the series which started in 1921. The Packers have won 12 games, the Bears 10, and 4 have ended in ties.

Although the Bears probably have the greatest team in their history, with tremendous driving power in Bronko Nagurski and Jack Manders, and a line which should be exceptional both on offense and defense, the problem of whipping the Packers on their home soil is a worry to George Halas, owner-manager-coach of the Chicago eleven. Green Bay seemingly has the Bears on the hip when performing before the home town fans. Back in 1927 the Bears won at Green Bay, 7 to 6, but since then the best they have done is a tie. Last year neither scored.

They Are Rivals.

Each year since 1927 the teams have met three times. Last fall, following the scoreless tie at Green Bay, the Packers won, 2 to 0, on a blocked kick, and then lost to the Bears, 9 to 0. The scores of previous years follow:

1921—Packers	0	Bears	20
1923—Packers	0	Bears	3
1924—Packers	5	Bears	0
1924—Packers	0	Bears	3
1925—Packers	14	Bears	10
1925—Packers	0	Bears	21
1926—Packers	6	Bears	6
1926—Packers	13	Bears	19
1926—Packers	3	Bears	3
1927—Packers	6	Bears	7
1927—Packers	6	Bears	14
1928—Packers	12	Bears	12
1928—Packers	18	Bears	6
1928—Packers	6	Bears	0
1929—Packers	23	Bears	0
1929—Packers	14	Bears	0
1929—Packers	25	Bears	0
1930—Packers	7	Bears	0
1930—Packers	13	Bears	12
1930—Packers	0	Bears	21
1931—Packers	7	Bears	0
1931—Packers	6	Bears	2
1931—Packers	6	Bears	7
1932—Packers	0	Bears	0
1932—Packers	2	Bears	0
Packers	189	Bears	175

No two teams in the National league have played such a series or built up such a rivalry as exists between the Packers and the Bears. For the first time the Bears now sense a chance to step into Packer territory and win. The worst defeat suffered by the Bears was a 25 to 0 licking in 1929, while the Bears, in 1925 and 1930, trounced the Bays, 21 to 0.

Driscoll Beats Bays.

Halas regards the second 1926 game as his greatest thrill in football. The Bears won 19 to 13. Lindberg scored an early touchdown for Green Bay. Duke Hanny of the Bears received a pass from Paddy Driscoll to tie the score and when Paddy drop kicked from the field later, the Bears led, 9 to 6.

Verne Lewellen scooped up a fumble by Driscoll and ran 40 yards to the goal. With Pid Purdy's kick for the point, the Packers led, 13 to 9. Driscoll drop kicked from the 44 yard line and the Bears trailed by a point. In the last period Driscoll ran 24 yards for a touchdown and with his kick for the point completed the Packers' rout, 19 to 13.

The Packers' first league championship, 1929, saw the Bears vanquished three times. However, in 1930 and 1931, although Green Bay won the league title, the Bears managed one victory each season.

Engebretsen to Cincinnati.

The Bears' squad now has been cut to 25 players. Three more must be dropped under the league rules by the third game. In addition to Howard Auer, a tackle from Michigan, who was sold Thursday to the Cincinnati club, Tiny Engebretsen, a regular tackle last year who played at Northwestern in 1931, was sent to the same club. Charles Malone, an end from Texas Aggies, and Ed Kawal, a center who played one year at Illinois and later at Pennsylvania Military institute, were released outright.

Keith Molesworth, who shared the quarter back duties with Carl Brumbaugh last year, reported Thursday. He may get into the game tomorrow for a few minutes.

The Packers tied Boston last Sunday in their first game, 7 to 7. Halas

Lefty O'Doul, the Wanderer, Roams Into a World Series

[This is the fifth of a series of sketches of members of the New York Giants, who will play the Washington Senators in the world series.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Frank J. [Lefty] O'Doul, in the big leagues for the first time in 1919, had long since ceased wondering about what a fellow had to do to break into a world series. That is, the famous gentleman had abandoned hopes until a couple of months ago. The spring trade that moved him from Brooklyn to the Giants proved the break he needed.

The always sartorially perfect Mr. O'Doul undoubtedly figures that to be a participant in a world series is just about the proper climax for a career that has been checkered if nothing else. Lefty has been one of the best all time major league travelers, his stops including two in the American circuit and four in the National. That doesn't include the fact that this is his second appearance as a Giant. And on top of his travels O'Doul can point with pride that the only reason he kept on going instead of dropping into oblivion was that he revamped himself into an outfielder when his pitching arm expired.

O'Doul Begins Career in American League.

The Yanks first brought O'Doul into the spotlight. That was in 1919, when they took him from the Frisco club as a pitcher. He stayed around three seasons, barring a stretch back in Frisco. In 1923 he was a member of the Boston Red Sox, but in 1924 went to Salt Lake and started on the task of converting himself into an outfielder. He knew he could hit, so his bosses didn't object to the experiment.

It was while with Salt Lake in 1925 that the late William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Cubs, saw O'Doul. The gum magnate liked the actions of the athlete and while the game was still on asked Bill Lane, the Salt Lake owner, what he wanted for the man. The answer was $30,000. Wrigley paid the money. Of course, the Cubs didn't keep O'Doul, which brings up to the point of the story.

A few years later the Cubs were in Philadelphia trying to win a pennant. They didn't win it, mainly because of what O'Doul did in those games. Everything they threw at him he hit safely and William Wrigley was a spectator.

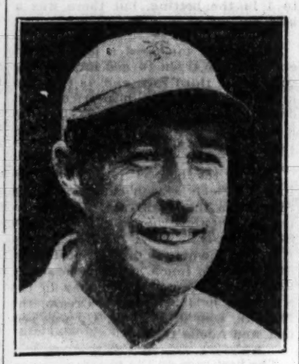
"He's the only ball player I ever bought on my own hook. I thought he was a good ball player and I still think so," declared Wrigley regretfully after he had watched O'Doul knock Chicago out of a pennant.

Giants Take O'Doul from Coast League.

O'Doul had gone to the Phillies from the Giants, who in 1928 salvaged him from the Coast league, where the Cubs had dropped him two years before. The stay with the Phillies extended through 1929 and '30, after which he was traded to Brooklyn. His Brooklyn sentence expired last spring and he returned to the team that had dropped him five seasons previous.

O'Doul isn't the best outfielder in the business and can't throw with the best of them, but he can hit and in a narrow park like the Polo grounds is a dangerous fellow to pitch to.

FINALLY LANDS



FRANK O'DOUL.

FLEET FILLIES CLASH TODAY IN MARQUETTE

Esseff Choice as Season Ends at Lincoln Fields.

Marquette Field

THE field for the Marquette handicap at a mile and a furlong, to be renewed at Lincoln Fields this afternoon, arranged in the order of post positions, is as follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey—	Prob. odds.
Dusky Devil	98	M. Calvert	20 to 1
*At Top	96	L. Ruder	3 to 1
Glynson	96	G. South	15 to 1
Esseff	114	W. D. Wright	6 to 5
Late Date	111	J. Kacala	2 to 1
*Evergold	109	C. Corbett	3 to 1
Yonkel	102	C. McCrossen	12 to 1

*Shandon Farm stable entry.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The three fleetest fillies on the western turf—Esseff, Late Date, and At Top—will come together this afternoon in the Marquette handicap, and after the running of the stake the curtain will roll down on racing for the year at Lincoln Fields.

Four others — Evergold, Glynson, Yonkel, and Dusky Devil—were named overnight for the race, but hardly anybody gave them as much as a second thought. Evergold, the winner of the Crete handicap a week ago, was coupled with At Top in the Nash brothers' Shandon farm entry, but those betting on the Nash entry had At Top in mind.

Esseff, the fleet daughter of High Time, from the Dixiana stable, was the overnight favorite at the short odds of 6 to 5. Late Date was the second choice, and the entry of At Top and Evergold was third in the esteem of the players who wanted to get their bets down over night.

Heavy Track Expected.

The Marquette no doubt will be run over a difficult track, for a hard rain early yesterday afternoon thoroughly soaked the course. Such conditions are not expected to have much effect on the outcome of the race, for Esseff, Late Date, At Top, and Evergold are noted muddy track performers.

The few folks who wagered on Yonkel from Abraham Bartelstein's stable were the only ones worrying. He was considered a doubtful starter unless the sun shines bright enough this morning to dry out the course.

The Lincoln Fields season ends this afternoon after a run of 18 days. An enormous crowd was on hand for the opening on Labor day, but bad weather came along a few days later which caused the attendance to dwindle. The crowds have been growing larger for the last few days, and Col. M. J. Winn and his assistants at Lincoln Fields believe the season may go down as a financial success if the Marquette handicap this afternoon proves to be a good gate attraction.

Esseff Consistent Performer.

Esseff has been the most consistent 3 year old of the year. In her last eight starts she has won on seven occasions and was second in the other battle, having been beaten by the outsider Gay World in the revival of the Chicago Derby at Hawthorne.

She has worked exceptionally well for the Marquette and, despite the weight she is giving away to all her rivals, her backers consider her almost a certain winner. It will not be surprising if she is at even money or less at post time about 5 o'clock this afternoon. She will be ridden by Jockey W. Wright, who has piloted her to most of her victories this season.

The Marquette is backed up by the Golden Gloves purse, a dash at six furlongs which engages a good band of juveniles. Eight were named overnight for this struggle. All of them can step lively in the mud as well as the fast going.

After the close of the Lincoln Fields season the horses and the horse colony will move to Washington Park for a run of three weeks. It is the first time autumn racing ever has been offered there.

BRIEF VACATION FROM HOME RUN HITTING

Babe Ruth takes advantage of an open date in the New York Yankees' schedule to go fishing. The entire party caught only eight fish, but the veteran home run hitter landed six of them. Pitcher Johnny Allen is on the Babe's right.

After a hard day of fishing Ruth picks out a comfortable bunk and snoozes away along side one of his victims. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Frosh Provide First Test for N. U. Today

The knowledge absorbed by Northwestern's football team during the first week of practice will be reviewed today in the annual clash with the freshmen at Dyche stadium. The game will be played behind locked gates.

Reports that this year's freshman team is one of the best to matriculate at Northwestern in recent years has added interest to today's encounter. However, the yearlings have been working out only three days and consequently can be expected to offer little in the way of an organized attack.

Will Face Husky Sophomores.

From the 75 freshmen who have reported for football, Coach Maury Kent expects to recruit a starting eleven that will cope with the varsity as far as poundage is concerned. Among the husky yearling linemen are a trio from St. John's Military academy, headed by Hal Riley, the third member of this family to play at Northwestern. Bill is regular tackle on this year's varsity, while Jack was a member of the Wildcat championship teams of 1930 and 1931.

The latest Riley to enter school starred at tackle at St. John's last year. He weighs 210 pounds. His two teammates from the same school are Park Wray, 240 pound tackle, and Vange Burnett, 200 pound guard. All three are slated to start against the varsity today.

Coach Dick Hanley has nominated a starting eleven which in most respects probably will be the same that opens against Iowa at Soldiers' field next Saturday.

Cruice Wins Place.

The varsity back field will consist of Jackie Sullivan and Wally Cruice, half backs; Ollie Olson, full back, and Roy Augustson, quarter back. Cruice is the only first year man in this group. His running and passing ability has gained him a starting position at right half.

Ed Manske and Art Jens are the end choices with the remainder of the line consisting of Riley and Heuss, tackles; Whalen and Anderson, guards, and Hajek, center. The latter is a sophomore.

ILLINI FACE FROSH.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Ken Meenan, Northwestern back in 1931, will return to the gridiron in a freshman suit tomorrow when he is expected to play a stellar part in the annual varsity-freshman game. Meenan, weighing 210 pounds, has practiced as constantly as the

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Crossing the viaduct that leads from the 18th street entrance to A Century of Progress you find yourself at Prairie avenue and 18th street. You then have a chance to observe some of the remains of what was the "gold coast" 40-50 years ago.

As you look on a building still standing on the southeast corner holding on its portals a sign reading "Architects' Club of Chicago," you marvel at its beauty, its enduring beauty, and you may wonder whether what you have seen yonder over the tracks is much more than what you see here.

S. Anderson.

In 1871 Gus Byerlie had a saloon on the southwest corner of Clark and Michigan streets. A large orchestra was continually playing "Die Wacht Am Rhine" because Germany had whipped France in the war of that time. You could have a free lunch consisting of sauer kraut, kartoffel salad, wurst, sweitzer kase, schwartzbrod and a large schooner of beer all for 5 cents. S. S. Lindner.

When Carter H. Harrison was owner of the Chicago Times, Hugh E. Keough, original conductor of The Wake, was doing the races and George Siler, afterward with THE TRIBUNE, was taking care of pugilistic news. One Saturday after the early edition had gone to press, Keough, Siler and the writer were on their way to Charlie Kern's for something to eat.

I was walking between this interesting pair when HEK nudged me, then said, "I think there's no doubt that I am the greatest turf writer in the country." "Well," remarked Siler seriously, "that may be true, but I'd let some one else say it." "O, pshaw, I'm tired of hearing every one else say it," came back HEK. W. E. D.

FOOTBALL MAKES A SPORADIC START this afternoon in various sections. The Wake, however, will not begin our customary forecasting until a week hence when Iowa opens the Big Ten season against Northwestern at Soldiers' field. Even that is a week earlier than conference elevens usually begin their title season. The Iowa-Northwestern fray was advanced one week because of Iowa day at A Century of Progress.

PRISONER CHASES FLY BALL AND FINDS FREEDOM

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Ostensibly racing after a ball batted to the outfield in a game between two city workhouse inmate teams, James Turner, 25 years old, New Orleans, alleged gunman and former convict, instead leaped into a truck standing near by and drove it through the gates to freedom.

The truck had been left with its motor running while the driver made a delivery to the workhouse kitchen. Guards passed it out the gate before getting word Turner was in it. Police said they assumed Turner, alias Dan Heady, had boarded a northbound freight train after they later found the truck abandoned near a railroad line.

National Polo Tourney Opens in East Today

Delayed for a week by rain, the climax event of polo starts off with what is expected to be one of the hardest fought matches of the tournament, the draw having brought together in the opening round the finalists of the 1932 season.

Templeton won last year with the youngest team ever to win the most important title in American polo. Three of the players of that team are back this year, Michael Phipps, Winston Guest and Stewart Iglehart riding in that order ahead of J. C. Rathbone at back. Rathbone has taken the place of Raymond Guest, who shifted to Sands Point for this tournament.

Smith broke a bone in his elbow in the semi-finals of 1932 and his team went into the final with another player. This year Smith is at the top of his form and the team has, during practice, earned a place among the favored entries. John Hay Whitney of the Baldings, Ivor and Gerard, the latter a member of the British international team of 1930, round out the side.

LOU BROUILLARD STOPS HEUSER AFTER 8 ROUNDS

Boston, Mass., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Lou Brouillard, middleweight champion, tonight gave Adolph Heuser of Germany such a beating that the ranking light heavyweight defaulted at the end of the eighth round of the Boston Garden's ten round feature bout. Both of Heuser's eyes were cut by the Worcester boxer's terrific hooks.

Time :24 :48 3-5, 1:01 1:07 4-5 Two dollar mutuels paid: Social Service, $13.46 straight, $5.18 place, $4.00 show; Masked Prince, $3.90 place, $4.02 show; Peedequie, $4.74 show. Winner trained by W Lewis. Went to post at 2:15¼. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

SOCIAL SERVICE away fast and sulted by the going, drew clear before going a quarter, was steadied on the turn and coming away in stretch, was eased near end. MASKED PRINCE, a strong factor throughout held on well, wearing down PEEDEEQUE in closing strides. Latter raced a trifle wide and but for swerving in final eighth might have been a stronger factor.

SECOND RACE—One mile out of chute. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

HEADS UP, away fast but taken back and rated under restraint to final three-sixteenths, where he slowly wore down ALMA S., won without need of punishment, but had little left. ALMA S. took a short lead easily when leaving the chute, was aided by good rating, but weakened after reaching final eighth. SWITCH, on inside early and taken out after reaching the turn, closed strong and was getting to the leaders.

Winner trained by J. H. Davenport. Went to post at 3:15. At post ¾ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

SUN MEMORY, away fast and steadied when outrun by MERRY CHATTER disposed of latter quickly after reaching stretch and, continuing stoutly, won with speed in reserve. POLLY'S FOLLY well up from start, held on gamely in a fine effort. DUELIST rallied weakly when nearing end of five-eighths, then faltered.

Roseacher. Went to post at 3:42. At post ¼ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

EVEN PLAY worked his way through on inside of GALE WAY when leaving the back stretch, easily overtook THOMAS H. when ready, and came away fast as latter stopped badly in final eighth. THOMAS H., under light weight and suited by the going, displayed good speed, but was no match for winner and quit badly in final eighth. yet outstayed OLD LADY. Latter closed with fine belated speed.

CUBS RESUME SECOND PLACE FIGHT TODAY

Three Games with Reds to End Home Season.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs will get to work this afternoon at their own field on the matter of earning the best possible split out of the world series consolation money. They are confronted by three possibilities, one of which is third place, now occupied by them. The others are second and fourth places, but the payoff per men on the latter is so slim that the Cubs will shun that if it is at all possible.

The ex-National league champions have five more games on their schedule. Three will be played here with the humble Reds, one of them this afternoon, and the others in a double header tomorrow. After that the Cubs will be idle until they go to St. Louis to close the season next Saturday and Sunday.

Second Place Chances Slim.

About their only chance for second place would be to capture all their remaining games while the Pirates are breaking even in the half dozen they still must play. If the Cubs could win five and the Pirates should happen to take four out of six, the two teams would tie, and the second and third place money would have to be pooled. Fourth place would catch them only in the event of losing five in a row.

Guy Bush will step out this afternoon and try to pitch his nineteenth victory. Then he probably will be permitted to pitch next Saturday's affair against the Cardinals so as to give him a chance to fulfill his promise to pick up twenty decisions during the year. Red Lucas may be the Reds' pitcher this afternoon.

Grimm to Return to Lineup.

Manager Grimm probably will assign himself to active service at first base in one of the last two games at St. Louis. The boss has been doing his master minding from the bench since Adolph Camilli arrived from the Coast league, but the latter reported too late to be eligible for the city series.

CUBS WIN EXHIBITION

Sheboygan, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cubs whipped the Cincinnati Reds here today, 21 to 11, in an exhibition game which attracted 10,000 fans. Proceeds from the game went to a local policemen's relief association fund.

Babe Herman of the Cubs drove in six runs with two doubles and a home run. The overflow crowd made ground rules necessary and every hard hit fly ball went for extra bases. There were fifteen doubles, with the Chicagoans producing nine. Chick Hafey of the Reds hit two home runs, his circuit drive in the sixth coming with the bases loaded. Score:

BRAVES, 3; PHILLIES, 0

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Huck Betts pitched unbeatable ball in the tight spots today and the Boston Braves came through despite Austin Moore's six hit hurling to defeat the Phillies, 3 to 0. It was the only major league game of the afternoon.

The victory was the third straight for the Braves and their second shutout in succession. They remained, however, two games behind a first division berth.

Up to the ninth inning, Randy Moore's homer in the fourth was the only run of the pitchers' duel. Then Joe Mowry started off with a walk, Bill Urbanski tried a sacrifice and both runners were safe when Haslin dropped A. Moore's throw to second. R. Moore pushed them along with a sacrifice down the first base line and Buck Jordan followed with a single that drove in the last two runs. Score:

Freshmen Provide First Test for Wildcats Today

The varsity will face one of the heaviest first year teams in years as Coach Wendell Wilson's linemen average 201 pounds and his entire team 197.

The varsity starting lineup will probably include two sophomores, Antilla tackle, and Kuhm, guard, with a back field composed of Beynon, Froschauer, Portman, and Fischer.

MAROONS OPEN GATES.

Open practice will be held in the University of Chicago football camp at the Midway this afternoon for the first time since the squad assembled. The hour will be from 3 to 4 p. m., and all who are interested in the Maroons, about whom much mystery is developing, because of their strict secrecy on other days, are invited. A small stand has been erected at the practice field adjoining the field house.

Coach Shaughnessy will not promise that there will be scrimmage this afternoon, but he said yesterday there will be "some sort of a little show," including introductions of the individual players to the crowd. "I will not take any more chances with injuries than I must," he explained.

Four hours were devoted to the mastery of plays yesterday and the remainder of the time to calisthenics and tackling. Health continued to be maximum, though Gene Siess, Sidney Smith, and John Rice were on the rubbing tables with minor ailments.

MICHIGAN IN NEW FORMATION.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The much discussed guard wheel formation, which Michigan coaches introduced last spring, today received emphasis in a practice which served as preparation for tomorrow's scrimmage. Coach Harry Kipke decided it was necessary to give veteran guards additional rehearsal and to start breaking in the new candidates for the jobs it entails.

The formation is simply one in which the guards wheel about and face their own back field before the ball is snapped, and they come out of the line to lead interference. Kowalik, Savage, Borgmann, Wells, Singer, and Ponton have had practice, but the new men, Hildebrand and Ford, are not yet acquainted with it.

IRISH LOSE ROBINSON.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Jack Robinson, varsity center last year, will be lost to Notre Dame until early in November and possibly all season, it was learned today. Robinson underwent an operation for a cyst on his eye in August. Infection set in and Coach Heartly Anderson learned today that a second operation has been necessary. Tom [Kitty] Gorman of Chicago, former St. Philip star, who alternated early with Robinson last year, will become the varsity center now with two sophomores, Fred Solari of Pembroke, Mass., and Tom Dunn of Christopher, Ill., in reserve.

BADGERS MEET FROSH TODAY.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The light but fast Wisconsin football squad was given instruction today in how to win the first game of the season with the freshmen tomorrow. The contest is expected to show whether Coach Clarence W. Spear's choice of a small and speedy back field is effective.

Although the varsity squad has plenty of heavy back field candidates, their performance thus far shows them to be slow, a disadvantage interfering with execution of Wisconsin's timed shifts. John Golemgeske and Karl Schuelke, sophomore back field candidates, have been used less in scrimmage each day, but probably will be inserted against the freshmen.

IOWA STOPS N. U. PLAYS.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Coach Ossie Solem of the University of Iowa football squad made the most of today's single practice session by giving the Hawkeyes a long defensive scrimmage.

Two freshman teams had little success with Northwestern plays against the varsity combination, most of them being stopped behind the line of scrimmage. The frosh, however, completed a few forward passes for long gains.

Solem started the sophomore back field, including Robert Rook, a converted end, at half back. Dwight Hoover was at the other half back, with Russ Fisher at quarter and Dick Crayne at full back.

GOPHERS FIND TACKLE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Bill Freimuth, 6 feet 6 giant from Duluth, Minn., has apparently solved the right tackle problem for Coach Bernie Bierman at the University of Minnesota, Freimuth, who is surprisingly fast, came to the fore in last Monday's scrimmage. The other tackle is problematical, however, with Dick Smith of Rockford, Ill.; Welly Brown of St. Paul, and Phil Bengtson, reserve a year ago, drawing the most attention, and George Svendsen, the most promising candidate, still incapacitated with an infection on his neck.

BUCKEYES SHOW POWER.

Columbus, O., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—For the first time in years the Ohio State football squad went through three days of scrimmage in the first week of practice when Coach Sam Willaman called the first and second teams together today in a two and a half hour workout.

The effect of the addition of Ted Rosequist to the first string lineup at tackle was felt, for where the varsity could score only one touchdown against the second stringers in the previous practice, tonight they shoved across four.

Three complete backfield combinations were tried. The starters were Cramer, Wetzel, Keefe, and Smith. Another combination was inserted later, consisting of Pincura, Beltz, Kabealo, and McAfee, and a third consisting of Oliphant, Fischer, Homes, and Fisch were used.

PURDUE'S PASSES WORK.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Purdue's veteran backfield had little difficulty gaining ground on pass plays, but was ragged on its running attack today as Coach Noble Kiser sent the varsity against the freshmen in an offensive scrimmage. Purvis, Hecker, Pardonner and Carter took turns at passing to George Duggins and Emmett Lowery.

A shock troop backfield was formed later as the coaches sent in Leon Dailey at left half; Dick Sandefur and Butch Keegan, to full back; William Riblet, right half back, and Jim Peelee, quarter back. Dailey and Sandefur are sophomores and the others are seniors.

HAYES PICKS VARSITY.

The team comprises Antonini and Lyons, ends; Angelmyer and Benegar, tackles; Jones and Busbee, guards; Sprauer, center; Meller, quarter back; Sawicki and R. Dauer, half backs, and Walker, full back.

BIG TEN OFFICIALS MEET TODAY TO DISCUSS RULES

Western conference football officials in the Chicago territory will meet today in the offices of Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of Big Ten athletics, to discuss the rules. No general meeting is scheduled this year, but sectional discussions already have been held at Ann Arbor, Mich., and Minneapolis. Today's meeting will review the rules, rather than interpret them, Maj. Griffith said yesterday, and it is intended primarily for Big Ten officials.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—East Aurora High school opened its football season tonight by defeating St. Charles, 32 to 0. Federspiel made three touchdowns.

Cochet Defeats Barnes in Pro Tennis Debut

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, Sept. 22.—The professional debut of Henri Cochet, veteran French Davis cup star, and the brilliant play of William T. Tilden, American professional, marked the opening of the Franco-American tennis series before a crowd of several thousand at Roland Garros stadium today.

Cochet, who recently quit the amateur ranks, encountered difficulty against Tilden's partner, Bruce Barnes, but finally won, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 0-6, 6-3. Tilden displayed brilliant tennis as he defeated Martin Plaa of France in three sets. The scores were 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

The third match of the tournament will be played tomorrow with Barnes and Tilden meeting Plaa and Cochet in a doubles contest. The final two singles matches will be played Sunday.

Barnes, former University of Texas star, appeared as if he would triumph in his close battle with the French veteran. Cochet rallied after the fourth set, however, and made several brilliant shots to win.

Tilden's cannonball service kept Plaa constantly out of position. The match was stopped for an hour because of rain, but the wet courts failed to bother the American when play was resumed.

The victories of Tilden and Cochet increased interest in their match which will be played Sunday. The two old rivals will be meeting for the first time since the France-United States Davis cup matches three years ago.

Bears Open Title Defense at Green Bay

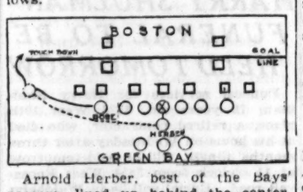
and George Trafton, former center, scouted the Bays and reported that they throw more forward passes than ever. The Packers even toss forwards when they are on their own goal line and get away with them. Much of yesterday's three hour drill was spent in developing a defense for the Packer aerials.

Bays Pull Surprise.

Halas is particularly interested in stopping the surprise pass by which Green Bay scored its touchdown against Boston. The lineup of the teams when the pass was made follows:



Arnold Herber, best of the Bays' passers, lined up behind the center. Without warning, or a shift, the ball was snapped to Herber. Al Rose, left end, ran laterally along the scrimmage line to catch Herber's pass and then turned and sprinted the six yards to the goal. Boston's secondary defense was caught napping.

Twelve thousand are expected to see tomorrow's game. The Bears and more than 50 Chicagoans will leave over the Northwestern at 6:05 tonight for Green Bay, returning at 6 o'clock tomorrow night.

WAITE, 7; MOOSEHEART, 0.

Toledo, O., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Waite High school eleven defeated the Mooseheart, Ill., team tonight, 7 to 0.

U. S. Net Team Treated Like Babies—Vines

Newport, R. I., Sept. 22.—(AP)—When Ellsworth Vines, fresh from the Davis cup campaign, came here to make his unsuccessful attempt to retire the famous Newport Casino bowl with a third straight victory, he frankly discussed the reasons for the American team's failure after obtaining a pledge that publication of his remarks would be deferred until the end of his 1933 campaign.

"We were not good enough in Paris to beat the English Davis cup players," Vines said during a Casino interview, "but there were several factors in the preparation of the team that militated against our success. For one thing, we were treated like babies.

"Too Hot to Sleep."

"One night we went to the Follies, and the first act ended at 10:30. We were bundled out of the theater to our hotel on a sizzling night. We tried to sleep, but couldn't do it. I got up and went into Keith Gledhill's room, and we talked until 2:30 in the morning.

"The air of superseriousness that marked all our actions was depressing. George Lott, Wilmer Allison, Johnny Van Ryn, and myself had been through this Davis cup play previously, and we didn't have to be convinced of its seriousness. There were phases of the training that were not to the best interests of the team, such as a match between Lott and Allison on which they had a wager and went 'all out' for four sets. The following day Lott played me and didn't even give me a workout.

Youthful Viewpoint Needed.

"Now these things may seem inconsequential, but in the light of developments I have come to the conclusion that the best plan for the United States to follow next year is to select a man with a youthful viewpoint, a man possessing international background, to direct the team in the Davis cup challenge, a man like Frank Hunter or Vinny Richards, for I see no logical objection to a professional as director of the team, or Dick Williams, if the U. S. L. T. A. insists on an amateur for the post.

"The direction of the team is all important and I think England and France are to be commended on the manner in which they handled their men. Roper Barrett, England's captain, was an old internationalist whose handling of the team had a lot to do with lifting the cup. And Rene Lacoste's handling of the French material at his command left no cause for complaint.

Hopes for New Plan.

"Our captain, Bernon Prentice, did his best to get us ready for the interzone final, but we failed miserably, except in the doubles, and I'd like to see a new plan tried next year. Let's try Hunter or Richards or Williams as nonplaying captain and see if we can fare better than we did this year."

PRENTICE EXPECTS DENIAL.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Bernon S. Prentice, captain of the American Davis cup team, was inclined to doubt the authenticity of the interview with Vines. "That doesn't sound like Vines," he stated last night. "We have been on the friendliest of terms, and I think that I know his viewpoint on the Davis cup situation thoroughly.

"I have had several letters from him since he left for the coast, and there was nothing in them that would lead me to believe that he has had a change in attitude toward me. He approved of my official report on the Davis cup competition. That in itself is enough to make me doubt the interview in Newport.

"I have a strong feeling that I will hear from Vines in the morning denying it all."

1,500 Play in Medinah Dawn to Dawn Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Nobody was looking for them to do it, but Frank Garrity, youthful professional of the Acacia Country club, dropped in with Ed Llewellyn yesterday to win the pro-amateur best ball event of Medinah's first Dawn to Dawn tournament. They traveled over the No. 3 course in 69, three under par for the route.

The Acacia twosome finished a stroke in front of a couple of 70 shooters. They included Tommy Armour and Peter Raap of the home club, and By Harcke of Northmoor and Dick Martin of Briergate. Armour had a 15 footer on the 18th by a fraction of an inch for a tie, while Raap, after finding a bunker, missed a great chip shot by an inch.

Par—out	434	454	534—36
Par—in	544	534	434—36—72
Garrity-Llewellyn—Out	334	444	545—36
Garrity-Llewellyn—In	435	424	344—33—69

Leading the amateur field on the first two courses were Edwin Schlidberg of North Shore, with 37—40—77 on No. 1, and Tom Robbins of Park Ridge on No. 2 with 38—40—78.

President Edward Forke reported that more than 1,500 came out to the Dawn to Dawn event, which was climaxed in the evening by a program of vaudeville and eight boxing bouts.

Loyola Beats St. Mel Prep Eleven, 6 to 0

Loyola academy opened its football season by defeating St. Mel, 6 to 0, in a practice game at Loyola stadium last night. McSheehy, Loyola veteran full back, scored the winning touchdown in the second quarter when he ran eight yards.

The Loyola-St. Mel lineup:

Mount Carmel High school's football team, champion of the Chicago Catholic High School league, faces its second test of the season this afternoon when it meets Horace Mann in a practice game at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. The game heads a schedule of thirteen contests in the Chicago district today.

Another championship squad, Morgan Park, which captured the Chicago Public High School league title last season, starts its 1933 campaign at Michigan City, Ind. La Salle-Peru, which annually produces one of the strongest downstate teams, faces Tilden Tech at White City stadium.

Other public school teams which will see action for the first time today include Bowen, Crane Tech, Fenger, Lindblom, and Calumet. Bowen plays Oak Park at the Oak Park stadium, Crane faces Morton at Cicero, Fenger meets Bloom of the South Suburban league at 115th and Halsted streets, and Lindblom will oppose Calumet at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue.

TOWN-TENNIS WOMEN'S TEAM WINS NET TITLE

The Chicago Town and Tennis club women's team yesterday defeated the South Shore Country club to win the Chicago league championship. The winners, coached by Lee Smith, went through the season without a defeat, winning all five matches in their last encounter. The team is made up of Eugenie Sampson, Virginia Hess, Eleanor Mueller, Lois Jaques and Ethel Dixon. The results:

Virginia Hess beat Elizabeth Hoffman, 6-3, 6-1.
Lois Jaques beat Margaret Bunting, 6-3, 6-1.
Jaques and Mueller beat McKinstry and Bunting, 6-1, 6-1.
Dixon and Browning beat Hoffman and Jones, 6-3, 6-4.

FONSECA NAMES TIETJE TO FACE INDIANS TODAY

English to Join White Sox Again.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—The snortin' White Sox worked out with great zest at the stadium here today in preparation for the big series to be played with the Indians, beginning with a single game tomorrow and concluding with a double header Sunday.

Among those who engaged in the practice was Manager Lew Fonseca, who may play in the last two games of the season at Comiskey park a week hence and who may use the city series as a device to determine whether it will be worth while for him to keep in training during the off season.

The Sox players were apathetic toward the city series, and some of them frankly have expressed a wish that the show weren't to be staged this year.

The Punch Is Gone.

In the old days, not so far back, the two Chicago outfits disliked each other heartily and the rivalry made for large attendance. This not only sweetened the pot of Commissioner Landis, whose office is maintained on post-season affairs, but it gave the players sums ranging from $400 to $1,000. It is believed that only a fraction of such amounts will be allotted to the players this year.

With inauguration of the spring series last March, from which the players received no purses, members of the Sox and Cubs met on friendly terms, and the fellows found out that each club is made up of some fine young men. While the dissipation of the old hatred was pleasant socially it may have swept away most of the spirit that used to animate the old series.

Tietje to Pitch.

But, returning to the business at hand. In the game tomorrow Fonseca will employ Leslie Tietje, the Dallas juvenile, who worked so impressively in defeating the Yankees for the third Sox victory of the present trip. He will be opposed by either Pearson or Harder.

The rumored influx of rookies, due tomorrow, will include George English, who was with the Sox for a while last season. While among the Chicagoans the young man made seven errors in handling thirty-nine chances and had difficulty in throwing from third base to the pitcher. It is said that he has improved, however, and can now throw from second to first. He was a pretty good hitter in the Texas league.

YOUNG STUHLEY BEATS MILLITI IN EIGHT ROUNDS

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight, defeated Millio Milliti, Omaha, Neb., in the eight round wind-up bout at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, last night. Stuhley was floored in the second round and claimed he was fouled, but a cursory examination by physicians at the ringside revealed he suffered no injury. In the semi-windup Harry Booker was awarded a six round decision over Johnny Fitzpatrick. Other results:

Henry Rothier beat Chuck Reed [4].
Ralph Mote beat Merrill Tonn [4].
Ossie Jefferson beat Stan Stanley [4].

PULPIT VETERANS AND WIVES MOVE TO DE LUXE HOME

Michigan Group Is Shifted to Maywood.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Fifteen retired ministers and missionaries and their wives settled their possessions yesterday in the Baptist Old People's home in Maywood, where they will spend the remainder of their days.

The group was transferred because of the recent closing and merger of the Fenton home in Fenton, Mich., with the Maywood home. Two of the party were brought to Maywood in ambulances to become patients in the home's hospital. The Maywood home, built in the fashion of a de luxe hotel, was completed in 1930 at a cost of $325,000. It is supported by an endowment of $250,000 and by voluntary gifts of the Baptist churches in Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Few of the residents of long standing are ministers and missionaries, many being former school teachers, settlement workers and lecturers. Among the newcomers were the Rev. and Mrs. David Quincy Barry, missionaries, who plied a missicn boat among the islands of Puget sound and later carried the gospel among the Indians in Oregon.

Rode 1,700 Mile Circuit.

"There were 1,700 miles of shore line to travel," explained Mrs. Barry. "During the war we visited the lumber camps where many men unfit to go to war were sent."

The Fenton group was given a royal welcome. It was rescribed by Sarah Louise Dean, superintendent, as a ceremony "marrying the two homes." There were speakers, too, the Rev. William S. Jacobs of the Maywood Baptist church, the Rev. Robert Ryerse of the Maywood Tabernacle church, and Dr. Harold Stanley Stewart of the First Baptist church of Oak Park. The Rev. A. E. Cook and Sheldon Latorette spoke for the newcomers.

Residents of the home are warm in its praise. It is different, they assert, from other group homes. They go and come as they please, except they are required to leave word in the office where they expect to be just in case something might happen to them. They may sit on the terrace or in the rock garden, or play croquet, or go to the library, the stores, a movie. Throughout the halls is maintained that atmosphere of the kind of home life that might be lived in a residential apartment.

A Romance and a Refusal.

"We have even had romances here," the superintendent confided. "One old couple took long walks and even held hands in prayer meeting. But when he got up enough courage to propose, she refused him. He looked as crestfallen as a young boy with hopes forever dashed, when he appeared for tea."

Among the older residents as a diminutive Eskimo woman, Olof Krarer, who is 75 years old. She was born in Greenland and when she was 14 years old was found by Icelanders who had been shipwrecked. The members of the colony were sure the visitors were evil spirits, the story goes, but later decided to be friendly. Finally Miss Krarer's family was induced to go to Iceland and later a Lutheran minister became interested in the girl and sent her to Canada where she worked as a servant. Later she became a lecturer.

"She is blind now, but we have hopes that she may be operated on soon so she may see," the superintendent explained. "Every one loves her here."

WILLARD DOUD, VETERAN OF 2 WARS, IS DEAD

Willard Doud, 55 years old, a veteran of the Spanish-American and world wars and a famous football player of 30 years ago at the University of Illinois, died Thursday night at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, where he had been ill for more than a year of a heart ailment.

During the world war Doud was a lieutenant commander stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, where he supervised an extensive building program launched to provide quarters for the host of recruits assembled there. He was also in the navy during the Spanish-American war, serving aboard the battleship Oregon.

He played football four years at Englewood High school, graduating in 1899. Four years later he was graduated from the University of Illinois after attaining prominence there in the gridiron sport. He entered the engineering field, both civil and mechanical, and was employed for some time by the Belt Line and Burlington railroads. Later he went into business for himself as a consulting engineer. After the world war he became vice president of a firm of architectural engineers.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Daisy Doud, 522 Sheridan road, Evanston, and a son, Webster, 23 years old, and two daughters, Jane, 15, and Ruth Anne, 9. Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston.

START DRIVE TO MAKE CHICAGO PREMIER MART

Brokers, Bankers Appeal to West.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The concerted drive to build up Chicago as the nation's financial center and to concentrate in Chicago the securities business of the middle west got under way yesterday following a meeting of bankers and brokers with the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the La Salle hotel.

Announcing its belief that attempting to persuade the New York Stock exchange to move bodily to Chicago would be futile at this time, the conferees voted to concentrate on diverting to the Chicago securities markets the great volume of securities business in central west states which has been going to New York.

The drive is to be started at this time because of the new tax burdens imposed upon stock transactions consummated in New York. These new taxes have already forced the governors of the New York Stock exchange to arrange removal from New York City, probably to Jersey City.

Several Moves Planned.

The executive committee of the Association of Commerce at yesterday's session voted unanimously to take the following action:

1. To take immediate steps to invite all important middle western corporations whose securities are now traded in New York to list these securities here and to help make a market here for their transaction.

2. To invite the outstanding security houses of the country that do not already hold memberships in Chicago trading markets to join the local markets.

3. To invite the investing public and the brokerage houses of the country to direct their orders for buying or selling securities to Chicago if they can be executed here, thereby saving the exorbitant New York taxes.

4. To invite the coöperation of Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Gov. Henry Horner to aid in making the city just as strong financially as it is now industrially.

Will Save on Taxes.

Mark Brown, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank and chairman of the special financial market committee appointed by the Association of Commerce several weeks ago, and E. C. Wampler of Lawrence Stern & Co., who outlined the plan at yesterday's meeting, emphasized the fact that the new taxes imposed in New York would make possible a saving of at least six to eight dollars on every 100 share transaction carried out through Chicago exchanges.

The new city tax in New York City is to be 4 cents per share. This is in addition to the federal tax and a special state tax in New York of four to five cents per share. In Illinois there is no state or city tax on security transactions. In New York there also will be a tax of 5 per cent on gross earnings of brokerage concerns.

Those present at yesterday's meeting said they had no intention of advocating the formation of a new stock market in Chicago, but would adhere to the policy of strengthening and building up the Chicago Stock exchange, the Chicago Curb exchange, and the securities department of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Prominent Chicagoans Join Campaign.

Among those present at the meeting were George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; William Dean, president of Sprague Warner & Co.; Albert Cahn, chairman of Kuppenheimer & Co.; William P. Sidley, corporation attorney; Harold C. Smith, president of Illinois Tool Works; Alan F. Wilson, member of the board of trade; Avery Brundage, contractor; Robert C. Ross, vice president of Joseph T. Ryerson & Co.; C. Leslie Rice, vice president of Western Electric company, and other business and financial leaders.

Meanwhile yesterday the banks were moving to improve bank credit facilities for traders on Chicago exchanges. The special subcommittee of the Chicago Clearing House association were preparing its recommendation for a reduction of the fee charged for handling call loans for out of town banks desiring to lend money to traders in Chicago markets. This recommendation will be in the hands of the clearing house committee next week, it was reported, after which it will be presented to the entire clearing house association for a vote.

Will Seek Western Stocks.

The first move by the association of commerce group, it was learned, will be to employ an expert to head the drive to bring new securities business here.

Some of the stocks of middlewest and western companies which the committee will seek to have listed in Chicago are those of Pullman, Inc., Montgomery Ward [common], Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, J. I. Case, Deere & Co., Allis Chalmers, Nash, Chrysler, General Motors and Transamerica.

The committee will concentrate on middle western and western companies, the natural field of the Chicago exchanges. No attempt will be made to invade the east.

It is proposed to enlist the Chicago banks in the campaign to persuade companies with which they do business to help build up a market for their securities in Chicago.

The special floor committee of the Chicago stock exchange, headed by R. Arthur Wood, former president of the exchange, will tie in with the drive sponsored by the association of commerce.

Show Independent Spirit.

It was apparent yesterday that for the first time in its history the Chicago stock exchange was getting enthusiastic about stepping out on its own. In past years the Chicago exchange would take no action until the Plan to Make Chicago Financial Center of U. S.

Stock Trade's New Site May Be Jersey City

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Determined to transfer the bulk of stock trading to New Jersey as soon as Mayor O'Brien puts his signature to the emergency tax laws, the organization committee of the New Jersey Stock exchange today settled down to a selection of a site, with the Ex-Change Place terminal of the Pennsylvania railroad in Jersey City most likely to be favored.

The site committee, including Howard Froelick, Morton S. Stein, and Arthur Myles conferred with Mayor Frank A. Hague in Jersey City this morning and then inspected the terminal in company with George Le Boutillier, Pennsylvania's vice president.

However, Newark has not been dropped from consideration, and some members of the committee conferred with Newark city commissioners today. A possible site for the curb exchange was also discussed.

No Announcement Made.

Eight thousand square feet were found to be available, and the accessibility of the location from lower Manhattan appeared to carry weight with the committee. No announcement was made, however, and from other sources it was intimated that formal declaration might be withheld until the last minute to give brokers opportunity to rent office space at reasonable prices.

The New Jersey exchange will open for trading Oct. 2, according to present plans, in about twenty-five leading stocks. As wire and other facilities are improved, more stocks will be transferred until the bulk of trading has been taken from New York. Stocks listed in New Jersey will no longer be traded on the New York floor, it was said.

The committee organizing the New Jersey Curb exchange will meet Monday morning at the office of its chairman, Hermand N. Rodewald, 15 Broad street. Five hundred and twenty-nine of the curb's 990 regular and associate members here have agreed to join the New Jersey Curb and more signatures are expected.

Point to Folly of Tax.

Resigned to moving much of their business from lower Manhattan, brokers today pointed to what they called the folly of such local taxation as the city proposes to levy.

Stressing the ease of evasion, they predicted little revenue would accrue to the city, and much ill will.

At Albany state officials saw the state budget imperiled through the loss of a great part of the state transfer tax income, which last year totaled $34,000,000. Gov. Lehman, it was said, was apprehensive of the outcome if the security traders go through with their program.

Banks shared in the apprehension. Not only will lower Manhattan institutions lose much of their transfer business, but they will also be compelled to set up special banking machinery in New Jersey if they are to continue to give their accounts their customary service.

See Peril in Move.

Other downtown interests also felt their own future imperiled by the decision of the exchange to cross the river, not that Wall street expects to become a desert overnight. In fact, the proposed New Jersey trek to avoid the mounting tax burden on this side of the river, specifically the city taxes, would involve only a relatively small shift of facilities at the start.

What gives downtown interests most concern is apprehension that once the business goes elsewhere it will not return, and that the transfer of actual trading across the river in time will attract brokers and allied business men to follow it.

COUZENS PLANS TO AIR DETROIT BANK CRASH ON FLOOR OF SENATE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—United States Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] is going to carry to the floor of the senate several aspects of this city's banking situation which he finds objectionable.

In his third public statement since the termination of the one man grand jury which for three months investigated the closing of two national banks here, the senator today urged a "united, intelligent and militant public opinion" to bring to light facts behind the closing of the banks.

In a previous statement Couzens had declared that he was "prevented" from giving further sensational evidence to the grand jury by Judge Harry B. Keidan, the one man jury, who rendered a finding that there was no criminality in the conduct of bank officials, and that the banks were solvent when they were closed in February.

Principal objections of the senator to banking practices here have been the formation of holding companies for the two national banks and other affiliates.

Dollar Value Lower After Early Upturn

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—The dollar shifted erratically in the foreign exchange markets today and after gaining sharply against foreign currencies relapsed and closed the day slightly lower at 64.38 cents in gold.

While the dollar quotation changed nervously the treasury fixed a price of $31.75 an ounce for newly mined gold, an increase of 42 cents over yesterday's price.

Dollar Rallies at London.

The dollar had a sinking spell in the London and Paris markets before the trading opened here, but rallied to finish near yesterday's quotations. Foreign speculators were reported hesitant in taking new positions on either side of the market because of the conflicting reports on inflation coming out of Washington.

When the New York market opened quotations shifted frequently, but the dollar generally managed to maintain moderate gains over principal foreign monies. The pound dropped 2 cents, but later rallied to close at $4.79¼, off ½ cent for the day.

Worth 64.17c at Lowest Level.

The French franc first reacted to 6.06 then rallied to close at 6.03 cents, indicating a gold value for the dollar of 64.38 cents as compared with 64.44 yesterday. At its lowest quotation in the Paris market the dollar touched 64.17 cents in gold. While steady against the dollar, the pound was weak against the principal gold currencies.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed exports of $8,333,300 to France and a corresponding reduction in stocks held under earmark for foreign account.

Dutch guilders rose 6 points against the dollar to close at 62.73 cents. Canadian dollars closed 97.81¼ cents, an advance of 6¼ points.

EASTERN ROADS TO CUT FARES BY MILEAGE BOOKS

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Restoration of mileage books is planned by the eastern railroads as part of a general reduction in passenger fares to be considered by all the railroads at a meeting which is expected to be held next week. Books good for 2,000 miles of travel would be sold for $54, or at the rate of 2.7 cents a mile, compared with the present basic rate of 3.6 cents.

Last summer the western lines began the sale of scrip books which, if fully used, provided travel at the rate of 2.7 cents a mile. As this is the rate which the eastern lines will put in effect, their sale at this rate would become general when the eastern plans materialize.

While the east and west are in agreement on mileage book rates, there is a difference of opinion on what adjustment should be made in the basic rate.

Ponder Plans for Grouping Rails to Effect Economies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—"Ambitious schemes" for effecting economies in railroad operations through consolidations are to be investigated by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation.

"The Prince" consolidation plan, submitted to President Roosevelt last spring by Frederick H. Prince, Boston financier, is typical of the schemes to be scrutinized, the coördinator said today. This plan, he added, might more appropriately be called the "Barriger" plan, J. W. Barriger, now head of the railroad division of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, having supervised the preparation of it.

Various Schemes Suggested.

Various "ambitious" schemes had been suggested for the concentration of the railroads through corporate consolidation or other means into a very few great systems or even into a single system, Mr. Eastman said.

"The Prince-Barriger" plan proposes to combine the railroads into seven or eight systems, two in the east, two in the west and three or four in the south.

"Very large economies are claimed for these plans," the coördinator remarked. "For example, it has been claimed that it would save something like $740,000,000 in operating expense on the basis of 1932 traffic, or about 30 per cent of the total operating expense for that year."

Should Check Any Possible Plan.

Mr. Eastman believed he should check the possibility of very large economies said to inhere in consolidation plans, and that for the purpose of such check he had selected the Prince plan as typical, "in view of the fact that its claimed economies have been indicated quite definitely and it has been worked out in much detail."

"It is the thought that such a check of the Prince plan will serve the purpose of a general check-up on schemes for the unification of railroads into a very few or a single system, since the purported economies would in all of them be obtained in much the same way," he added. "In addition to the possible economies, the effect of such schemes upon labor and communities and upon the development of the country will be considered, and also their financial and legal aspects."

STOCKS STAGE SHARP REBOUND ON BUYING WAVE

Liquor, Mining and Oil Issues Do Best.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—Stocks displayed a strong urge to recover today. In active trading gains ranging from 1 to 5 points were scored all along the line, largely as the result of a brisk upturn in the final hour.

Improved technical conditions furnished the principal ground for the turn. With the recent selling apparently having removed a weight from the market's shoulders, the list on the whole found no great difficulty in forging ahead on replacement of speculative long positions and in the face of a further decline in wheat.

A firm opening gave way to irregularity as fresh selling cropped up on what was presumed to be a "secondary reaction." The market, however, drew persistent support on that break and, with shorts running to cover, a rally took place and gained headway in late trading.

Buying Increases Near Close.

The last hour brought out buying of a really substantial character for the first time since the selling movement began earlier in the week. Prices of speculative favorites were lifted sharply in some cases as traders hurried to retire from recently established short positions in the face of competition from new buyers.

Sentiment was nourished not only by a strong bond market but by the ability of wheat to absorb offerings on the dips. Publication of reports of further gains in car loadings, a day earlier than usual, was another factor in the rise.

Traders gave only minor attention to the narrow movements of the dollar in the foreign exchange market. For once inflation prophecies took a secondary position as a market cue. Traders seemed to be paying strict attention to capitalizing on the healthier internal position following yesterday's break.

Volume Tops 3,315,000 Shares.

Under a well distributed leadership the market's late rally was impressive and carried through to the close. The turnover was 3,315,000 shares.

Stocks that did best were those that dropped the hardest in recent selling and the ones that currently enjoy the most enthusiastic speculative support. Pronounced strength in the gold issues, some of the alcohols and an oil or two stood out. Homestake, for instance, sold at a new high, but later backed off for a net gain of 6 points. U. S. Smelting was next strongest in point of swing, closing 5 points up on the day. Among other metal highlights were American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Dome and McIntyre. Anaconda, Kennecott, and other coppers did well.

National Distillers took the day's honors in its division with a net application of 4 points. Industrial Alcohol was about 2 points up, but other "liquors" were rather narrow.

New Well Helps Oils.

Speculators were quick to respond to the news of the bringing in of a big well jointly for the Seaboard and Tidewater Oil companies in Anderson county, Texas. Heavy buying of Seaboard jacked the stock up 4⅝ points net. Good buying of other oils was in evidence, especially Consolidated, Pure Oil, and Standard of California. Standard of New Jersey, however, worked lower.

Public Service, Consolidated Gas, and other utilities as a group were well favored.

U. S. Steel, American Can and most other pivotal industrials averaged a point higher on the day, while rails improved briskly in the last hour on the car loadings showing.

NAME TRUSTEES TO PLAN FRISCO REORGANIZATION

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Federal Judge Charles B. Faris today appointed James M. Kurn and John G. Lonsdale as trustees of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company, which has a bankruptcy suit pending, to effect reorganization. They have been acting as receivers of the railroad.

The appointments were made on the application of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to facilitate presentation of a new plan for reorganization. A plan presented by the company has been criticized at hearings before the interstate commerce commission in Washington.

Kurn's salary was fixed at $30,000 a year and Lonsdale's at $18,000.

May Sell Detroit Exchange Building to Cover Loan

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Sale of the Detroit stock exchange building at public auction if the delinquent payments on a claim held against it by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company are not settled by Feb. 18, 1934, was ordered today in federal court. The company sued the Union Company of Detroit, parent corporation for the stock exchange building; the Union Guardian Trust company, and the Detroit stock exchange and its building corporation. The building, the insurance company contended, was pledged by the Union company in 1931 as security on a $125,000 loan from the insurance company. Payments due last March have not been made, the insurance company declared.

Urge Government to Pay Closed Bank Depositors

A resolution urging that the federal government create an agency to take over the frozen assets of closed banks and pay depositors was passed at a massmeeting held in the Blackhawk park fieldhouse, Lavergne and Belden avenues, last night. The meeting was called by the Cragin State bank depositors' justice committee.

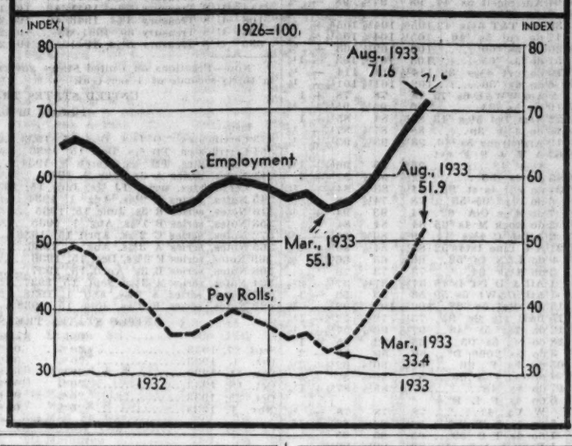
Employment and Pay Rolls in Manufacturing Industries 1932-1933



State Enjoys Big Gain in Employment

The leverage supplied by the adoption of codes under the national industrial recovery act was mainly responsible for raising employment and pay rolls in Illinois to a more than seasonal degree it was reported yesterday by the state department of labor.

Employment increased 8.5 per cent and pay rolls were up 9 per cent from July 15 to Aug. 15 for 1,723 manufacturing and nonmanufacturing establishments in Illinois which employed 333,907 wage earners last month and disbursed $6,962,111 a week in wages.

The gains were considerably sharper than those for any month in therecords of the department of labor, which extend back to 1922. They were, furthermore, several times greater than the average seasonal improvement of the last twelve years.

Equal to December, 1931.

By virtue of the increases the volume of employment was elevated to that for December, 1931, and total wage payments almost to the level of March, 1932. For all reporting industries employment in August was 19.9 per cent in excess of that in August, 1932, and 23.1 per cent above that in March, 1933. Pay rolls surpassed those for August, 1932, by 22.5 per cent, and those for last March by 33.0 per cent.

Eleven hundred reporting manufacturing establishments reported gains of 11.5 per cent in employment and 12.5 per cent in pay rolls from July to August, and 623 nonmanufacturing concerns raised employment 3.2 per cent and pay rolls 4.0 per cent.

On the other hand, the announcement notes, the total actual manhours worked increased only 3.5 per cent for all industries, and the average hours worked per week per employé decreased 3.9 per cent, from 40.7 in July to 39.1 in August.

Improvement in Chicago.

In the Chicago metropolitan area 884 establishments expanded 8.0 per cent in employment and 7.7 per cent in pay rolls. Seven hundred and seventy-two Chicago firms reported the same improvement in employment and a gain of 7.0 per cent in pay rolls.

Manufacturing plants in this city took on new workers to the extent of 12.9 per cent, and augmented wage disbursements 12.3 per cent. Every main group save textiles showed improvement in both categories. However, employment in nonmanufacturing concerns edged up only 1.8 per cent and pay rolls only 1.7 per cent.

Of the total of 212,194 workers reported by Chicago establishments, 40,060, or 18.9 per cent, received wage increases during August.

Shawinigan Water & Power Reports Demand at Record

The power load, both primary and secondary, on the lines of the Shawinigan Water and Power company has increased steadily in the last few months until the demand is the largest in the company's history, it is announced. The board of directors has instructed the management to push the completion of the plant at Rapids Blanc, Que. It is planned to bring the plant up to a capacity of at least 80,000 horse power by May 1.

ILLINOIS' AILING COAL INDUSTRY IS AIDED BY CODE

State Has Chance to Regain Markets.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Ailing for a decade, the Illinois coal industry is in position to recapture its natural market, the Chicago industrial district, as a result of the adoption of the national coal code.

The code goes a long way to overcome the competitive disadvantage under which the industry has labored in this state for the last several years. The spread in wage rates between the Illinois mines and the southeastern nonunion areas is narrowed greatly under the terms of the code approved by President Roosevelt and Administrator Johnson.

Wages Raised Elsewhere.

The new minimum wage rates established in Kentucky, West Virginia and other states that have been making inroads into the Chicago market are raised to $4.20 to $4.60 under the terms of the code. In recent years mines in those areas were hiring miners for as low as $2.50 and $3 while Illinois paid its union labor $5 a day. This enabled the east and southeast to undersell the Illinois operators in Chicago. The better quality of the outside coal was more than enough to offset the advantage of lower freight costs which the Illinois industry enjoyed.

Labor is the most important item in production of coal accounting for 60 to 80 per cent of cost. This rendered Illinois helpless in the face of the outside competition.

Less State Coal Used.

Ten years ago Illinois mines provided two-thirds of the coal used in the Chicago market, which is the greatest coal consuming area of its size in the world. In recent years only one-third of the coal used in this industrial district has come from Illinois mines.

With the wage differential between the two areas lessened Illinois again has a chance to compete. Illinois operators are hailing the enactment of the code as a harbinger of better times for the state.

It is not believed that the southern mines can again ship coal to a city like Decatur, Ill., and despite the wage differential undersell mines only sixty miles away.

The code does not affect wages and working hours in this state. It affects few Illinois mines. It prescribes a forty hour week for all fields and retains the $5 minimum wage in this state. It is in the changes in other fields that Illinois stands to gain.

State Auditor Authorizes Opening Rock Island Bank

State Auditor Barrett yesterday authorized the reopening of the Rock Island Bank and Trust company of Rock Island on Sept. 25. The bank has been closed since Aug. 7 for examination. The treasury at Washington further announced that licenses to resume business had been issued to the First National bank of Cullom, Ill.; the First National bank of Sumner, Ill., and the Alpena Trust and Savings bank of Alpena, Mich. A. B. Culhane has been appointed receiver for the Rockford, Ill., National bank.

Freight Car Loadings Rise 80,629 Over Preceding Week

Carloadings for the week ended Sept. 16 advanced 80,629 cars over the total for the preceding week and 64,770 cars over the corresponding week of 1932. While maintaining for the nineteenth consecutive week increases over the like 1932 weeks, the railroads failed to offset the recession of 95,265 cars in the Labor day holiday week. The total for the week was 652,016 cars.

This information was disclosed yesterday in the weekly carloading report of the American Railway association.

Miscellaneous freight loaded during the week ended Sept. 16 totaled 231,447 cars—an increase of 26,892 over the preceding week and of 14,617 over the corresponding week of 1932.

Less than carload, 172,371—an increase of 24,215 over the preceding week but a decline of 4,577 cars from the like week of 1932.

Grain Shows Gain.

Grain and grain products, 31,457—an increase of 4,653 over the preceding week but a loss of 4,433 from the like 1932 week.

Forest products, 25,219—an increase of 2,959 over the preceding week and of 7,169 over 1932.

Ore, 40,081—a gain of 5,385 over the preceding week and of 33,523 over 1932.

Coal, 124,805—an increase of 15,463 over the preceding week and of 18,013 over 1932.

Coke, 6,571, a decrease of 267 from the preceding week but a gain of 3,099 over 1932.

Live stock, 20,065, an increase of 1,329 over the preceding week but 1,641 below 1932.

The report also disclosed that there were a number of advances over the corresponding week of 1931 when car loadings were starting the downward movement that was only checked a few months ago. Among the increases shown were in ore, with 10,226 cars over the 1931 week; coal, 1,800 cars, and coke, 3,099.

Wipe Out Their Losses.

A large part of the loss from the pre-Labor day totals was attributed to the coal division. Strikes in the east held down coal shipments, but with the signing of the coal industry's code by President Roosevelt the association estimates that this section will move forward again.

Among the divisions which are usually held to reflect business both merchandise and miscellaneous freight more than wiped out their pre-Labor day losses.

In preceding years it generally has been some weeks before car loadings wiped out the customary Labor day recessions, consequently the railroads are not much disturbed over last week's showing.

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER DECLINE AS MILLERS BUY

Million Bushels of Futures Taken.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation in the grain markets which developed Thursday was carried over into yesterday's session, with wheat dropping 3¼ to 3½ cents under the finish of the previous day to a low of 91½ cents for the May future. At the extreme the market showed over 10 cents below the high on Tuesday.

The break brought in an excellent class of buying, headed by mills, and it was estimated as high as 1,000,000 bushels of wheat futures were taken out of the pit on the decline. A rally of nearly 3 cents from the inside figure followed. The finish was 1½ to 1⅝ cents lower for the day, with December delivery closing at 89⅝ to 89⅝ cents and May at 93⅝ to 93¾ cents.

Other grains followed wheat, but in the main showed relatively more strength.

Corn Steady, Oats Higher.

Corn was ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher at the close, with December 50⅝ to 50¾ cents. Oats gained ¼ to ⅝ cent, the December being 39⅜ to 39½ cents at the last. Rye was off ⅜ to 2¼ cents for the day, with December selling at 70 cents at the close. Barley gained ½ to ⅞ cent, closing at 57⅝ cents for the December.

Out of the welter of controversial reports regarding inflation and other influences of a political character, which have become the main factors in influencing the trend of the markets, the trade yesterday appeared to have gleaned several facts. The belief prevailed that strong political and other pressure is being placed upon President Roosevelt by those in favor of inflation and those opposed to such action, and that the trend of the grain markets would to a considerable extent determine which side has its way.

See U. S. Buying Foodstuffs.

The possibility that the government might come into the market as a buyer of wheat and corn under the proposed plan to donate $75,000,000 for relief purposes came in for some attention, as did the statement by Senator Bankhead that the government had been asked to advance farmers 10 cents a pound on their cotton. It was figured that if such a plan were good for the south, the grain farmers also should receive consideration, especially as there are more of the latter.

What were regarded as important developments in the supply and demand position in wheat came overnight, but were lost sight of by the trade in general, although they were claimed by close observers to be materially more important as a lasting market influence than prospective inflation in the currency.

It was announced that Germany would fix minimum prices next year only on the amount of wheat used domestically, with planting of wheat and rye controlled; increases in acreage prohibited, and some reduction demanded. As offerings of wheat for export from Germany have had some effect on foreign markets lately, it was believed this would ultimately have a strengthening effect.

FEDERAL PROBE OF BOSTON BANK TO BE EXTENDED

Boston, Mass., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Department of justice agents investigating the affairs of the Federal National bank and its affiliates today estimated that irregularities would approach the $2,000,000 mark.

Five officials of the banks have been indicted and the federal authorities said indictments against at least three others would be sought for misapplication of $1,000,000. Irregularities charged in indictments already returned totaled $600,000.

Special Assistant Attorney General Irving G. McCann today ordered a further survey of records of the Federal National and three of its affiliates, the Middlesex National bank of Lowell, the State National bank of Lynn, and the Inman Trust company of Cambridge.

Theodore M. Logan, president of the closed State National bank of Lynn, pleaded not guilty today in federal court to an indictment charging misapplication of funds by means of false entries.

Gold Producers Are Asked to Join in Move to Aid U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A call to all gold producers in the United States to meet Oct. 24 to form an organization to coöperate with policies of the national administration, was issued today by the Mining Association of California. George W. Starr, association president, announced the dispatch of a message to President Roosevelt thanking him for permitting the sale of newly mined gold in the world market.

Ask $10,000,000 RFC Loan for Surety Bondholders

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The protective committee for holders of mortgage bonds guaranteed by the National Surety company has conferred with members of the Reconstruction Finance corporation on the granting of a $10,000,000 loan, out of which partial payment would be made to all holders of these securities.

Corn Products Will Pay 1 Pct. in Common Stock

Corn Products Refining company yesterday declared a dividend of 1 per cent in common stock on the common shares, in addition to the regular dividend of 75 cents a share on the common.

LARGE RAILROAD ORDERS PLEDGED; PRICE CUT ASKED

One Million Ton Purchase Now Expected.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Railroads of the country already have pledged themselves to purchase a total of about 600,000 tons of steel rails, orders for an additional 150,000 tons are in sight, and there is a good possibility that the aggregate may reach the 1,000,000 ton mark during the next ten days, it was learned today.

With this huge backlog of business definitely in sight, administration officials are said to be preparing to begin active negotiations with the steel producers to induce them to accept a lower price for the materials to encourage the flow of new volume into the rail mills.

Expect Concessions.

There is little doubt expressed that concessions will be granted in view of the huge potential demand for rails.

At the same time, additional evidence was found substantiating reports previously printed here that the RFC would finance a huge equipment pool for modernization of present rail rolling stock. An outstanding rail executive has been asked to head the equipment organization, it was learned.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific is willing to cooperate in any rail buying program of the carriers and could use some new rails, Henry A. Scandrett, president of the road, said today.

Carriers Would Aid.

The carriers apparently are willing to support the administration program in the event that the steel producers agree to make a further cut in the price of the material, and a number of roads already are figuring requirements.

R. V. Fletcher, counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, is querying rail managements on the possibility of buying in the event prices are cut.

Otis Steel.

Investors' Guide: Please give me general information with reference to Otis Steel company.—Miss ". F. G.

Answer: Otis Steel company is one of the smaller units in the steel industry. Normally about three-quarters of its output is taken by the automobile industry.

Improvement in automobile production during the second quarter of 1933 enabled the company to finish that period with a net loss of less than half the loss reported in the second quarter of 1932. Loss for the first half was $958,000, against loss of $1,340,000 for the first six months of 1932.

Automobile production in 1932 dropped to its lowest point in many years. Slackened demand for steel and lower prices for such steel as was sold resulted in loss of $2,836,000 for the year, against loss of $1,571,000 for 1931. Net income in 1930 was $860,000, against net income of $3,688,000 for 1929.

Inability of the company to fund its $5,000,000 expenditures for completion of a continuous strip mill, and depletion of current funds as a result of unsatisfactory operations have eaten into working capital. At the close of 1932 current assets, including $578,000 cash, totaled $4,621,000 and current liabilities were $2,622,000. Working capital dropped to $2,000,000, against $8,833,000 at the close of 1930.

Funded debt totals $10,827,000. Rather than deplete working capital further the management decided to have the company default on interest due March 1, 1933, and Sept. 1, 1933.

There are outstanding 115,034 shares of 7 per cent $100 par prior preferred and 841,002 shares of no par common.

A continued upturn in business should enable the management to present a plan of reorganization. The 6s, due 1941, are a speculation. Both the preferred and common are purely speculative.

Insurance Moratorium.

Investors' Guide: I am considering the purchase of a life annuity. It provides for loan and surrender values. I would like to know if, in view of the moratorium, these loan or surrender values would be available, or does the morntorium apply to life insurance only?—H. J. A.

Answer: At the time the insurance moratorium went into effect it specifically prohibited payments under surrender value or loan provisions of policies, subject to certain exceptions. The act did not apply to cash paid in after the effective date of the moratorium. This in itself should thereby leave the policy you contemplate taking out free from restrictions.

Some companies have relaxed their former strict attitude in regard to the insurance moratorium and are now granting loans where the cash will not be used for hoarding or speculative purposes.

START DRIVE TO MAKE CHICAGO PREMIER MARKET

Brokers and Bankers Will Appeal to West.

New York exchange had set the example or had indicated its approval.

The first sign of independent action on the part of the Chicago exchange came several months ago when its officers announced revision of rules to eliminate abuses that had been possible during the boom days. The action was taken prior to similar action by the New York exchange.

Even members of the Chicago stock exchange and the board of trade who are western representatives of New York houses yesterday began to speak enthusiastically of the move to boost Chicago as the financial center of the nation.

"I am strongly in favor of the move," remarked the resident partner of one of the big international brokerage houses yesterday. "I believe that customers should consider the fact that the New York state and city taxes now being levied on stock transactions in New York amount to anywhere between six and eight dollars per 100 shares, a sizable sum in itself.

Urges Turning to West.

"In addition, there is the fact that while the east has been financing a vast number of leading American industrial and other companies, these companies do the greater part of their business in the west and have their headquarters here. The closer the companies come to the people at home, the more friends they will have."

The Chicago stock exchange announced yesterday that a membership had been posted for transfer to Thomas H. Gammack, partner of Gammack & Co., members of the New York stock exchange with offices in New York and Pittsburgh.

TOBACCO FIRMS AGREE TO PAY GROWERS MORE IF U. S. HOLDS ALOOF

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A spokesman for domestic buyers of flue cured tobacco today told the farm adjustment administration the companies would pay an average of 17 cents a pound up to next March 31 if the government would keep hands off their business meantime.

Speaking at the formal hearing on the marketing agreement for flue cured tobacco offered by the farm administration, S. Clay Williams, president of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, assailed the government's program and offered a substitute. Williams said the government's plan had two fundamental defects. He argued that it would not bind any of the companies that signed it to buy any tobacco whatever and would place the tobacco manufacturers "under government control."

In addition to paying an average of 17 cents a pound, Williams said the companies he represented would buy between Sept. 25 and next March 31 "at least the number of pounds of flue cured tobacco of the 1933 crop that it used of flue cured tobacco in its manufacturing business in the United States during the fiscal period comprising the twelve months ended June 30, 1933."

Williams said he represented, among others, P. Lorillard company, Liggett & Myers Co., Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co., the Philip Morris Tobacco company, and the American Tobacco company.

LIGHT HOGS RISE TO HIGHEST MARK OF YEAR TO DATE

Top Within 10c of Best Level in 23 Months.

Further gains in the market for light hogs yesterday carried the top price at Chicago to $5.45, within 10 cents of the highest mark here in twenty-three months. The high point of 1932 was $5.55, made in July, while the previous high point for 1933 on full carload lots was $5.40, in May. A small lot at that time reached $5.50.

Far eastern points reported the first $6.00 hogs of the year yesterday, equaling the highest sale since October, 1931. Yesterday's advances were confined to the hogs weighing under 200 pounds, which are scarce and selling at the top quotation at all principal points. Medium and heavy hogs ruled steady to 10 cents lower at Chicago, with spots off more at the close in the extreme weights and sows.

Average Down 5 Cents.

The general average for the day moved down 5 cents to the $4.75 line. At the high point in May when lard type hogs were selling near the top of the market, the daily average price of hogs reached $5.20. The high daily average in 1932 was $5.00.

The erratic movement of the grain market yesterday made buyers cautious in the rank and file of hogs, but the proportion of light and underweight stock selling at the top quotations was below the requirements of the trade. The shortage of light weight hogs at other places has increased eastern buying orders here. Shipments from Chicago for the first five days of the week at 19,700 compare with 13,188 a week ago and with 11,029 a year ago.

In two weeks hog prices have advanced 80 to 90 cents, increasing the value of a full 23,000 pound carload of top grades $185 in this time. Since the government started killing off pigs the average price of hogs at Chicago has advanced 21 per cent.

Pig Movement Heavy.

The movement of pigs to all markets continue heavy, but shipments are expected to taper off after the middle of next week as the goal of almost 6,000,000 head nears. Twenty markets yesterday killed 175,000 pigs for the government, against 109,000 the preceding Friday. It is estimated that the slaughtering of pigs over the entire country now is running above 200,000 daily.

Little was doing in the cattle alleys yesterday. Only 2,000 head arrived and these were soon sold at generally steady prices. A mixed load of steers and heifers averaging 837 pounds topped the market at $6.25, the bulk of the crop consisting of plain to fairly good grades that sold at $5.00 to $6.00. Butcher stock sold steady. Calves dropped 25 to 50 cents further, closing $2.00 to $2.25 under a week ago. Lambs met narrower outlet and slumped mostly 25 cents yesterday, both natives and westerns going to packers, sorted, at $7.25 and under. Current quotations are mostly 25 cents lower than a week ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and as no sales were reported prices remained unchanged with spots quoted at 3.62c and forward shipments at 3.60c. Evening up in the spot month, trading in which ceased today, caused considerable irregularity in that position in the futures market, but otherwise the market was generally lower. There was a late rally from extreme declines and closing prices showed net losses of only 1 to 2 points. Sales, 8,700 tons. Prices follow:

Be a Leading Beautician

Marinello Beauticians have always shown the way. They have many imitators—but there is nothing that takes the place of a Marinello certificate. It unquestionably establishes its holder's leadership and authority.

Armed with a Marinello certificate you can depend upon being placed in the best positions to garner the reputation for graduating the best operators in the profession.

Moler's Private Lesson Course in BEAUTY CULTURE is so original it has no competition—no imitators—nothing just as good!

It will continue after the NRA code of shorter hours and guaranteed salaries is accepted.

But the Half Rate Offer will be eliminated because of the minimum tuition. All codes must be accepted by Oct 1st at the latest and will probably be accepted before—so if you can't start right now it is safer to make your reservation.

Let Moler's World Fair diploma and Century Certificate be the means of obtaining the better jobs or your own shop.
